TRAGEDY STRIKES PHILIPPINES

Plane Exploded While in Mid-Air Says Survivor

Sabotage Theory Investigated After Newsman's Account; 26 Die

MANILA (AP)—Vice-President Carlos P. Garcia took over the reins of government today as the Philippines and the Free World mourned the death of President Ramon Magsaysay with 25 others in a mountainside plane crash.

Garcia flew in from the SEATO conference in Australia several hours after Magsaysay's charred body was found in the wreckage of his plane on Cebu Island.

The 60-year-old vice-president took the oath of office as fourth president of the Philippine Republic. He will serve until after next November's presidential elections.

The new president said he plans no changes in the cabinet and will himself continue to fill the post of secretary of foreign affairs he had held under Magsaysay.

CRASHED IN JUNGLE

Only one passenger, a Philippine newspaper man, survived the crash which claimed 26 lives, including several leading government officials. The president was returning from giving two commencement speeches in Cebu.

A close guard was placed around the wreckage as officials made clear they had not ruled out the possibility of Communist sabotage.

As defence secretary, Magsaysay had wrecked the Communist Huk rebel movement in the infant island republic.

The sole survivor of the crash—Nestor Mata of the Philippine Herald—told his paper the plane had exploded before it hit the mountainside. The Herald said, however, his account contained discrepancies and judged he was suffering from shock when he dictated it. Hospital authorities said Mata was suffering from second- and third-degree burns and had a 50-50 chance for survival.

The dead in the crash included Brig.-Gen. Benito Ebuen, commanding general of the Philippine air force; Education Secretary Gregorio Hernandez Jr., Representative Pedro Lopez of Cebu and former senator Tomas Cabili.

A search party which included Magsaysay's brother, Jesus, found Magsaysay's remains.

The president's body was virtually unrecognizable. Identification was made through personal effects he carried.

ONE SURVIVES

The plane crashed in jungle so dense it took ground rescuers 18 hours to reach the scene. Both wings of the plane were sheared off and at least half the craft was a charred ruin.

The LESTER PATRICK Story

(After more than half a century connected with ice hockey, both in Canada and the U.S., Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 10-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the second installment.

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

A STAR IS BORN

Lester Patrick was born in Drummondville, Quebec, a town 65 miles from Montreal, on Dec. 31, 1883.

He was the eldest child of a family of nine, five boys and four girls. His father, Joseph Patrick, an Irishman and a stout Protestant, was later to take up residence in Victoria, become an alderman and one of the fathers of the automobile ferries which now have attained major importance. Joe Patrick, as he was affectionately called, and his wife, both passed away in Victoria but were happy in celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary surrounded by eight children.

When Lester was one year old the family moved to Carmel Hill, also in the Montreal area, where father Patrick operated a general store.

Archie Wills

Until he was eight Lester grew up with French-Canadian boys and girls and he learned to speak their langauge as fluently as English. He has always had a warm spot in his heart for the people of Quebec.

When Lester turned eight, father Patrick moved the family to South Durham, 60 miles from Montreal, and established the Drummond Lumber Co. Lester went to his first English school.

It is generally assumed when anyone attains some importance in the world that he was favored at birth. For instance, any boy born in New Westminster between 1890 and 1912, was said to have come into the world with a lacrosse stick in his hand and to be ripe material for the masterful Salmonbellies.

So it would be assumed that Lester Patrick must have been fitted with a pair of skates by the stork. However, such was not the case. Lester didn't stand on skates until he reached his 10th birthday. Then he received a pair of spring skates, the type you clipped on to your walking boots.

LESTER PATRICK
. . . as he looked in 1910.

First Hockey Stick Cost 25 Cents

On his 12th birthday, in 1895, his mother gave him his first hockey stick. It cost 25 cents. Sticks in those days were cut from solid wood and the heels were rounded, something like the stick used in grass hockey.

Still, there was no puck for hockey. The kids used tin cans. The Patrick boys were all skating by now and Father Patrick fixed up the back yard so it could be flooded. From then on the Patricks skated long hours for long months and they engaged in a lot of shinny.

It is surprising how a chance contact opens up new worlds for people and sets them on their way to outstanding careers. It was thus with Lester Patrick.

He had turned 13 and was

JOSEPH GORDON

JAMES CAREY

Ottawa to Probe Carey's Claim Was RCMP Agent

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Garson today cleared the way for a two-week stay of execution for James Carey and Joseph Gordon of Vancouver to permit investigation of alleged new evidence.

Both were convicted of murder in the fatal shooting of Vancouver Constable Gordon Sinclair.

The two men were scheduled to be hanged after midnight tonight in the Oakalla jail, New Westminster, B.C.

Mr. Garson said counsel for Gordon on March 14 applied to the trial judge, Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the B.C. Supreme Court, for a reprieve which counsel stated was designed to enable the justice department to investigate alleged new evidence.

"Mr. Justice Manson declined to grant a stay of execution, but informed counsel that if the department of justice itself wished to have further time to consider the alleged new evidence he would grant a stay of execution immediately.

"In order that the alleged new evidence may be thoroughly investigated, I have requested the crown attorney in the case to apply to Mr. Justice Manson for a two-week stay of execution for both Gordon and Carey," Mr. Garson said.

Under Assignment From RCMP?

Mr. Garson told the Commons March 6 that Carey, 26, may have been an RCMP undercover man.

The justice minister had been asked by Harold E. Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) about Vancouver newspaper stories quoting Carey as saying he was assigned by the RCMP to stay close to Joseph Gordon.

Mr. Garson said then that Carey's file, when considered for possible commutation of sentence, will include the results of a "very thorough and complete investigation" into the undercover allegations.

The Supreme Court of Canada Feb. 15 refused a new trial for Carey and fixed March 19 as the date of execution. The hanging of Gordon had been postponed to March 19 from Feb. 12. An appeal by Gordon against the sentence also was rejected earlier.

Carey was convicted last April 27 of murder in the shooting of Constable Sinclair Dec. 7, 1955.

Trial evidence established that Gordon had fired the two shots that felled the policeman, who had been sent to Vancouver's Granville Street Bridge area to investigate reports of suspicious persons moving about.

ALBERTA DIVIDEND TAXABLE

B.C. Escapes Tax on Rebate

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann said today the federal government regards provincial dividend payments in Alberta as taxable income.

However, payments under British Columbia's proposed plan of municipal tax rebates will not be taxed.

He said in the Commons the advice of his officials is that the Alberta payments, coming out of oil and gas royalties paid to the province, are income and therefore taxable.

However, unlike dividends paid by corporations, the Alberta government dividends will not be subject to a 20 per cent tax allowance or to depletion allowances.

Alberta proposes payments totaling $11,000,000 to all its residents aged 21 or more who have lived in the province more than five years.

The B.C. plan, he said, is in the form of a municipal tax rebate and therefore not taxable by the federal government. The government will pay the municipalities $28 for tax rebates claimed by each householder. The rebate will be $28 a householder.

TEAMSTERS INDICTED

From UP and CP Dispatches

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury today indicted four teamster union officials, including western conference teamsters' chief Frank W. Brewster, on contempt of Congress charges.

The union officials refused last Jan. 16 to answer questions before the Senate investigating subcommittee which, like the new rackets committee, is headed by Sn. John L. McLellan (D-Ark.).

Logger Held In Murder Up-Coast

CAMPBELL RIVER — Logger Vernon Breckton, 34, of nearby Quadra Island, was charged in police court here today with the stabbing murder early Sunday morning on Quadra Island of William Wallace, 21-year-old Indian fisherman.

He appeared before Magistrate Roderick Haig-Brown. No plea was taken, and Breckton was taken to Oakalla Prison immediately following reading of the formal charge.

The case was adjourned to March 27 for a preliminary hearing in police court here.

RCMP were close-mouthed regarding the incident, saying only they had been notified of a fight on Quadra Island, in which a man had been hurt. They attended, and found the body of Wallace beside the road, about one-quarter mile from Quathiaski Cove.

FIGHT AT DANCE

It was understood the fight had taken place at a St. Patrick's Day dance at Quadra Island Community Hall, some four miles from Quathiaski Cove and about midway between Quathiaski Cove and Heriot Bay.

Breckton's shack was within 300 yards of the spot where Wallace's body was found. He was arrested Sunday at 3 a.m.

Wallace had been stabbed twice in the back. He was a member of the Cape Mudge Indian band, and had returned from Vancouver Saturday. He leaves a widow and three children.

Breckton, believed of French-Canadian extraction, had only been on the island three weeks. He had bought the shack in which he was living. He lived alone, and is said to be a single man.

EASTBOURNE MURDER TRIAL OPENS

Lawyer Accuses Dr. Adams: You Killed With Such a Needle

LONDON (CP) — Holding a large, gleaming hypodermic in his hand, Attorney-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller today accused Dr. John Bodkin Adams of using such a needle to poison a wealthy widow patient.

Manningham-Buller said Adams killed Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, 81, on Nov. 13, 1950, at her mansion home in the quiet Sussex seaside resort of Eastbourne because the doctor would benefit from her will.

Only Adams knew the drug he injected into Mrs. Morrell because he did not tell Mrs. Morrell's nurses, the attorney-general said.

But in the 10½ months before her death, Adams prescribed for her 1,629½ grains of barbiturate, 1,928 grains of a sleeping drug, 64 grains of morphia and 39½ grains of heroin, Manningham-Buller told the jury.

Adams killed Mrs. Morrell because he feared she would alter her much-changed will, the attorney-general claimed.

"He decided that the time had come for Mrs. Morrell to die," he said.

Correspondents from many countries packed the courtroom.

The public lined up outside the court all through the night. There was room in the public gallery for only 29.

When called, Dr. Adams hurried up the stairs from the cells into the dock. When the charge was read he said in a clear, loud voice: "I am not guilty, my lord."

NO BODY

Three factors are regarded as assuring the trial a celebrated place in British legal history:

1. Dr. Adams was one of Eastbourne's most fashionable doctors, friend and adviser of the rich and titled.

2. There was no body. After the death of Mrs. Morrell, her ashes were scattered over the English Channel.

3. The trial is expected to last anywhere from three to six weeks.

During the Eastbourne hearings the Crown also alleged that Dr. Adams poisoned two other patients, Alfred John Hullett, 71, and his wife Gertrude, 50.

The doctor has not been formally charged in these deaths.

KNEW ABOUT WILLS

The Crown charged before the jury of 10 men and two women that the doctor gave them overdoses of drugs because he knew he would benefit from their wills.

Dr. Adams appeared calm and confident. He wore a neat blue suit typical of his attire in making his doctor's rounds at Eastbourne.

Manningham Buller said Dr. Adams had prescribed heavy doses of drugs for Mrs. Morrell although a nurse would testify the widow was in no great physical pain. He conceded she was perhaps suffering "neurotic pain."

INDUCES CRAVING

Manningham Buller, asking over and again "why this heavy administration" of drugs, told the jury:

". . . One reason being if administered over a short period it induces a craving for them . . . Dr. Adams was the source of supply."

The attorney-general said Dr. Adams had called on Mrs. Morrell's lawyer to discuss her will just before she died. Buller told the jury:

"The submission of the Crown is that Dr. Adams, by the administration of drugs to Mrs. Morrell — drugs given by him and given upon his instructions —killed her and our submisson is that those drugs were given to her with the intention of killing."

The Crown also quoted the doctor as saying he did not report a material interest in the will of Mrs. Morrell because he wanted "the cremation to go off smoothly."

PECUNIARY INTEREST?

Manningham-Buller told the jury one of the forms the doctor had to fill out for cremation of the body of Mrs. Morrell

U.S. Pledges Israel Aid

UP and CP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—The United States promised Israel today "to use its influence in seeking the objectives of peace and tranquility" in the Middle East.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir the United States "stood firmly" by the hopes and expectations it had expressed for the troubled area in connection with withdrawal of Israel troops from Egyptian territory.

Unemployment Declines

OTTAWA (CP)—The government said today total employment in Canada showed a 31,000 seasonal decline to 5,362,000 between mid-January and mid-February, but was 146,000 higher than a year ago.

'THEY WERE ALL ACTING SILLY'

Duke of Kent Denied Drinks By Barmaid in Darlington Pub

LONDON (AP)—A barmaid told today how she refused to serve the Duke of Kent and some of his army friends.

Mrs. Vera Smith, a silver-haired woman in her 40's, works in the cocktail lounge of the Imperial Hotel in Darlington, near the camp where the 21-year-old Duke is stationed.

"A few days ago," she said, "The Duke and some other army officers came into the bar.

"They were all acting very silly when they came in. One of them was trying to eat a glass. I told them they would not be served. They began throwing olives about.

"But I had to tell them all off properly when they tried to catch hold of me and get me to dance. The Duke joined in the antics but he was the quietest of the bunch.

"If it had been anyone else, I would have sent for the police.

"But they calmed down and left when a man who had been watching from outside the door spoke to them. I think he was someone to do with the Duke."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

We thank thee, O God, that in Jesus Christ we have One who is a safe leader and guide, who knows all the pitfalls of the path in which we must walk. We can depend upon Him, and we know that He will not fail us. Help us to take Him as our pattern and example, and to try to follow Him whithersoever He would lead us. Amen.

U.S. Rackets Probe Touches Industry

Unnamed Companies To Be Cited For Management Practices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said today their rackets inquiry already is reaching into certain management practices as well as labor union operations.

Robert Kennedy, chief counsel of the committee which is searching for evidence of racketeering in labor and industry, said that hearings on alleged payment of more than $20,000 in teamsters union funds to Nathan W. Shefferman, a Chicago management consultant, "will lead into certain companies." He did not name the companies.

The first three weeks of the committee's hearings have dealt with an alleged plot by teamsters officials to "muscle in" on vice profits in Portland, Ore. The hearings resume Tuesday with more testimony from Frank W. Brewster, west coast teamsters boss.

In testimony Friday, Brewster entered a general denial of charges that he was allied with underworld figures. Under questioning, he conceded that union funds were used to pay some expenses for his horse trainer and jockey.

A federal grand jury was expected to finish today its consideration of bribery charges against James R. Hoffa, said to be the real power in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America. Whatever action the grand jury decides to take may not be known for several days.

Hoffa, a teamster vice-president and head of the union's organization in the U.S. middle west, was arrested last week and charged with bribing a lawyer to join the staff of the rackets committee and feed him information. Hoffa, free on $25,000 bond, has protested his innocence.

taking quite an interest in Canadian football. One day the Ottawa team arrived in Montreal for a game. Lester was on a street corner wondering how he could see the game.

"Sure do," replied Lester.

"Come on, I'll take you in." Lester hopped aboard the street car, wondering who his benefactor could be.

"Yes," said Lester.

"Right. I'll be here with the Ottawa team next winter. How'd you like to be the stick boy?"

How would he? Lester was enraptured with the thought of hockey and being a stick boy. He told me, this week:

"That's what started it. A chance meeting with Young. I was the stick boy for Ottawa in their games in Montreal. There were seven men on their team and I lived to see the day when I was good enough to play against four of them.

"It just goes to show what a thoughtful act will do for a boy. Maybe I'd have got into hockey some other way but that gesture by Young set me on my way."

The next year Lester was playing hockey in earnest. It was the day of "Street" teams. Every street in Montreal had a team.

"It was quite something," reminisced Lester. "We got pretty good and I was picked on the Street All-Star team. There were seven men and we got wind of an open-air rink we could rent for $2 an hour. We got another team to work out with us and we split the cost at 15 cents for each man, except the goalies, who paid 10 cent each. We figured the goalies were entitled to the small end because they saw little of the puck and it's cold standing in the nets."

Lester graduated from Montreal High School at 16 and entered McGill University the next year.

He did but one year at McGill.

"What happened?" I asked him.

"I failed, that's all," laughed Lester. He did think he might have been a little young for university but it could be he had his mind on hockey more than on his studies.

Lester, however, had revealed to his father, a fondness for business and once university was behind him, the gangling youth found himself on the payroll of his father's wood and coal company with the title of office boy.

That's where we will leave him.

asked him to state if he had a pecuniary interest in the death of the deceased.

The physician had answered "not as far as I am aware."

The proper answer, Manningham-Buller said, would have been "yes, she told me she was going to leave me something." He said Adams had conferred with the old lady's lawyer about a Rolls Royce automobile promised him in her will.

Manningham-Buller said Adams, when questioned about this, replied:

"Oh, that was not done wickedly, God knows it was not. We always want cremation to go off smoothly for the dear relatives. If I had said I knew I was getting money under the will they might get suspicious and I like cremations and burials to go smoothly. There was nothing suspicious, really. I was not deceitful."

"But for this false answer there might have been no cremation," said the Crown, "and the Crown might have been in a position to tell you how much morphia and heroin there was in the body of Mrs. Morrell at the time of her death."

The doctor read a bible in his prison cell before being taken into court.

Blasts, Fire Rake Tanker, 43 Escape

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The freighter Perama was taken in tow today after two violent explosions and fire aboard caused its crew of 43 to abandon ship in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Coast Guard said the vessel had been taken in tow by the Esso Bermuda and that the Perama's crew had returned to their ship from the Clairborne, which had picked them up from two lifeboats.

The Perama was described as listing to port and "dead in the water." Five other vessels were in the area, about 180 miles west southwest of Dgmont Key, which is at the mouth of Tampa Bay.

A message said the first explosion was in the pump room and the vessel began to take in water. Then there was another explosion and the Coast Guard at St. Petersburg received word that the ship was afire and the crew was taking to lifeboats.

The Perama was described as 445 feet long, of 7,236 gross tons. It was of Liberian registry with Monrovia its home port.

Today's higher horsepowers, greater weight, higher speeds demand brakes with extra margins of safety. Here are four important ways that Studebaker-Packard gives you this additional safety:

1. Largest brake linings. 195.3 square inches of brake lining are carried by the Studebaker Golden Hawk—largest, safest brake lining area per pound of car of any automobile made today!
2. Air-cooled drums. Heat robs brakes of their effectiveness. Studebaker-Packard was first with specially "finned" air-cooled brake drums that actually double the effective cooling surface.
3. Self-Centering. The entire, oversized brake lining area is automatically brought into uniform contact with the drums. Reduces wear and assures unswerving, straight-line stops.
4. Self-Energizing. The forward motion of the car itself helps apply the brakes. You get greater safety, easier pedal action.

Better brakes, superior acceleration, surer handling add up to Command Performance. Drive the '57 Studebakers and Packards at your dealer's, today.

How much is a family man worth?

The example you set your children . . . your unexpected gift . . . a game of 'leap frog' or a 'piggy-back' . . . these are a few of the attentions you bring your family that could never be measured in dollars and cents.

Apart from these considerations, however, you are the one who brings home the pay cheque. Your contribution as a breadwinner has a definite value. Your salary clothes your family, feeds them, houses them, and educates your children. If you and your salary were to be removed from the scene, your family's way of life could still be maintained — in accustomed surroundings, in the same neighborhood, with old friends — if you take the precaution of safeguarding their future through the Sun Life of Canada, one of the world's great life insurance companies.

Macmillan Speeds U.K. Strike Talks

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Macmillan called cabinet ministers to an urgent conference today on a 200,000-man shipyard strike paralyzing Britain's vast shipbuilding industry.

The threat of two more giant strikes, among railway and manufacturing workers, confronted the Conservative government only three days before Macmillan's Bermuda meetings with President Eisenhower.

The rail and factory walkouts, if they materialize, would boost the number of British workers on strike to more than 3,000,000—about one-eighth of the working class.

Macmillan conferred with Labor Minister Iain MacLeod and other ministers. MacLeod then went into conference with his advisers to consider possible new peacemaking moves. Ship unions had rejected his offer of arbitration.

Britain's 70 shipyards lay idle and deserted this morning. The unions claimed a 100-per-cent response to the strike call.

7-Hour Operation On Hold-Up Victim

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bank accountant Ronald O. Compston, 33, was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital here today recovering from a bullet wound inflicted Friday in an attempted bank holdup.

(Mr. Compston is an ex-Victorian. He was an accountant at the Royal Bank's main branch here from 1951-53, when he was a prominent member of Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce. He has no relatives here.)

Constable K. C. Miles, 27, who with Compston pursued the bandit and was shot with a .22-calibre revolver, was said to be in good condition.

Compston's spleen was removed in a seven-hour emergency operation Saturday and doctors said they discovered damage to his left kidney. Surgeons said an operation to remove a bullet lodged in the back of the constable's throat will be postponed until severe swelling around the wound has eased.

John William Buckell, 43, an unemployed cost accountant said to have been a once-prominent resident of Sherbrooke, Que., is held until Friday without bail on two charges of attempted murder and one of attempted robbery.

Coldwell Leaves Hospital; Plans Election Fight

OTTAWA (CP)—CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell left hospital Sunday.

Reached at home by telephone, Mr. Coldwell said he plans to return to active leadership of his party after three weeks of rest.

His physician, Dr. T. L. Fisher, said the CCF leader, when he returns to work, will be "no more restricted than he was."

"I expect he will go back and take on his former job and be able to do it," he said.

Mr. Coldwell was admitted to hospital three weeks ago after suffering a mild heart attack.

He said Sunday he will return to his seat in Parliament, if it still is in session, after his three-weeks' convalescence. He will take part in the coming federal election on a moderate basis, confining his election campaigning to a limited number of speeches in Ontario and western Canada.

Toronto Telegram Publishes First Sunday Edition

TORONTO (CP)—The first Sunday edition of the Toronto Telegram appeared on city streets Sunday and also was distributed throughout Ontario.

There was no indication of any interference with delivery. Before the paper published there was criticism that publication violated the Lord's Day Act and reports that prosecution might be launched.

A Distorted Picture of UBC

THE COLONIST IS BADLY MISinformed when it says, as it did in a recent editorial, that the present provincial government has done "relatively more . . . than many of its predecessors" to assist the University of British Columbia.

A visit to the Point Grey campus today would demonstrate a shocking truth: that, in spite of greatly swollen enrollments and increased costs, no new building has been erected since the present government came to power in 1952.

At the moment, two buildings are under construction, and one of these —the addition to Brock Memorial Hall—is being built by the students, as was the fine War Memorial gymnasium.

To cast aspersions on previous governments is to distort the truth. The "Golden Age" of U.B.C. expansion (if ever there was one) occurred during the tenure of former Premier Byron Johnson and Education Minister W. T. Straith. In the five-year period 1947 to 1952, $10 millions was expended in a building program which saw two medical buildings, the agricultural premises, and two womens' residences erected—this at a time when $10 millions was worth relatively much more than it is today.

What has the present government done? It has increased the endowment lands by a grant of some 433 acres and it has granted a modest increase for operating costs. Its much-vaunted $10 million pledge for building is to be parcelled out on a $1-million-a-year basis which is unrealistic in the light of the fact that the present enrollment of 7,600 will be doubled by the time the grant runs out.

As was pointed out here recently, the dollar-for-dollar matching plan announced during the current session by Education Minister Peterson is a familiar "gimmick," not unlike the demand made by Premier Bennett on logging companies in the construction of roads.

This is an obvious attempt to shift the burden of responsibility for education onto the shoulders of B.C. industry, which is already the most highly-taxed industry in Canada. A further doubt has been raised in the House by Mr. Strachan's suggestion that the $5 million "match-industry" grant will come out of the $10 million already pledged. This serious question has not been answered by the premier.

The Changing Commonwealth

EARLY THIS MONTH THE GOLD Coast, formerly a British colony, became an independent member of the Commonwealth with Britain's blessings.

Thus began an active year in which more former colonies will move toward their independence and Britain will answer, in the most practical way possible, charges that it is an old colonial power.

Negotiations are now under way or pending, with Singapore, Malta, Nigeria, the Malay federation and the Caribbean federation.

Talks with Singapore's Chief Minister Lim Yew Hock began last Monday in London. Discussions on Malta were scheduled for mid-March and Nigeria talks have been arranged for May. In August, the Malay federation gains independence and the Caribbean federation organization will be under further discussion in the fall, with first elections contemplated there early next year.

In each of these cases spokesmen for the former colonies are assured wide freedom in the presentation of their views. The task of British officialdom is not to restrain the will of these one-time subject peoples toward freedom. It is rather to retain their allegiance and affiliation with the Commonwealth. Britain, in other words, hopes the members of the family, now reaching 21, will accept the keys to their own front doors without leaving the family entirely.

The outside world is watching another stage in the change from the imperial to the commonwealth theme. Those countries marked in red on the map during an age of spectacular, if occasionally swashbuckling, empire building, are now being recognized as individuals. They are being introduced, also, to a study of the benefits which reside within the loose association of the Commonwealth and encouraged to retain ties that are of mutual advantage.

Two Heads Better . . .

MAYOR PERCY SCURRAH AND Alderman Hugh Ramsay have provided an excellent lead for Greater Victoria municipalities in suggesting joint meetings of all councils on matters concerning the whole community.

It is to be hoped the mayor's invitation to a gathering with the school board on the latter's estimates will be accepted. By this means representatives of each municipality will have an opportunity to hear the explanations provided by trustees without the variations which might occur if the board met each individually. Beyond that, a lot of duplication in discussion should be avoided.

Mr. Ramsay's supplementary suggestion, that full councils in the district meet periodically on matters concerning them all, has merit. There are a number of problems on which greater understanding is needed. Whether one or another of the different councils opposes amalgamation, all must agree that there are subjects of community interest which deserve consideration beyond the limits of any one municipality.

Under existing arrangements the meetings may not be able to take direct action as a body of combined opinion. But at least the matters under discussion should be more thoroughly aired by individuals from different localities.

No 'McCarthyism' for Us

MR. LESTER PEARSON HAS dealt promptly and effectively with the attempted smear of a Canadian career diplomat by a United States Senate sub-committee.

The sub-committee, by what Mr. Pearson called "slanders and unsupported insinuations" sought to link Canadian Ambassador E. H. Norman with one of the principals in the Soviet spy ring exposed in Canada in 1946.

The Minister of External Affairs announced he would make a "strong protest" to Washington and added that the report would be treated "with the contempt it deserves."

Mr. Pearson has spoken for the vast majority of Canadians. This country will not tolerate the "McCarthy" technique that achieved for itself universal repugnance and made the U.S. practitioner's name a byword among decent men.

The U.S. sub-committee knows where this nation stands. More than that, those members of the U.S. administration who abhor the use of slander and unsupported rumor as a weapon of unsavory politics, must be delighted that Canada has spoken out against a slimy technique so damaging to their entire country.

Argument for Overproof

THE SAGA OF THE HELICOPter forced down in northern British Columbia—a harrowing story that appears to have a happy ending —has produced an unusual development.

Two crew members, says a Canadian Press item, kept camp fires going by pouring over-proof rum on them.

Thus is created an international angle to the incident. Overproof rum must have been imported since none of that strength is sold in British Columbia.

And when Mr. Cyril Shelford of Omineca next takes the floor in the Legislature to advocate a return to undiluted spirits here, he can present what is probably a life-or-death argument for his case.

The warmth of a fire was a major survival factor in the cold northland. The addition of overproof rum was a survival factor for the fires. Had the B.C. merchandise been poured on the blaze, it — and hope—might have been extinguished.

Take it from there, Mr. Shelford.

That Was the Starter's Gun

PLANS OF MICE AND MEN — By B. A. TOBIN

Life in the Living Area

THE subject of architecture is one that interests most people. In fact, most people are more or less experts in it. Everybody lives in a house of some sort. Therefore everybody is familiar with houses. Therefore everybody knows something about houses. Therefore everybody is an expert. It's as simple as that. And in a way it's true, because the architecture of a community, in the long run, is what the people in general will tolerate. This no doubt explains why there are so many funny-looking places in Victoria. Our tolerance is high. Of course individuals who have actually studied architecture, in contrast to those who have merely absorbed it, can lead the parade. They can encourage a higher standard among their clients, and when they go off the deep end themselves their brother architects can coax them back in line.

Tobin

But by and large our houses and buildings are a reflection of ourselves. (Gad, what am I saying!) For instance, if that new wing on the old post office turns out to look like the apple box its picture indicated, that will be us—a bunch of squares. And some of the odd structures you see in Uplands and other high-tax districts are reflections on us too—I mean of us.

The ultra modern places, for instance, don't bother with rooms any more. They just have dining areas, recreation areas, sleeping areas, and so on. They're strictly functional. But for a fellow who doesn't want to function after he gets home and takes off his shoes, they may present something of a problem.

Kitchens these days are for workers only. With the neatness and efficiency of a dentist's office they leave no room for loafers. The loafing is all done in properly appointed living areas, and I suppose loafing and living do have considerable in common at that.

But what does the man sitting in his sitting area, or living in his living area, think about?

Ah, Memories

Ten chances to one he's recalling the good old days of his youth when the whole family gathered in a huge warm cheery kitchen, with a fire crackling in the big stove, delicious smells of cooking coming from under steaming lids, mother in a big apron running the show, father sharpening the carving knife and the youngsters dealing out plates or begging to lick the mixing spoon.

A rudimentary form of family life seemed to be in progress, even without a living area set apart for it. But of course that was all wrong and fortunately modern houses have been improved to the point where such backwardness is a mere memory.

Many a man today, however, if caught unawares with a request to draw a dream house, would start out with a large kitchen with smaller rooms leading off it, before he shamefacedly rubbed it out and began again properly.

It's funny how so many people feel competent to plan their own houses. A fellow who wouldn't dream of launching a $200 appendectomy on himself thinks nothing of starting a $10,000 house on home-made blueprints.

But it's the age of do-it-yourself, from drawing it to paying for it, and if only the house lasts as long as the mortgage —that is, a lifetime—there should be no complaints.

But if you aren't handy with a scalpel, you'd better play safe and engage a doctor; and if house design isn't your strong point, it's just as well to call in a man who's done one before.

I'd be a little leery, though, of calling in the navy. For a battleship, by all means; for a frigate, none better; even for a rowboat, they'd give you the best. But for a house—well, let's leaf through the Ladies Home Journal once more and see if they have anything suitable.

Because I've seen some of the navy's shore-going architecture. So have you, if you've been out past Colwood on the Sooke Road in the last few years and noticed what they built just inside the Hatley Park wall. Maybe it was the Department of Public Works, but the Navy accepted it.

Cubic Contents

These obviously were designed at lunch one day, when somebody took two sugar cubes, put one on top of the other, and ordered, "Build me a dozen just like this."

I've heard that the design for these human habitations was the result of a contest among architects, but I don't believe it—unless the boys treated it as a joke and tried to see how awful they could be.

When you consider what could have been done in a setting like Hatley Park, where Nature had already provided a million-dollar environment — well, we've got some darn good subchasers and destroyers; you can't expect to have everything I guess.

You could even forgive them Hatley—until you see Belmont.

Now if ever there was a site that cried for a little imagination, surely it is that oak and fir bordered area just this side of Colwood. But it appears that the whole project was placed in the hands of the admiral in charge of mailboxes, and the result is a series of rows of plain dwellings, some with porches, some without—a straight up and down layout, no trees left and everything shipshape.

Surely our navymen's families deserved a little more planning than this?

Some of the folks have done the best they can to hide the mistakes behind clotheslines full of washing. But you can't hang washing out every day.

These are homes by reason of the labors and goodness of the people who fill them. You get the impression that as far as officialdom is concerned they are just dwelling accommodation, personnel for the use of.

Perhaps it's just as well that here and there the do-it-yourself architects are busy with pencil and paper. After all, individualism has a charm of its own—sort of.

March 18, 1917 — The school trustees learned last night that the measles epidemic in the schools is subsiding and junior pupils are returning to their classes.

As Our Readers See It

Throw Out the By-Law

The passage of the unwise Greater Victoria School Building By-Law by a mere margin of 60.63% is a definite rebuke to our exuberant school trustees. Therefore they have no moral right to proceed with or act upon this $4,470,000 by-law any further.

During the referendum campaign the School Board took an unfair and unethical advantage of our honest and responsible tax-payers. No sensible person is against education or the necessary classrooms. But when the architect demands $40,000 to design a simple school building, or when the labor boss blusters and shrieks for $3 an hour for a carpenter, $4 for electrician, $5 for a plumber—then the honest tax-payer begins to shake in his shoes with fear, and blindly revolts. He is a prey at bay.

I feel our responsible citizens of Greater Victoria—the home-owners, the unorganized citizens—should take prompt steps to protest this back-crushing tax-burden to our provincial cabinet, and if necessary then direct to the Lieutenant-Governor of our province. This by-law should be thrown out.

We have reached the ceiling. Let's come down to some sanity. This vicious tax spiral will eventually bankrupt us all. It will destroy what we already possess.

A 'Silent World" Here

The movie, "The Silent World," now showing here has revived an idea I expressed in a letter to the local press some years ago. That is the desirability of erecting a first class aquarium in Beacon Hill Park. Lately we have been hearing much about establishing a zoo in the city or vicinity. Squeezed as we are between the great cities of Vancouver and Seattle it seems to me that anything we can do in that line would look poor and insignificant compared to what they can do. On the other hand I know of no first class aquarium north of the Steinhart in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, which is one of that city's chief attractions.

I am sure that something similar to the Steinhart aquarium here would be a great tourist attraction, educative of marine life and pleasing to the eye.

Centennial Hall in Park

I would like to suggest the following as Victoria's centennial gift to British Columbia.

We are desperately in need of a large assembly building in a central location and it is my idea to establish such a centre in Beacon Hill Park. It could house the park tea room and at the same time, cater to the large conventions that would use the hall, an aquarium could be part of such a project.

As the building would be dedicated to the amusement and entertainment of our people and our visitors, I believe it would come within the meaning of the parks agreement.

This structure would be a lasting and serviceable gift that we could all be proud of. In my opinion, the park and a beautiful centennial hall are made for each other.

RAY JOHNSON.

Nuisance Stakes

The recent news concerning the part of British Columbia known as the Rocky Mountain Trench has evolved as a matter of personal concern to me. I believe it is a matter of great moment to every Canadian.

One of our provincial government members has proposed, and through the cabinet, has placed reserved restrictions on claim-staking. They, the Socred cabinet, have agreed in essence that anyone carrying a free miner's licence is only a nuisance. He can, under the present administration prospect only in places not desired by some cartel.

Included in the terms of the peace of the last great war was the proposal that cartels be broken. The whole world realized the danger to a lasting peace just so long as they existed.

This province, one-tenth part of our great dominion, adds insult to injury by taking away our hereditary right to stake a claim wherever one might find the prospects good and calls our pioneers nuisances to boot.

FROM PARIS — By JOSEPH ALSOP

And Then the Key Question

FOR the Soviet citizen, the gradual evolution of the iron society in which he lives and has his being must be a matter of really passionate concern. And this same evolution should also be a matter of deep interest for Americans. All the same, the evolution of Soviet society that began with the death of Stalin has neither softened nor deflected Soviet foreign policy. On the contrary, while considerably more supple than their late master, Stalin's heirs have actually proven somewhat more adventurous. And on the basis of a rather intense experience in the Soviet Union, this reporter is convinced that a wholly new generation of Soviet leaders will have to come to power before there is any real change in the meaning of "peaceful co-existence."

Alsop

Thus the fundamental Western problem remains unaltered except in detail. In the satellite area of Central Europe, to be sure, the Soviets have recently suffered a severe setback. But by the ruthless use of their great military power, they have recovered a large part of their losses, at least for the time being.

Meanwhile, the West has also suffered severe setbacks, especially in the troubled Middle East. And the Western losses have most conspicuously not been recovered.

World Strategy

At the present juncture, moreover, the West has found no effective way to exploit the Soviet setbacks. Yet the Soviets are exploiting the Western setbacks with great daring and astuteness. Thus Soviet world strategy has actually gone forward. What then is the nature of this Soviet strategy which the Western allies must somehow find means to parry?

It comes in three parts. Towards the United States, the Soviets present a firm military front. At the same time, they seek bilateral negotiations between the two giant powers, but always and only on strictly Soviet terms.

In all the vulnerable ex-and semi-colonial areas in which the Western powers have vital interests, meanwhile, the Soviets are doing everything possible to transform the inflamed native nationalism into a weapon against the West.

In Stalin's time, the centre of this effort was the Far East. But the great innovation of the Khrushchev era has been Soviet intervention in the Middle East, where Stalin hardly raised a finger after his retreat from Azerbaijan.

Soviet Support

In his talk with me, for instance, Nikita Khrushchev openly indicated active Soviet support for nationalization of the Middle Eastern oil sources, whence flows the economic lifeblood of Britain and western Europe. Thus he revealed the Soviet aim.

The masters of the Kremlin do not want Communist satellites in the Middle East. They want Soviet-backed, vengefully anti-Western Arab governments which will nationalize the oil sources and take other steps of a similar nature.

Thus Britain, particularly, is to be ruined. France and the other western European powers are to be weakened. And by this economic flank attack, the chief trans-Atlantic partners of the Western alliance are to be knocked out of the great power game.

But while they are thus encouraging their Arab friends to strike at the vitals of Britain, France and the other European nations, the Soviet leaders are shrewdly seeking quite another sort of success in Britain and France.

In both these countries, the men of the political right place the whole blame for the setbacks in the Middle East on the follies of American policy, conveniently forgetting their own follies. And on the political left, the American alliance has always been a source of profound disquiet.

In this confused state of public opinion, the Soviet leaders hope to make great gains with still another weapon—the cold fear which always inspires wishfulness and bad judgment.

With virulent anti-Americanism already rampant, they are going to brandish their new arms. (It is a fair bet that they will shortly make some sort of public showing of an intermediate range ballistic missile with an atomic or hydrogen warhead, which will inspire very cold fear indeed.)

And they are going to say to our partners in the Western alliance:

"These Americans are terrible people anyway. If you only were not linked with them, we should be nice as pie to you. So why do you run the risk of being devastated by these dangerous toys of ours in a quarrel between us and the Americans, just because you obstinately continue to grant the Americans bases in your countries?"

Bases Liquidated

Once again, in the interview he granted me, Nikita Khrushchev quite discernibly hinted at this Soviet approach. He also quite confidently predicted that the American overseas bases would eventually be liquidated.

By these means, in sum, the masters of the Kremlin hope to organize a gigantic upset of the world balance of power, only comparable to the upset in the European balance of power that occurred in the Thirties.

If you look at this Soviet foreign policy cold-bloodedly, without the cheap self-indulgence of easy indignation, you have to admit that the Kremlin's masters are very far from stupid or weak. Their strategy, alas, is prudently bold, well adjusted to the means at their disposal, and on the whole well calculated to attain the aims they have set for themselves.

In truth, the Soviet strategy leaves only one key question unanswered. If the world balance of power is successfully upset as planned, how will the suddenly aroused United States then react?

Reading Habits

From The Borzoi Quarterly

Last year a record 19,962 books were published in the United Kingdom and a near-record 12,589 in the United States. Whether we should regard the combined output of more than 30,000 books with pride or alarm is uncertain.

But perhaps the following questions are more important: How well are the books assimilated? How many people read them? The answers, at least in part, are available, thanks to the fact that for the last 20 years the American Institute of Public Opinion has been regularly surveying the reading habits of the American people. Through its affiliates, the institute has gathered comparable information for several foreign countries.

In the United States no more than 17 per cent of all adults were to be found reading books at the time of the most recent survey. This is in sorry contrast to the percentages in several other countries: Canada 31, Australia 34, England 55.

The reading habits of U.S. high school and college graduates are likewise depressing; 57 per cent of U.S. high school and 26 per cent of college graduates have not read a single book for the past year. A special study confined to college graduates showed that five out of six had not read a serious book outside their fields of special interest during the preceding several months.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK — By RUTH ENKE

Cross With Culture

I KNOW the world is full of dreadful problems, but my problem at the moment is how I'm going to face the month of April. Because, in April, our small stand-up calendar of famous paintings has a reproduction of an angel by Raphael.

I've taken a violent dislike to the child. (You know how one sometimes does with children!) He's about three years old, and what I would call a not-so-cherubic cherub. His hair is tousled and too long. His wings are ragged at the ends. His nt looks flabby. And, from the way he holds his fingers to his mouth, I'm sure he bites his nails. He's not my angel-child. And that's a fact.

Ruth

* * *

November will be just as bad, because the calendar has gone overboard on Raphael and treated us to another of his angels.

But, instead of biting his nails, he has his arms folded on a ledge in a way that makes him look like a pre-school child brawling on a desk. His chin is resting on his arms. His eyes are rolled to Heaven. His expression is none too sweet.

For days these angels have bothered me. I knew I knew them but I couldn't figure out where I'd met them.

But now I've tracked 'em down. They belong to the picture of the Sistine Madonna, and I know the Sistine Madonna well because she used to hang on my nursery wall when I was a child.

But the nursery reproduction only showed the Madonna with the Child. I loved her. I loved the billowing lines of her veil, the colors of the picture, and the Madonna's calm and gentle face.

She always looked so kind, though sometimes when I'd been naughty, she used to gaze at me with quiet reproach.

As an adult, I've read a bit about the beauty and serenity that seem to flow from Raphael's paintings. Without a doubt they flow from the Madonna. But, try as I may, I can find no beauty or serenity flowing from those tiresome little angels. In fact, I'm glad to think that the originals are in the gallery at Dresden. Nice and far away!

* * *

Meanwhile, I'm faced with the problem of April and November. Have I the courage to stand a solid month of having to look at one or other of those angels?

The choice is endless. But no, it would be weak. An admission of defeat. A betrayal of the stalwart souls who taught me to face the music, to keep a straight bat and a stiff upper lip, and to stand at attention while taking it on the chin.

Play up and play the game" was drilled into me when I was young and malleable.

I'll not let my preceptors down!

If the calendar decrees Raphael's angels, then Raphael's angels it shall be.

For I am a Canadian. I'll be cultured if it kills me.

I owe it to my country in this Post-Massey Period.

But think of me on April Fool's Day.

Who, I wonder, is going to be the Fool!

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Shrub Pruning Pays Dividends

March is hurrying along too quickly for us to keep pace with the many jobs to be done in the garden.

Growth of shrubs is becoming advanced enough to complete the pruning of those needing to be cut back rather drastically.

Hilda

The deservedly popular Fuchsia riccartonii which made so spectacular a display last fall after its severe treatment by previous winter weather, surely has shown us the wisdom of drastic early pruning. Cut back all growths to just about ground level, since the flowers are borne on the new wood which will grow rapidly from the base.

Shrubby hypericums, sometimes known collectively as St. John's Wort, are another late summer flowering shrub which requires to be cut down to about two inches from soil level. New growth may now be seen at the base, and these young shoots carry the attractive golden flowers with their tufts of yellow stamens.

Leycesteria formosa is an interesting plant of semi-shrubbery habit with various common names according to its location, such as Himalayan Honeysuckle, Flowering Nutmeg, Granny's Curls and Pheasant Berry, but it is better to ask the nurseryman for leycesteria.

LONG SHOOTS COME

Cut back to ground level, or, if growths are showing near the base cut back to two buds. Long shoots, six feet in length will be your reward, and the unusual purplish bracts surrounding the small white flowers create much interest in late summer. The leaves remain in good condition until severe frosts and winter winds remove them.

One more plant of semi-shrubby habit also requires pruning at this time. You may have the sticky leaved Mimulus glutinosus growing in a secluded shady corner. If this is cut back half way, there will be countless new shoots to bear the large warm orange blooms all summer.

After pruning any of these shrubs, a light dressing of bone-meal, and a top dressing of well-rotted compost will set them up for the season's work ahead of them.

LONDON LETTER — By WALLACE REYBURN

Living Here and There

LONDON — With the preamble that "the rush to emigrate has become one of the most startling features of the British scene," Tom Pocock writing in the Daily Express puts his plea for Britons to stay on in their country in the form of a here-there balance sheet.

Reyburn

Here in Britain, he says, you are at the heart of civilization. New York may be richer, Paris more cultured, but London is still, even now, the centre of the civilized world.

There, in Canada, Australia and New Zealand you are still working toward the status of a front-rank nation.

Here you can choose between dozens of theatres, concerts, art exhibitions, and every sort of education and entertainment. There you must take what you can get, which for most people is little enough.

Here there are friendships that cut across barriers of income and class. There you may owe your position in society to the state of your bank balance.

Here in Britain all the glories of Europe are within five hours' flying time.

There, in the Dominions, history is seldom more than a century old. You can travel for hours and the scenery does not change. Your food and your drink are likely to be substantial but unimaginative and dull.

EVER HEARD of "frustrated exports"? I had often seen here items in shops stamped "export reject" — below par for export, so released on the home market. But now we're getting things labeled with the quaint phrase "frustrated export" and Suez is the main cause.

Products under manufacture for countries in the Middle East now won't be going there and Britons can buy them instead. This has caused a lot of Scotch whisky to be released here and top-notch brands Britons haven't seen around for years are now available in the stores.

YOUR INCOME TAX

2 Classifications To List Children

By W. GORDON HOLMS, CA

Children are sometimes referred to as "income tax-emptions" and this is literally true.

The deductions for dependents are divided into two main categories — children and all other dependents.

For children there are normally two classifications: one allowing a deduction of $150 and the other $400. Children eligible for the family allowances justify the deduction of $150. Children not eligible for the family allowance and under 21 entitle their parents to the $400 deduction provided the child has not earned $750 during 1956.

New Canadians who receive family allowance for only part of a year can claim $400 exemption for a child but must add to their tax the amount of family allowance received in 1956.

Ottawa bonuses education by allowing the $400, deduction for children over 21 who were in full-time attendance at a school or university during 1956.

If a taxpayer cannot claim the $2,000 basic exemption that goes with married status because of the death of a husband or wife, separation or divorce, a child can qualify the taxpayer for the additional $1,000.

However, the child must be wholly dependent upon and maintained in a self-contained domestic establishment by the taxpayer.

Working parents living together and each earning more than $1,000 in 1956, and therefore taxable as single persons, may reduce one of their incomes by the $150 or $400 (per child) children's allowance. The deduction allocation must be mutually agreed—both cannot deduct for the same child.

Other dependents who can be claimed for include a parent or grandparent suffering from mental or physical infirmity; a brother or sister if under 21 years of age, or if over 21 dependent by reason of mental and physical infirmity; parents-in-law, grandparents-in-law, brothers-in-law, sisters-in-law, step-brother and sisters, step-parents dependent by reason of mental or physical infirmity.

Amounts of money spent are deductions but the ceiling for a dependent is $400. If the dependent is eligible for family allowances the deduction ceiling is $150. The dependent's total income must not exceed $750.

In 1956 Ottawa has again recognized Canadians' problems by allowing two taxpayers who mutually contribute to a common dependent to split the exemption of $150 or $400 as the case may be.

Russ Infiltration Simple, Effective Envoy Says Here

The West must face up to the "growing strength" of Moscow throughout the world due to economic infiltration, Sir Robert Henry Hadow, KBE, CMG, MC, told a joint meeting of the Canadian Club and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at the Empress Hotel Friday.

Russia, he said, has told the peasant he doesn't have to think about the landlord and the money lender. Result is the peasant thinks Russia is tops politically.

DARE US

"Moscow uses everything against us . . . from our own system, laughing in our faces and daring us to do anything."

Many areas of the world thus vote away their own freedom, he said.

Sir Robert is British consul-general for northern California and Nevada and has been in the diplomatic service since 1919, serving in Iran, Turkey, Canada, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Argentina and Washington, D.C. He was also advisor on Latin American affairs to the British delegation at the San Francisco Conference and the United Nations from 1945 to 1948.

He was knighted for his services in 1953.

"It is a very serious situation. Moscow trying to win World War Three by the destruction of economy without firing a shot," he said.

'DARNED BLACK'

He termed the recent Suez crisis "a tragedy" and said of Egypt and Israel: "Both sides were so darned black we might as well call them both white."

Moscow had enjoyed "a very successful campaign" in winning over Africa and the mid-East, due to highly-trained political scientists, he said.

"Let us not underestimate the simplicity" of the campaign.

The Suez crisis cost Great Britain $3,500,000 daily, and was another Russian bid to beat the west's economy, he stated.

And today, the west is no further ahead in solution of the main problem of peace in the Mid-East and that of the world.

HOPELESS PAWN

And, he added, if Premier Mossadegh had been able to take over from foreign oil investments in Iran, Moscow would have followed in. But this failed, so Russia turned to Egypt where Premier Nasser has become a "hopeless and bound pawn."

He said it was hoped that Canada's oil production would increase to the point where dependancy was not on the Mid-East, which now produces about 80 per cent of the world's oil.

"Our economy would be hopeless" without the support of Commonwealth countries, he said.

British exports in the first half of 1956 totaled $9,500,000,000 and Europe's free trade zone helped this.

Competition was "very keen" with Germany and Japan for the world's markets, said Sir Robert.

Britain, he admitted, was not the nub of Empire as of yesterday, but still accounted for 54 per cent of world trade. Any attempt by the United States to "go it alone," he went on, would be "disastrous," as for example, two-thirds of U.S. imported tin would be lost if the free world lost the ideological battle for Southeast Asia.

PWA Applies For Northern Flight Rights

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pacific Western Airlines Ltd. said today it has applied for licences to operate commercial air services in the area which Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co. Ltd. plans to explore.

The company is asking air transport board authority to fly persons and goods from bases at Prince George, Fort McLeod and Fort St. John in Northern B.C.

The Prince George base would serve Fort McLeod, Finlay Forks, Fort Grahame and Fort Ware, all in the heart of the Rocky Mountain trench in which the Wenner-Gren interests are to make a $5,000,000 survey of natural resources.

Quebec Reports First Discovery Of Natural Gas

BATISCAN, Que. (CP) — A Quebec government geologist Friday confirmed the discovery of the first large commercial natural gas deposits in Quebec, one mile west of here.

"This is an outstanding discovery," said Dr. I. W. Jones, director of the provincial mines department's geological survey.

He said he personally supervised the tests made Friday by department geologists.

"The field must be proven, of course, but there is no doubt that this discovery is a milestone in the history of gas and oil explorations in Quebec."

New Port Alice Cellulose Mill Ready This Year

PORT ALICE — Completion of new facilities at the Alaska Pine & Cellulose Ltd., chemical cellulose mill here, at a cost of $13,000,000 is scheduled for late summer of this year.

Twin objectives of the program are the upgrading of the the product, and increased output. A substantial part of the increased capacity will go to the export market, according to an announcement by W. E. Breienbach, executive vice-president.

Trans-Canada Pipe Appoints Vice-Presidents

OTTAWA (CP)—Promotions to vice-president were announced today by Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd. for company secretary N. John McNeill and treasurer Robert C. Berry. Both are at the company's Toronto office and retain their present appointments.

Mr. McNeill was born in Mcleod, Alta., son of the late judge E. P. McNeill.

Mr. Berry was born and educated in Montreal.

9 Die in Mine Blast

ILENS, France (UP)—Coal gas exploded in Lievin mine pit Saturday and police said nine men were killed and four injured. One miner was missing.

Cyclones Named for Women Because Both Tempestuous

SYDNEY (CP) — Why are cyclones known by the names of women, and who started the system?

A lively discussion on this subject has developed in Australia since Clara, a particularly exuberant cyclone, began a three-week dance round the northeast coast of this continent. All the evidence so far adduced suggests that this is just an old Australian custom which is becoming worldwide. The man who started it was Clement Wragge, Queensland government meteorologist in the 1890s. He used the system in a series of public lectures, intended to explain the behavior of cyclones in simple terms.

PARALLEL BEHAVIOR

He chose feminine names because he considered that there were parallels in behavior between women and cyclones, both being tempestuous and unpredictable. Although the Commonwealth government refused to accept the system, which it regarded as frivolous, the idea was used officially in the Southwest Pacific during the war and has since become general in the United States.

Giant B.C. Aerial Tramway Part of T-C Microwave Link

VANCOUVER (CP)—One of the longest aerial tramways in North America is being built up a mountain 90 miles east of Vancouver to serve the trans-Canada microwave relay station.

A small construction crew has been working through the winter 4,900 feet up Dog Mountain, near Hope, building the tramway for the British Columbia Telephone Company.

It will be 11,700 feet long, with six towers spaced between two terminals. Longest span from tower to tower will be 3,700 feet.

All towers and lower terminals are completed and only the upper terminal remains to be finished. Here the men have faced bitter cold, wind and snow and can work only for short periods at times. A helicopter which supplies the camp is occasionally grounded in the valley below.

TWO-MILE-LONG CABLE

The main support cable, specially made and more than two miles long, has been laid along the tramway route. The "track" cable is to be placed on the towers and anchored at the two terminals, but the job will be complicated by heavy ice coating which now pins the cable to the rocks.

The tramway and relay station will be powered by electricity brought to the site on a new pole line built from the river up to the summit.

The relay station will serve as a link in the trans-Canada microwave relay chain which is to go into service next year, and also a relay point in a high-frequency chain between Vancouver, Prince George and Dawson Creek.

This latter chain already exists but is to be re-routed to eliminate Fraser Valley relay stations.

The chain is to go from Dog Mountain to Promontory Mountain, near Merritt, B.C., and Greenstone Mountain near Kamloops. There it will join the existing stations that extend up to Prince George and Dawson Creek.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The London Free Press announced a price increase Friday of five cents per week in its non-mail circulation effective next week. A publisher's announcement gave as the reason "substantial increases in the cost of production and distribution.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials, Metals Lose More Ground

Western oils moved from the upside to a lower level while industrials and base metals lost a little more ground in late trading today on the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Observers said traders were undecided about a number of factors, namely the Middle East crisis and the tight money situation.

AT TORONTO Trans Mountain and Pembina Pipe Lines were point winners among industrials. Goodyear Tire gained three points in light trading and Royal Bank gained 1¼ points at 67.

International Nickel dropped 2½ points to 98. Other seniors were fractionally easier. Uraniums and junior base metals moved lower in a 25-cent range with a few exceptions either way.

Western oils were slightly lower. Triad was off 15 cents to $7.55 and Home Oil B was down ½ at 17. Canadian Devonian lost 15 cents at $6.80. Canada Southern Pete gained 45 cents at $7.70.

AT NEW YORK key stocks were off from fractions to a point or so. Steels and oils suffered a little more than other groups but there was no noticeable selling pressure anywhere. Utilities and rails showed narrow changes for the most part.

Gaining Canadian stocks included McIntyre, up 1, and Granby Mining, ahead ⅛. Off were Aluminium Ltd. and International Nickel, down 1⅜ each, Hudson Bay Mining ¼ and Canadian Pacific ⅛.

Rising Canadian issues on the American Stock Exchange included Richwell Petroleum, up ⅛, and Fargo Oil, ahead 1-16. Preston East Dome was down ⅜, Shawinigan was off ⅛, and Eureka lost 1-16.

AT MONTREAL industrial stocks traded quietly on the stock exchange today. A few price movements ran over a point in both directions.

AT LONDON sterling fell sharply on the foreign exchange today as the stock market was dominated by the strike of British shipyard workers.

Prices were marked down but no heavy selling has been reported. Government securities suffered losses up to a point.

Dominion and colonial issues were lower. Foreign bonds provided an exception and there was renewed buying of Baltic stocks.

Canadian Pacific, which improved, was the only noteworthy change in rails. Initial marking down in industrials was followed by pressure to sell and losses were widespread and in some cases heavy.

There was early firmness in South African gold shares but interest remained limited. Copper shares fell but other base metals held steady. Oils were depressed.

AT VANCOUVER a quiet market saw little change in prices. Vantor sold 4,300 at $1.31. Futurity moved 2,800 at 41.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices showed a weaker tone today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Increased selling appeared in all grains and lack of commercial demand and declines on United States markets carried oats, barley and rye contracts to seasonal lows.

Best commercial demand appeared in flax where exporters were buying on recessions. Trade reports indicated the buying covered recent business to France and new small sales to the continent. Liberal offerings appeared in flax and included American selling. Prices were irregular and easier.

Oats and barley had domestic shipper support in moderately active trade.

Overnight loadings of Canadian wheat included Belgium 470,000 bushels, United Kingdom 430,000 and Netherlands 280,000.

Lakehead prices of class two, IWA and domestic wheat were unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP)—Wheat futures continued their downward slide on the board of trade today and carried other grains downward with them. Wheat was down more than three cents or more at times.

Selling in wheat apparently was a carryover of the liquidation of last week. Discouraged longs appear to be getting out of the market and demand is limited.

Traders are disappointed because wheat exports are not being reflected in this market. There also were reports Argentine wheat is under-selling U.S. wheat in European markets.

Prices were off a cent or more in most other grain deliveries, lagrely due to the weakness in wheat.

Woman Will Keep Big Schnozzle, Gives TV Prize Money to Charity

LONDON (AP)—Mrs. Terry Phillips, who won the price of a new nose on a TV show, said today she has decided to keep her old nose and give the money to charity. Her small daughter likes her the way she is.

Mrs. Phillips, 40, appeared last week on the television show State Your Case, during which viewers decide which of three hard-luck stories should be rewarded with the prize of £100 ($280).

The viewers looked at the mighty Phillips nose, heard her tell of her yearning to have it bobbed, and voted her the winner in a poll held by mail.

"She changed my mind for me," Mrs. Phillips told a reporter. "She cried bitterly and said 'Mummy, don't have your nose cut off.'

"My husband agrees with her, so the money goes to four charitable organizations in my home town of Twyford."

Said husband Bill: "We're all pleased she changed her mind. We've got sort of used to her nose over the years."

Dam Proposed To Make Lake Out of Gorge

A $500,000 proposal to dam the Gorge where Selkirk Waters narrow, making a fresh water lake, will be submitted to the next meeting of Gorge Waterway Improvement Association.

The scheme is advanced by Russel E. Potter, consulting engineer, past president B.C. Historical Society, former Public Utilities Commission member and at present Esquimalt delegate to the Greater Victoria centennial committee.

Mr. Potter did not suggest the plan as a centennial project but thought it should be considered by the Capital Improvement District Commission.

He believes if the Gorge was damned, Colquitz and Craigflower Creeks would produce enough fresh water to ensure good swimming with warm water temperatures.

Inner Harbor filth would be kept out by the dam. Low water level of Portage Inlet would be raised about three feet and maintained, completely covering all offensive mud flats. Some dredging and beach construction with hauled sand would be required.

The scheme is an alternate proposal to one considered earlier—cutting of a channel between Selkirk Water and Esquimalt Harbor with a series of dams and locks.

This plan was stalled due to an estimated $1,500,000 cost.

Saanich and Esquimalt have diverted sewage which once flowed into the Gorge but there is still some septic tank overflow from homes in the provincial territory along the Gorge.

Some residents feel if the Gorge is dammed the septic tank run-off plus the shallow flow of creeks draining into the northern sections in summer, will create a pollution problem.

However, the provincial government earlier stated some action on sewers would be undertaken in the near future.

Vancouver Wins Frostbite Races

Royal Vancouver Yacht Club's frostbite team won the Davidson Cup in an inter-club series of races Saturday and Sunday at Vancouver.

Royal Victoria was second, and West Vancouver Yacht Club, competing for the first time, was third.

Alexander Trophy for individual racing over a two-race series was won by Bunny Whitcroft, Vancouver. Ned Ashe and Peter Young, both Victoria, were second and third.

Calypso Trophy for the best individual score over the two inter-club regattas, first of which was sailed at Victoria two weeks ago, was won by Mr. Young.

In service competition held concurrently with the frostbite series, Royal Canadian Navy Sailing Association, Esquimalt squadron, defeated its fellow sailors from HMCS Discovery, Vancouver.

NO BOILS ON TIN MINERS

Because Cornish tin miners appeared to avoid skin blemishes, British chemists suggested the use of tin in treating Boils, Acne, Pimples.

Now convenient, tasteless tablets containing 42.5% metallic tin are available under the brand name "Tinoxid." Rapid, satisfactory results are claimed for this inexpensive treatment.

PIN RECORD CHANGES HANDS

Congratulating Wally Iverson (right) of Vancouver, Victoria's Ron Coulter could be recalling events of a year ago. Coulter won 1956 B.C. tenpin bowling crown at Vancouver, setting a new record in the process. Sunday night, Iverson captured the title and broke Coulter's mark by 17 pins as he finished 24-game final at Gibson's and Strathcona alleys with total of 4,499. Coulter lost in Canadian final last year. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

IVERSON WINS B.C. PIN TITLE

By DOUG PEDEN

Wally Loves Those Strath Lanes

If Wally Iverson had to do all his pin-spilling at Strathcona Bowling Alleys he would have no complaints, but the blond Vancouver kegler would just as soon steer clear of Gibson's Bowladrome lanes.

Iverson, who finished second to John Allenby in the Vancouver zone finals, captured the B.C. tenpin crown Sunday on the strength of his ability to master the Strathcona boards.

Trailing Allenby by 38 pins starting the final six games of the 24-game weekend series, the stocky Iverson mauled the Strathcona maples for 1,160 to finish 57 pins in front of Allenby with an aggregate total of 4,499 that erased the event record of 4,482 set by Victoria's Ron Coulter last year.

Wilbur Webb of Victoria took third place with a 4,405 total and Ken Munn, the Victoria zone champion, wound up in fourth place at 4,292.

Following in order were Bill Andrews, New Westminster, with 4,244; Jack Muzzin, Nanaimo, with 4,187, and Campbell River's Biff Ingram with 3,998.

Muzzin, competing in the provincial final for the second successive year, set a torrid pace in the opening six games at Gibson's Saturday. The Nanaimo veteran averaged just over 200 as he collected 1,205 pins, but he ran into trouble in the second six-game set at Strathcona and managed only 985 to slip to the fifth spot as Allenby moved in front with a half-way total of 2,272, 32 pins ahead of Iverson.

Allenby added another six pins to his lead during the six-game square at Gibson's Sunday, but when the keglers again switched to Strathcona, the six-foot two-inch stylist skidded to 150 in his first game while Iverson was hitting 197 to take over the lead.

Iverson all but clinched the title as he followed with games of 213, 196 and 224 and was able to coast in with scores of 177 and 153.

In his fourth year of competitive bowling, Iverson had trouble controlling his hook on the new lanes at Gibson's and averaged only 179 in his 12 games at the Yates Street alleys. At Strathcona, his ball was swinging into the pocket with deadly accuracy, giving him a total of 1,186 Saturday and 1,160 Sunday for a sizzling 195 average.

His average over the series was 187.5 as he broke Victoria's two-year grip on the title, won by Andy Palmer in 1955 and by Coulter last year.

Webb was in the battle for the title until the 22nd game. He jumped into second place with a 204 in the first game of the final six-game square and with three games to go was 31 pins ahead of Allenby and only 50 out of the lead.

However, he ran into split trouble and collected only 137 pins while Iverson hit his 224 and Allenby rolled 203 and couldn't get back in the running as he finished up with 184 and 189.

Iverson will meet Cec Fowler, Calgary, the Alberta champion, at Vancouver March 30-31 for the right to advance into the Canadian finals at Quebec City.

This One Could Be THE One

Cats Host Canucks; Fielder Bumps Total

The future could be just a matter of hours for the Vancouver Canucks and (let's face it), the Victoria Cougars.

The two coast division teams, running in circles trying to gain a spot in the playoffs, collide head-on at Memorial Arena tonight and their seemingly endless string of "crucial" games could be brought to an abrupt end.

If the Cougars win tonight, it is all over. They will have third place by the margin of five points and the Canucks would be able to make up only four points before the schedule ends Saturday night.

However, if the Canucks win, they will trail the Cougars by the paper-thin margin of one point and the battle will go down to the weekend.

TWO MORE

After tonight, each of the contenders will have two games left. Cougars meet New Westminster Royals here Friday night and go to Seattle Saturday night.

Canucks are at home to Seattle Friday night and go to New Westminster Saturday night. The right combination of wins and losses could see the last playoff position in doubt until the last whistle of the last games of the season.

Cougars could have wrapped it up tidily Saturday night but, as usual, they blew their chance on the road. Winners of six straight at home, the Victoria club ran their road record to 11 straight games without a win when they were pasted, 8-3 by the Royals while Canucks were 5-2 losers to Seattle.

The Royals, using three amateurs in the place of three ailing regulars, bullied the Cougars, who were weak in every phase of the game.

THREE FOR MATTHEWS

Defenceman Ron Matthews scored three goals for the Royals, all on long drives from the blue-line. Ollie Dorohoy, Gord Fashoway, Blinky Boyce and Dennis Olson scored the other Royal goals while Colin Kilburn, Bruce Carmichael and Ray Powell replied for Cougars.

Guyle Fielder fattened his record scoring total for Seattle, picking up two goals and two assists to climb to the 116-point summit in the win over Vancouver.

Wings Kings Again Leafs Go Berserk

Detroit Nails 8th NHL Title

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Wings are once again champions of the National Hockey League.

The Wings wrapped up their eighth title in nine years Sunday night—defeating Montreal Canadiens, their closest rivals this year and the team that deposed them last season after a seven-year reign at the top.

The win—which gave them six more points than Canadiens, who have only two games left—was on Detroit ice and it was a tough 2-1 victory, Detroit's first win over the Canadians since Dec. 2 and their fourth in 14 games with Montreal this season.

LEAFS GO WILD

Detroit now holds the Prince of Wales Trophy for another season, but the team that caused the biggest sensation in five weekend games was one that isn't even in the playoffs—Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Leafs, lowest-scoring club in the league for most of the season, turned on New York Rangers and Saturday night in Toronto handed them an incredible 14-1 walloping in front of 12,601 amazed fans.

Sunday night, just to prove it wasn't a nightmare, the Leafs met the Rangers in New York and beat them 5-3 on two last-minute goals.

Boston Bruins did Detroit a good turn Saturday in Montreal as they doggedly fought to a 2-2 draw with the Canadiens which, combined with their loss Sunday to Detroit, killed the Habs' last hope of finishing first.

Sunday the Bruins defeated Chicago Black Hawks 6-2, and set a club scoring record while pulling into a second-place tie with Canadiens.

RECORD FOR LEAFS

The rout in Toronto Saturday equalled a league record and set a club record.

It was the highest winning margin in the NHL since Detroit sank the Rangers 15-0 in New York, Jan. 23, 1944, and the Leafs equalled the record 37 scoring points the Red Wings collected that night. And it was the best scoring performance ever turned in by a Leaf team.

Everybody on the Leaf club except goalie Ed Chadwick and defenceman Jim Thomson picked up at least an assist, but the big men were veteran left winger Sid Smith and rookie Brian Cullen, who each scored three times. Ron Stewart and Tod Sloan had two each; centres George Armstrong and Rudy Migay, Dick Duff and rearguard Al MacNeil got one apiece.

Sunday night Leafs and Rangers were tied 3-3 when goalie Worsley was pulled in the last minute. Leafs replied with two goals into the empty net.

Andy Bathgate assisted on all three Ranger goals, by Dave Creighton, Dean Prentence and Camille Henry, and in doing so tied his club assist-record, 47 this season.

Tiremen Take Hoop Crown

Experience paid off for Dickinson & Dunn again Saturday night as the Victoria squad wrapped up the B.C. senior B men's basketball crown with a 76-70 victory over Kelowna BA Oilers at Kelowna.

Battling to hold off a determined rally that brought the Oilers within one point in the final quarter, the veteran Tiremen steadied their forces and were in full command in the dying minutes as they took the two-game, total-point series, 139-130.

Oilers, again paced by coach Bill Martino, had trimmed the Double D lead to 69-68 and were trailing by only four points in the series when Victoria's pivot ace, Johnny Clark, fouled out with five minutes remaining.

However, with Norm Baker stepping into Clark's post position, the Tiremen controlled the ball the rest of the way and dropped in another seven points while holding the desperate Oilers to two.

BAKER GETS 28

Baker, who scored 20 points as the Victorians squeezed out a 63-60 victory in the opening game of the series Friday, came through with a 28-point effort Saturday while Clark swished 24 points through the hoop.

Martino, who scored 29 points in Friday's tussle, ended up with scoring honors for the series as he fired his jump shots for a 22-point total in the final game.

Tension was high throughout the game, which turned out to be the roughest played on the Kelowna floor this season. Both clubs lost three men on personal fouls.

Dickinson & Dunn—Baker 28, Clark 24, Tooby, Denison 3, Clarkson 2, Bamford 10, Davies 8, Jones 4, Jackson, Gilbert. Total 76.

Kelowna—Radies 9, Butcher, Martino 22, Dean 12, Englesvy 2, Tostenson 9, Langer 14, Thompson, McNaughton 2. Total 70.

Veteran Cooper St. Pete Winner; Balding Sixth

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—"Every time I got a putter in my hand it seemed like that little old ball was going for the hole."

That was the way greying Pete Cooper described his triumph Sunday in the $12,500 St. Petersburg Open golf tournament.

Putting enabled the 42-year-old Lakeland, Fla., veteran to shoot a closing six-under-par 65 and whip Jackie Burke Jr., Masters and U.S. PGA champion, by four strokes for the $1,600 top money.

His 72-hole chart read 68-68-68-65—269, 15 strokes under par. Burke had a 67-68-69-69—273 total, worth $1,300. Par for the 6,215-yard course is 71.

Toronto's Al Balding was four under par for the 72 holes with 72-66-71-71—280 and finished in a five-way tie for sixth place with Gene Littler, Jimmy Demaret, Doug Ford and Billy Casper Jr., each of whom earned $502.

Wanderers Beat Brits

Vikings Toast Waldo As Celtics Defeated

By TOM ENGLISH
(Vikings' Team Captain)

SASKATOON — We all bought the Cokes for Waldo Skillings Saturday night after he carried us past the tough Saskatoon YMCA Celtics and into the western Canada junior basketball final.

Big Waldo scored 25 points for us as we beat the Celtics, 57-40, in the third and deciding game of our best-of-three series, which we won by taking two straight games after losing the opener.

We are on our way to Winnipeg now for the Western Canada final, which starts tonight.

We were desperate to win this game because we hadn't played too well in the first two. We didn't waste any time, getting away to a fast 8-0 lead. However, part-way through the first half, we slipped and let them score 10 straight points to go two up on us. But Skillings and Bob Tomlinson started potting baskets from all over the place and by the half, we were leading, 33-18.

We ran it up to 44-19 before they got their first basket of the second half and at one-time we had a 20-point lead.

Saskatoon didn't give up on us and fought us right down to the whistle. We will all admit that they are a great team and they managed to cut their deficit down to 13 points before we put the stall on.

As I said, Skillings was our big man, rebounding well, setting up plays like a magician and potting 25 points.

Tomlinson was next best, with 15 points.

Jake Ens was the best man for Saskatoon as he got past us for 15 points.

Three players fouled out during the game. Tomlinson and me for our side and Bob Ball for the Celtics.

We hope that everybody in Victoria is rooting for us because the competition gets tougher as we go along. We are ready for tonight's game and we hope that we got all our bad games out of our system in the first two games against the Celtics. We'll do our best—that's for sure.

BALCOS OUST CLIPPERS IN ROUGH-HOUSE GAME

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Kamloops Balcos defeated Nanaimo Clippers 7-2 Saturday in the second game of the Coy Cup intermediate hockey finals to take the two-game, total-goal series 17-4.

Earl Robinson scored Clippers' first-period goal and Lawrence Plensky added the other Nanaimo tally in the third period while the Clippers were two men short.

Referees Deane Desireau and Ed Pippolo handed out 21 penalties, including four majors, three misconducts and a match penalty.

REDLEGS WHITEWASHED

Mick Pickles Two In Yankee Victory

By The Associated Press

Mickey Mantle and Andy Carey provided the punch Sunday and Bobby Shantz and Bob Grim combined to pitch shutout ball as New York Yankees defeated Cincinnati Redlegs, 9-0, before a sellout crowd of 6,932 at Tampa, Fla.

Mantle hit two homers, one a 350-foot slice over the left field fence in the first inning with a mate aboard, and the other a 420-foot drive in the eighth inning.

At Tucson, Ariz., New York Giants shoved over three runs in the eighth to break a 6-6 deadlock and defeat Cleveland Indians 9-6.

Don Zimmer's three-run homer in the second off Jim Bunning accounted for all the Brooklyn runs as the Dodgers defeated Detroit Tigers at Miami 3-2.

Chicago White Sox blasted three St. Louis Cardinal pitchers for 18 hits at St. Peterburg, Fla., and won a 12-3 verdict.

Jerry Schoonmaker came up as a pinch hitter in the seventh inning for Washington Senators and clouted a three-run homer to defeat Milwaukee Braves 5-3 at Bradenton, Fla.

B's Improve But Lose Out To Sunsets

Victoria B's came up with an improved performance at Vancouver Saturday to hold Vancouver Sunsets to a 41-41 tie but lost out in the B.C. coast senior "B" women's basketball playoff.

Sunsets had taken Friday's opening game in the two-game, total-point series by a 49-36 count and captured the series, 90-77. They will now meet Kelowna for the provincial crown.

Vancouver—Marilyn Peterson 17, Lennie McGivern 10, Sylvia Crawford 4, Jackie Moerike 7, Betty Schultz 3. Total 41.

Victoria—Bev Walls 12, Evelyn Donaldson 9, Chris Boyd 8, Juanita Wood 4, Gail Lajeunesse 4, Molly Mitchell 2, Barbara Peterson 2. Total 41.

Brown Leads Optimist Win

A change was better than a rest for Larry Brown.

Recently moved into the centre-forward slot, Brown scored his second successive hat trick to lead Optimists to a 4-0 Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association victory over Canadian Scottish at Windsor Park Sunday.

Nothing was at stake in Sunday's only match since Optimists had already clinched the Division II title, but three division crowns were decided in Saturday's action.

In exhibition matches Saturday, Eagles of Division V tripped Eagles of Division IV, 3-1, and Fuller's Clippers played to a scoreless Division III draw with Eagles.

Muriel, Joyce Lift State Shuttle Crown

Muriel Knott and Joyce MacDonald captured the women's open doubles crown in the Washington State Badminton tournament at Seattle Sunday night.

The Brentwood Badminton Club pair collected the title as they turned in a sparkling display in the final round to down Zoe Yeager and Mary Jean Bushell of Seattle, 15-2, 17-16.

Partnered with George Lane, Miss MacDonald dropped a hard-fought, 17-16, 15-7 decision to Don Davis and Donna Connolly of Seattle in the finals of the open mixed doubles event.

Lane later teamed with Rom Knott to win the veterans' doubles championship, defeating Carl Anderson, Seattle, and Portland's Russ Hill, 15-12, 15-12.

Bob MacMurchie and Reg Hoadley of Victoria took the class "B" men's doubles final with a 15-9, 15-7, triumph over the Vancouver duo of Chuck Forbes and Art Yeske. MacMurchie joined Rose McGregor of Vancouver to win the class "B" mixed doubles crown in a three-game marathon with Joyce Jones and Hugh Mitchell of Seattle.

Davis took the men's open title by defeating Vancouver's Bert Fergus, 17-14, 15-8, and Claire Lovett of Vancouver picked up the women's single crown with an 11-6, 12-11 win over Portland's Mary Anne Wolfe.

Runs Win Record To 12 Straight

University School stretched its undefeated rugby skein and retained the Harker-Privett Trophy by downing St. George's School of Vancouver, 24-0, at University School Saturday.

University, which now has scored 12 successive victories, trimmed St. George's, 10-5, at Vancouver in December in the first of the two annual matches played between the two schools for the trophy.

In two other games at University School, the host school's 120-pound squad whipped St. George's 20-3, and the visitors' 105-pounders tripped their hosts, 12-6.

Van. College Beats Toppers In Prep Final

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver College Saturday became the B.C. high school basketball champions when they scored a 57-40 victory over Cumberland high school.

In the first quarter the Vancouver team took a 19-5 lead. They remained ahead, though often hard pressed.

First eight placings in the championship: Vancouver College, Cumberland, MacGee, North Surrey, Lester Pearson, John Oliver, Chilliwack.

Cumberland—Potkonjak 9, Bulatovich 11, Collins 2, Carlson 6, Tantrum 5, Bill Mossey 7, Bob Mossey, John Tobacco, Eric Tobacco. Total—40.

Vancouver—Tetty 1, Oster 18, Seale 6, Brunnelle 2, Lasko 10, Whitty 13, King, Guidi, Cameron, Dumont, Leclaire, Winshaw, Walon. Total—57.

Annual 'Spiel Away; 64 Rinks Seek Prizes

Late cancellations dropped the number of entries in the Victoria Curling Club's fifth annual men's bonspiel below the predicted number but there was still a healthy total of 64 rinks in the fold when first rocks were tossed in the Dominion Hotel primary event this morning.

Six draws are scheduled for today, the last one starting at 9.30 tonight, and seven draws are on the card for Tuesday. The busy curlers will get a bit of a break Wednesday, when only five draws have been slated in order to allow time for a social evening.

Sixteen visiting foursomes are included in the entry list. Five are entered from Vancouver; four from Duncan, three from Port Alberni and one each from Penticton, Chilliwack, Parksville and Nanaimo.

Entrants will be chasing prizes in the Dominion Hotel and Colonist primary competitions, the Daily Times and Ker & Stephenson secondary events and two tertiary events. Each rink is guaranteed a minimum of six games.

In addition to the trophies at stake in the six events, the Birks grand aggregate prize will go to the rink finishing with the best winning percentage.

Water Reveals Whisky's true flavour

Water (plain or sparkling) is your most reliable guide to the whole truth about any whisky. Water adds nothing, detracts nothing, but reveals a whisky's true natural flavour and bouquet. Put Seagram's "83" to the water test and you'll agree — to be that good with water, it must be a superb whisky and a more satisfying drink with any man's favourite mixer.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Patty Berg, the mechanical woman of golf, fired a sensational 69, three under men's par, Sunday to finish three strokes ahead of Seattle amateur Anne Quast and win her seventh Titleholders golf championship.

Gorge Given Losing Lesson

Gorge Hotel finally got around to learning how the rest of the Victoria and District Football League lives.

Tillicums did the tutoring at Central Park Sunday, introducing the Gorge aristocrats to the taste of a league defeat as they jumped into an early lead and held on for a 2-0 victory.

First half champions and previously unbeaten in league play this season, the Hotelmen tumbled into a second-half tie with Tillicums and Butler Brothers as they flubbed a flock of scoring chances while buzzing around the Tillicum net in the late stages.

Ced Robb sent Tillicums into the lead five minutes after the opening whistle and Tim Walker wound up the scoring 15 minutes later.

Gorge dominated most of the second-half action but were unable to find an accurate triggerman to finish off their scoring attacks, missing their best chance when Ian Holroyd shot directly at the goaltender on a penalty kick.

SCORELESS TIE

Butlers earned a share of first place as they played a hard-fought scoreless tie with Punjab United at Heywood Avenue and Heaneys edged last-place Esquimalt in a 6-5 goal-fest at Beacon Hill Park in Sunday's other matches.

Heaneys lost the lead three times before Nelson Crisp's goal at 26 minutes of the second half finally gave them the win over the stubborn Dockyarders.

Two goals by Stu Walker and a single tally by Darrell Burley while Leroy Bond and Keith Todd were replying for Esquimalt gave Heaneys a 3-2 half-time lead.

Nip Sage and Bond gave Esquimalt the lead for the first time shortly after the intermission but veteran Stan Wiseman came back with two quick goals to send the Cartagemen back out in front at 5-4. Len Potter again evened the count for Esquimalt and set the stage for Crisp's winning tally.

BAKERS IN SEMIS

In Saturday's lone match, Brodie's Bakery advanced into the lower Island semifinals of the Province Cup competition with a 3-2 win over Canadian Scottish at Royal Athletic Park.

Jim McConnachie, with two goals, and Alf Hagen gave the Bakers a 3-0 margin before Roy Jackson made it 3-1 at the half. Jackson notched the only tally of the second session.

MARY'S CALL WORKOUT

Mary's Coffee Bar of the senior "B" men's Softball League will hold its first practice at Mount View High School gym at 8 tonight.

ORMISTON SALT SPRING BRONZE BOY

Bronze Gloves novice boxing competition finals were held on Salt Spring Island Saturday with Tim Ormiston, of the Victoria Fire Department Club walking off with the Bronze Boy award following his win in the 75-pound weight class.

It was nearly all Victoria with three other Fire Department boys fighting and two of them winning their division championships.

Wayne Orrick won in the 80-pound class while Bill Duckworth took the title among the 100-pounders.

Lone loss for the Victoria stable was registered when Dwayne Trevertte was bounced out of the 112-pound bracket in his first bout.

Royals Rally To Deadlock Peewee Semi

The Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association playoffs drew to a stalemate Saturday at Memorial Arena, when Flyers and Royals played to a 5-5 overtime draw in the peewee semifinals.

Five minutes before the final horn, Royals picked up the goals to earn the tie when Bob Knezacky and Brian Chamberlain notched goals. It was Knezacky's second goal of the game.

Other scorers for Royals were David Chapman and John Davies.

The Flyers and Royals meet again next Saturday morning, with the winner of the one-goal sudden-death game to meet the Senators immediately after for the city championship in the peewee division.

VICTORIA ELIMINATED

Varsity Dunks Tide's Chances

VANCOUVER (CP)—Varsity Thtinderbirds eliminated Victoria Crimson Tide from McKechnie Cup English rugby competition here Saturday with a 26-10 victory over them at UBC Stadium.

It was Victoria's second straight defeat in the series—they had lost previously to Vancouver Reps—and put the Island team out of contention. Varsity meets Vancouver Reps in the final game March 30 at UBC.

Varsity's points were made up of one goal, two dropped goals, three penalty goals and two tries. Victoria scored two goals.

Gary Sinclair put Varsity ahead when he finished off a three-quarter movement with a try, and Gerry McGavin converted it to make the count 5-0. Victoria tied it up when Ray Calton snapped up the ball from a set scrum, ran ahead and then cross-kicked for Ron Jones to take the ball on the bounce and cross the line for a try. Stew Smith converted with a long kick from near the sidelines.

TRAIL AT HALF

Gerry McGavin put Varsity in front again with a 30-yard penalty goal, and Jack Maxwell increased the score to 11-5 on another fine backfield run. Gerry Main wound up a Victoria passing attack with a try, and Smith again converted with a long kick from close to the touchline. At halftime Varsity led 11-10.

Gerry McGavin kicked another penalty goal from 25 yards out, then Ted Hunt started a solo run. When the Victoria defenders expected him to carry on he suddenly stopped and dropped a goal from 35 yards out.

Cleve Neil added a further try after another passing attack by the backs, and McGavin booted another 25-yard penalty goal. The final score came when Gordy Hemingway, Victoria's fullback, tried to clear into touch with a long kick and failed to get the ball over the line. Sinclair snapped it up, ran ahead, then dropped a goal from 40 yards range with a great kick.

Air Pellets Wound Watchman Near Eye

(From CP Dispatches)

VANCOUVER—Youths fired air pistols at a 60-year-old grain elevator watchman Sunday and one pellet struck him close to the eye and had to be removed by a surgeon.

George Buckingham, watchman at an Alberta grain elevator, told police two youths about 18 opened fire on him with air pistols when he ordered them off the property.

He said he had to brave a barrage of "more than half a dozen" shots when a door locked behind him, forcing him to seek another entrance to the company office. Buckingham said he threw stones at the youths to deflect their aim but was struck by a number of flying pellets.

Eden's Doctor Orders Rest, Quiet

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters) — The condition of Sir Anthony Eden has improved in the last week and no further bulletins will be issued unless there is a change.

A bulletin issued after Dr. W. E. Henley spent an hour with Eden Sunday at Otehei, Bay of Islands, said:

"Sir Anthony Eden's general condition improved during the last week.

"There has been no return of the fever, but the need remains on medical grounds for rest and quiet."

$10,000 Donated To Cromie-Dix Memorial Fund

Over $10,000 has been contributed to the Cromie-Dix Memorial Fund at UBC, honoring the memory of Samuel Cromie, assistant publisher and vice-president of the Vancouver Sun Publishing Co., and William D. Dix, vice-president of sales, Neon Products Ltd., who drowned 40 miles north of Vancouver Feb. 16.

The series of educational grants, to be administered by the university, has been established by friends of the two men in Vancouver.

The fund will be available to students in need of financial assistance and interested in the following areas — leadership training or boys' work, education, social work or welfare, social sciences, advertising, journalism and community and regional planning.

Contributions may be sent to The Bursar, University of British Columbia, Vancouver 8, B.C.

20-Cent Hourly Wage Increase Won by Printers

Victoria Typographical Union, local 201, has signed an agreement with four city commercial printing firms providing for a 20-cent hourly wage increase.

Shops affected are Acme Press Ltd., Buckle Printing Co. Ltd., Hebden Printing Co. Ltd., and Colonist Commercial Printing. About 20 compositors are involved.

Eight cents of the boost is retroactive from March 1, 1956, and the remaining 12 cents became effective the first of this month, boosting wages to $2.46 an hour.

The union also won an increase in the night shift differential from nearly 12 per cent to 15 per cent over the day shift.

U.K. Emigrants Hit Airlift Crowding

VANCOUVER (CP)—Twenty-nine Britons, some of them grumbling about plane accommodations, and 46 Hungarians arrived here Sunday on the first of 350 flights that will carry some 25,000 emigrants to Canada from Europe.

Some of the British emigrants complained of overcrowding on the Flying Tiger Airlines DC-4 which they said had 10 too many people on board.

Alec Rankin, one of the Britons, said that from Newfoundland's Gander airport to Winnipeg none of the passengers had a proper meal.

"We were served with a packet-lunch after a two-hour wait at Toronto—that's all. We were made to feel we were lucky to get that.

"It's disgusting. I'm writing to the papers as soon as I get the chance."

Six other Britons when interviewed criticized conditions aboard the aircraft—but some said they did not "expect too much."

Most of the planes being used in the mass airlift have been chartered from United States airlines, as was the case with the four-engine DC-4 used in the initial trip. However, major Canadian air carriers will also participate.

HEAVY LOAD

The main span of Australia's Sydney harbor bridge carries four railway tracks, a wide roadway and two footpaths.

MEETING TUESDAY

Beaver Lake Playground Due This Year

A playground with swings, teeter-totters and other equipment is planned as a main project this year of the Beaver-Elk Lake swim committee.

The committee also will consider installation of horseshoe pitches and shuffleboard decks at either or both of the lake beaches.

Club spokesman Wilf Sadler said competitions may be organized in both sports and final playoffs held at the same time as the annual Labor Day lake-crossing swimming race for teenagers.

The swim committee will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. Any persons interested in joining should attend the Beaver Lake concession, Lakeside Tea Room, at that time.

New Volunteers To Donate Blood Needed Urgently

Need for new volunteer donors at a Red Cross blood clinic on Wednesday was stressed today by blood transfusion secretary Mrs. Violet Thistle.

"We must have new donors to take the place of those who move away, are sick or have become too old," she said. "The need is urgent."

The clinic will be held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street, between 1.30 and 4.30 p.m. and 7 and 9.30 p.m.

A clinic also will be held next Tuesday at the Old Gymnasium, HMCS Naden, for servicemen and civilian workers at Naden.

Goal of 800 pints has been set.

Physician Dies

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Dr. Seale Harris, 87, widely known physician and author, died Saturday after a long illness.

Harris was the first to identify hyper-insulinism, the opposite disease to diabetes. Hyper-insulinism is a disorder in which the pancreas manufactures too much insulin, the substance which regulates the amount of sugar in the blood.

TECHNICAL DIRECTOR of the Aluminum Company of Canada, G. M. Young, Montreal, will address the Vancouver Island chapter of the American Society for Metals, of which he is a vice-president, at a 7 p.m. meeting Tuesday at the Pacific Club. Subject will be "History of Aluminum Alloys Development."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

What Is a Light Year?

One way to measure distance is with inches, feet, yards and miles. These are the units of long measure. We can also measure distance by time. An hour's walk is the distance you walk in one hour. A ship going 30 knots sailed 30 sea miles in an hour. A two-hour drive is the distance a car travels in two hours. If the driver's average speed is 30 miles an hour, the two-hour drive is 60 miles.

The light year is the giant brother of the hour's walk, the sea knot and the two-hour drive. It is a measuring unit of distance and time. In the walk, the knot and the drive there was a traveler going at a certain speed. There is also a traveler in the light year measuring unit. This is the fastest traveler known. It can whip around the equator about seven and a half times in one single second. You can guess the name of this speedy traveler.

The astronomers needed a huge measuring rod to estimate the vast distances of space. A billion miles, even a trillion miles, is no distance at all in the starry sky. The nearest star to our sun is about 27 trillion miles away. Compared with other stars, these neighbors are right in our own back yard. Imagine the pages of figures needed to write down all these distances in miles!

A larger measuring unit, one covering trillions of miles was needed. The light year is the measuring unit which meets the need. It is a measure of distance in one year. The speedy traveler, of course is light. A light year is the distance traveled by light in one year. Just as an hour's walk is the distance you walk in one hour.

Light whips through empty space at a fairly even speed. It may be bent in passing near a large star. It slows up slightly as it passes through the earth's atmosphere. But, barring accidents, it speeds along at an average speed of about 186,000 miles a second. In one year, the light from a blazing star will travel about six million, million miles. That is written as a figure six followed by twelve zeros. You could write the distance of one light year as 6,000,000,000,000 miles. But it is far more simple to write that distance as one light year.

The stars nearest our sun are about four-and-a-half light years away. Other stars are hundreds of light years distant. The Galaxy, which is our pinwheel system of stars is about 100,000 light years from rim to rim. The nearest star system to our Galaxy is some 80,000 light years from its borders. A fairly close neighbor, as galaxies go, is the big nebula in the constellation Andromeda. Telescope instruments estimate this starry system to be some 750,000 light years from our Galaxy. Imagine trying to write those distances in ordinary miles!

9,000 B.C. Teachers, Says Official

JORDAN RIVER—Growth of the B.C. school system from 16 schools and 16 teachers in 1872 to 1,300 schools with 9,000 teachers at present was traced at a PTA meeting here by F. P. Levirs, chief inspector of schools.

It was announced that a portable record player had been bought for use by the school and community, and that a picture of Queen Elizabeth, a number of books, and fish to stock the students' aquarium will be bought for the school.

Tentatively chosen as delegates to the April PTA convention were Mrs. R. Dier and Mrs. E. Bartamus.

Caesar Snags Five Emmies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sid Caesar may be having trouble with his audience ratings, but he's going great guns in winning awards. His show has snagged five of the ninth annual TV academy awards.

Caesar was named best comedian of 1956 in the Emmy telecast Saturday night and his Caesar's Hour was proclaimed the best hour series by the academy's 2,700 voters. Emmies went to his supporting performers, Carl Reiner and Pat Carroll and to his one-time co-star, Nanette Fabray, as best comedienne.

The honors may have arrived in the nick of time. Plagued by Lawrence Welk, Caesar's show has drawn disappointing ratings this season and has been rumored a casualty.

Another big winner in television's annual sweepstakes was CBS' ambitious drama series, Playhouse 90. Its production of Requiem for a Heavyweight was tabbed best single program of the year and gave Emmies to actor Jack Palance, writer Rod Serling, director Ralph Nelson and art director Albert Heschong. Playhouse 90 was also selected best new program series.

REPEAT WINNER

Loretta Young won as best actress in a dramatic series and Claire Trevor was cited for her single performance in Dodsworth for Producers Showcase. Both have won Oscars and Miss Young owns a previous Emmy. Robert Young of "Father knows best" was honored as best actor of a dramatic series.

Two singing charmers, Dinah Shore and Perry Como, were named best personalities in a continuing performance. Leonard Bernstein was selected for the best musical contribution because of his Omnibus lectures.

Edward R. Murrow, an old hand at award winning, scored again as best news commentator. Also receiving awards were his See It Now show for best public service and Years of Crisis, year-end report by Murrow and CBS correspondents, as best coverage of a newsworthy event.

Phil Silvers, who took home three Emmies last year, claimed one for the best half-hour series and his squad of writers won for best comedy writing.

SELLOUT EXPECTED TONIGHT

Awed Admiration For Gould Mastery

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

There has been nothing in Canada's musical history to quite equal the advanced and dazzling achievements of pianist Glenn Gould. Still in his early twenties, an acknowledged genius, with a technical mastery of the keyboard and musical intuition that is completely mature, this extraordinary young man is almost surely headed for a niche among the immortals.

Following his performance Sunday of Beethoven's Concerto No. 4 with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, it seemed he was one likely to be famed as a leading Beethoven interpreter.

But Gould is not to be exclusively categoried. For encores he turned to the works of Bach and gave us some of the most perfect and exciting playing of the afternoon.

With his second Victoria appearance, tonight an anticipated sell-out—3,000 on Vancouver Island from Duncan southward—will have heard the Victoria Symphony Orchestra and its outstanding guest artist.

'Luminous With Intensity of Emotion'

Gould's performance of the Beethoven Concerto, while sheer perfection in technique, yet went so much further. It was luminous with the intensity of emotion and clear perception that is characteristic of the artist.

A limped touch that caresses the keys into tones of the utmost delicacy or presses out clarion fortes of true sonority, is part of his remarkable equipment. Scintillating trills and scale passages and a flawless legato (outstanding in the Bach numbers), compel an awed admiration.

From the moment of sitting down at the piano, Gould is living the music. It takes possession of him—yet he is always in complete control.

Compulsive Surge of Rhythm Never Stops

He achieves a unity of the three movements that is by no means always the case in concerto playing. The compulsive surge of rhythm never stops and his entrances are so smooth they seem to flow directly out of the ochestral utterance.

A fine accord existed between Hans Gruber, orchestra and soloist. The partnership appeared to be a particularly happy one with the orchestra performing at the peak of its competence.

As the major orchestral contribution to the program Gruber selected Paul Hindemith's "Nobilissima Visione," the "St. Francis" ballet suite. Not an easy work to understand on a first hearing, it nevertheless held much of interest.

Gruber gave it a strongly imaginative interpretation and technically it was a quite secure performance. The finale is arresting and was vividly presented.

A delightful Sinfonia in B flat by Christian Bach opened the program on a cheerful, lively and lyrical mood. This was splendidly done with some particularly beautiful oboe passages.

TV CONFUSION

Pep Pill Puts Pearl Off Beat

LONDON (AP)—Singer Pearl Bailey wandered through a television performance in a state of confusion Sunday night and later blamed a pre-show pep pill.

At the start of her performance she had trouble unravelling a wire on her roving microphone. Her speech slurred and she lost touch with the orchestra. Then she jumped down among the drums and sang choruses punctuated by disjointed remarks. Finally she wandered into the audience and persuaded a man to go on stage and dance with her.

She rallied at the finish and was singing lucidly when the curtain came down.

In her dressing room, Miss Bailey told reporters:

"I haven't been well and haven't eaten a thing for four days. Tonight, just before the show, I took a pep pill and bingo! I just couldn't focus on anything."

Her manager Chancey Olman chimed in: "Pearl never drinks alcohol—it doesn't agree with her. She had a pill to buck her up." He did not say what kind.

Ferry to Anacortes To Resume Friday

The manager of Washington State Ferries announced at Seattle today that service from Anacortes to Sidney will begin next Friday.

Manager Floyd McDowell said a ferry will make one round trip daily but that additional service will be provided later in the season.

He said traffic on the run increased from about 71,000 vehicles and 146,000 passengers in 1951 to 196,000 vehicles and 233,000 passengers last year.

Bootlegger Fined $150 for Selling Liquor to Indian

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — George Yet Young, a Chinese-Canadian, was fined $150 with $6.50 costs at Port Alberni police court Saturday for illegally selling liquor to an Indian.

Young had the option of 30 days in jail. He pleaded guilty.

Preferring the charge, RCMP told of investigations made of the accused's premises on First Avenue North, and of a purchase made with marked money to obtain evidence.

Strike Closes Nanaimo Paper

NANAIMO (CP) — The Nanaimo Free Press was closed today by a strike of 18 members of the International Typographical Union, the newspaper said.

It was the first time in 68 years that the newspaper failed to publish, except for Sundays and statutory holidays.

A conciliation board last month recommended a wage increase of 21 cents an hour for a five-day week of 37½ hours.

The Free Press accepted the recommendation but the union rejected it.

25-CENT BOOST

Later, the paper says it offered to meet union demands for 25 cents an hour and give the ITU jurisdiction over all printing work and the proofreader, who has been an employee of the editorial department. The paper also agreed on double time for overtime after three hours.

The Free Press declined to include provision for three weeks holiday with pay, control of teletypesetter equipment or further changes in the proofreader's status in an agreement.

The paper said the main point in dispute before the printers left work Saturday afternoon was control and training procedure of teletypesetting equipment.

The newspaper management said it has no intention of introducing keyboard equipment into the office to punch typesetter tape.

Last-minute negotiations continued from late Sunday night until 3 a.m. today without agreement. Pickets were posted at 7.30 a.m.

The Free Press employs a total of 58 persons. Those not involved in the dispute were sent home.

The paper is one of the group published by Roy H. Thomson.

PORT ALBERNI (CP) — Leslie J. McLaughlin, a construction worker, was fined a total of $65 with $6.50 costs in police court here Saturday for driving without due care and attention, not having a B.C. licence plate, and not having a B.C. driver's licence.

McLaughlin, who pleaded guilty to the charges, was said to have been involved in a three-car collision here late Friday night.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Sidney RCMP court:

Clarence L. Ellis, 1434 Hillside, $10 and $5.50 costs for driving a truck without motor carrier plates.

In Sidney juvenile court:

A boy motorcyclist, $15 and $5.50 costs for speeding over 30 miles an hour in the village; paced at 50.

School Band In Top Form At Qualicum

The band is a project of the Canadian Legion branch, which provides instruments and the year's tuition.

Also featured were a clarinet ensemble of five, and a new group, the "Three — and One," which gave lively renderings in the modern idiom.

Spirited direction of two one-act plays by two senior students was seen in "Be Home at Midnight," directed by Joy Butler, and "No Television Tonight," directed by Gerry Bone. R. C. Roberts' senior drama group was seen in "Alice Blue Gown."

Choral numbers by junior and senior choirs of the elementary school under Mrs. L. B. Thomas showed good harmony and diction. The high school's junior choir was heard in "Bonnie Doon," and the glee club in western numbers.

PROSPECT'S FAVORITE SWAN DEAD

Lonely Mate in Mourning

And his mate, Marilyn, today is slowly circling the lake which has been their home for the past two years—crying, searching futilely.

Tommy was shot sometime Sunday.

Lakeside residents watched from the shore as Tommy—a big, white, graceful bird—slowly died at about 8 a.m.

He circled in the water and gave a death cry before he flattened out on the lake.

Tommy and Marilyn were placed in the lake by city parks administrator, W. H. Warren, two years ago. It was hoped for the pair would raise a family of signets for Beacon Hill Park.

Lakeside residents are outraged over the shooting of the swan. Tommy liked his human friends, and fed out of their hands.

During the winter months when the lake was frozen over, residents fed the birds which were trapped in a small section of open water.

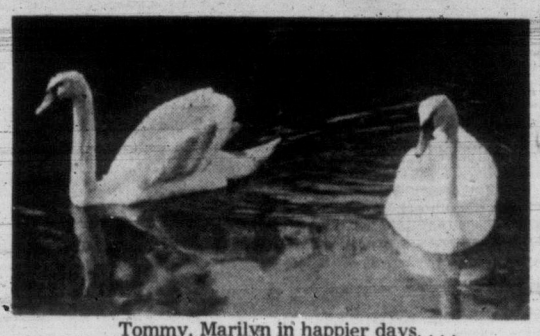
Mrs. George Roberts, a resident, said no one knows who shot the swan, but it probably took place in the early hours of Sunday morning.

Mrs. Arthur S. Steward said she believed it was someone trying to shoot wild geese. "The birds made a lot of noise during the night," she said. "It was probably then the swan was shot.

Mr. Warren plans to remove Marilyn to Beacon Hill Park.

"At the moment I have no plans for replacing swans at Prospect Lake due to the loss of this bird," he said. "I was disappointed when I heard it was shot as I thought the swans would be safe there."

He said for the time being he would only use Elk Lake for raising swans for Beacon Hill Park.



Tommy, Marilyn in happier days. . . .

Forces Uniting In School Fight

Burgeoning Costs Worry Municipalities

Action to fight rising school costs will be asked of Victoria city council Wednesday by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

The mayor will urge support of a Union of B.C. Municipalities proposal for "unified action."

He will put before council a letter received today from UBCM executive director T. R. B. Adams directing all member municipalities to write to the minister of education and Premier Bennett detailing inequalities in the provincial school formula.

The UBCM executive feels more and more school costs are being loaded on the municipalities and the province is gradually accepting less responsibility.

"It has become evident, the municipal share of education costs is once again becoming increasingly unbalanced due to the inflexibility of the (distribution) formula," the letter stated.

NEW FORMULA

"This situation was foreseen by us when the new formula was implemented in 1955, but we could not at that time persuade the government of its seriousness."

The UBCM has established a special committee to work with the B.C. School Trustees' Association in compiling facts.

"Your president (J. E. Fitzwater, mayor of Kamloops), is of the opinion we shall only succeed if our submission is detailed, factual and irrefutable."

The UBCM concern is a reflection of worries felt by local municipalities last week when the $5,153,161 Greater Victoria school budget was presented.

It was increased over $500,00 from last year. Almost $400,000 of the increase was due to increases in wages.

While the provincial government pays 50 per cent of approved school costs, it does not approve wage increases beyond a net scale. The scale is lower than Greater Victoria is required to pay in order to keep teachers in the district. Often the increased salaries result from decisions by government arbitration boards.

As a result, the local boards are paying more of the cost each year, and the province less.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow made much of this point recently. The new budget has been referred to a special meeting of city council Wednesday. Officials of neighboring municipalities and district 61 school trustees are also expected to attend.

Mayor Scurrah said today he supports the UBCM proposal for a concerted effort to have revisions effected in the school formula.

Immediate effect of the new budget on Victoria is to increase city expenditures by $152,562 which poses a threat of tax increases this year unless other economies can be found. As a result municipal expansion programs may suffer.

CAR DRIVEN FROM BURNING BUILDING

Fire of undetermined origin partially destroyed a storage barn and garage at the rear of 130 Menzies Street at 12.20 p.m. today.

Occupants at the house were at lunch when they noticed a roaring noise outside. Mrs. T. de Macedo, wife of the owner, ran outside and found the two-story building in flames. Their late-model car was in the garage, but Mrs. de Macedo was able to drive it away before it was damaged.

Damage to the building estimated at about $500.

MAYOR JEAN DRAPEAU of Montreal will address a joint luncheon meeting of both men's and women's Canadian Clubs here in the Empress Hotel Wednesday, March 27. He is on a cross-country speaking tour and is speaking at eight centres under Canadian Club auspices. General theme of the talks deal with the relationship of Quebec with the other provinces.

MONTE ROBERTS

My friend Harry Watts has solved the problem of Father's Chair.

You know the problem of Father's Chair.

In every household, there is one chair which, through custom and the passing of time, has become Father's Favorite.

It is known to one and all, from mother and the youngsters to the cats and dogs, as Father's Chair.

When Father comes home after a hard day pumping up pumpernickles at the pumpernickle factory, he subsides gratefully into His Chair, secure in the knowledge that no kith or kin (or dog or cat) will have taken over occupancy.

Thus, under everyday, routine circumstances, Father's Chair is no problem at all.

But, when company comes—ah hah, THAT is when Father's Chair becomes a problem of such magnitude it has defeated the combined talents of Josephine Lowman, Dorothy Dix, Emily Post and Ask Andy.

Being no fool, this male will spot Father's Chair as the most comfortable in the room.

And, to observe the age-old ritual, the visitor will say: "Sure I'm not taking your chair, old chap?"

And father will reply (lying in his teeth), "No, no, not at all. Go right ahead. I don't have any special chair."

Father MUST produce the above lie, otherwise Mother would beat him over the head with the nearest mixmaster for defying the rules of etiquette.

So the guest lolls luxuriously in Father's Chair, while Father mutters to himself and swears never again to allow anyone into his house.

That is the problem of Father's Chair; and this is my friend Harry Watts' solution for same.

I was a guest in Harry's home Saturday evening, and I immediately spotted Father's Chair, and went through the polite ritual before sinking happily into its comfortable embrace.

I knew I had Father's Chair, and Harry knew I knew, but Harry, of course, was bound by convention to disregard the fact.

And, just as I was settled with the utmost of comfort, Harry said to his son, John: "John, do you mind getting my slippers? My feet are tired, and I think I will change into my slippers."

At which young John said: "I got them for you already, Father. They are beside YOUR chair."

And sure enough, they were.

As I could plainly see, just by looking down over the arm of Father's Chair.

Naturally, I strolled across the room to make conversation with another guest, and My Friend Harry sat in his chair to change his shoes for his slippers, and . . .

Well, you see what I mean when I say My Friend Harry Watts has solved the problem of Father's Chair.

Hold-Up Suspect Must Stand Trial

Magistrate Commits Chalmers To County Court After Hearing

Bank robber suspect Colin W. L. Chalmers, 25, no fixed address, was committed in city police court today to trial in County Court for the $3,600 armed hold-up Feb. 11 of the Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch.

Preliminary hearing of evidence was completed before Magistrate H. C. Hall last Wednesday.

Prosecution witnesses, Victoria and Vancouver detectives, told the court some marked currency taken with other cash by a gunman was found in a hotel safe in Vancouver.

Police and the hotel manager said Chalmers had left the money there when he registered Feb. 21.

Chalmers was arrested, identified as the hold-up man by bank teller Peter Margetts, who was flown to Vancouver, and returned to Victoria to be formally charged.

Descriptions of a robber were given to Detective William Andrews and Cons. George Buckle after the hold-up.

They were acted upon by police in the arrest of Barry Irwin Keele, 26, no fixed address, who was charged with the robbery up to the time Chalmers appeared in city court. Keele was then released.

Detectives told the hearing Chalmers said he obtained the money, seized as evidence and entered as exhibits, in a floating crap game in a local hotel. Cash amounted to $620.

Man Breaks Leg In Car Mishap

An elderly Saanich resident fractured a leg while parking his car Saturday night and is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital.

Bert Menzies, 70, 3901 Stamboul, told police he caught his right leg in the car door when the vehicle rolled back after he parked it at 1598 Rockland about 9 p.m.

Cordova Due For Mothballs

HMCS Cordova will be paid-off into the reserve fleet at Esquimalt April 15 after six years operating in coastal waters as a training tender for the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve.

She is the last of three coastal escorts comprising the former second Canadian reserve training squadron.

The other two, Digby and Brockville, are already in reserve.

The Cordova was purchased in December, 1951, from the United States and was re-fitted as a training ship at HMC Dockyard. She is wooden hulled, of the former U.S. YMS type.

FOR RESERVISTS

Ships of the reserve training squadron were largely used for short-cruise sea-time for naval reservists. Official announcement has not yet been made, but it is believed training duties will be taken over by ships of the operational fleet, mainly frigates.

Also awaiting official announcement is decision to transfer the coastal minesweeper (MCB class) HMCS Comox to NATO.

Two improved types of sweepers, recently launched by Victoria shipyards, are now fitting out preparatory to joining the Second Canadian Minesweeping squadron.

Students to Vie For UN Visit

Grade 11 students in Greater Victoria will compete for a trip across Canada and the U.S. to the United Nations at a public speaking contest April 30.

Representatives of the five local high schools will speak in the competitions on a topic selected by the annual sponsors, the Odd Fellows Lodge, Victoria No. 1, and the Rebecca Lodges, Carne No. 45 and Colfax No. 1.

Winner of the all-expenses-paid trip, highlighted by a week in New York to see the UN General Assembly in action, will be chosen by three judges at the contest in Odd Fellows Hall.

CUB'S COPPER SHOW TOPPER

Wayne Buckley, right, Cub of 2nd Mt. Tolmie B pack, won first prize, a watch, in hobby show featuring display of work by 70 boys. It was donated by Henry Birks & Sons Ltd., and presented to winner by C. J. Williams, left, store manager. Allan W. Smith, cubmaster, is in centre. Copper work they hold was Wayne's prize-winning entry. (Times Photo.)

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Final results for Vancouver Island bridge championships will be made known Wednesday after they are compiled in the United States, American Contract Bridge League officials said here today.

The tournament, first of its kind to be held here, was Saturday in the Empress Hotel.

Local CCFer and teacher at Victoria West School, Bryan Mee, will moderate a public forum at the Douglas Street CCF hall Monday, March 25, on the question, "The Development of Natural Resources — Public or Private?" Speakers will include H. E. Botterell, Liberal; Monty Drake, Progressive Conservative, and Frank Snowsell, CCF. The meeting will open at 8 p.m.

A conciliation board will consider arguments in a wage dispute between nine painting contractors represented by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange and Local 1163 of the painters union.

The union is asking a 42-cent-an-hour wage increase for painting and 52 cents for paperhanging.

$38,500 Target

Red Shield campaign objective this year will be $38,500, unchanged from last year when the target was oversubscribed by $6,329, it was decided at the annual meeting of the Salvation Army Advisory Board Friday.

Victim Fell Against Bus, Inquest Told

Coroner's jury ruled today that Nicholas Swan, 79, died an accidental death when he apparently fell between a Shoal Bay bus and the curb at Oak Bay Avenue east of Chamberlain Thursday.

Mr. Swan died at Jubilee Hospital of multiple fractures to the pelvis and an internal hemorrhage about 45 minutes after colliding with the bus, driven by Jack E. McCormick, 3969 Quadra, at midnight.

He had stepped from the rear exit and "seemed to fall sideways" against the bus as it pulled away from the curb, passenger Miss Marjorie Lloyd told the jury.

CRUSHED

Evidence indicated that he was crushed between the bus and the curb. There were no external signs that the rear wheels had passed over his body.

Funeral services were scheduled to be held at McCall's today at 1.30 p.m., Dr. W. W. McPherson officiating. Interment was to follow at Colwood Cemetery.

Mr. Swan is survived by one daughter, Mrs. R. C. McBride, at home, 1912 Oak Bay; one son, Thomas, in Edmonton; seven grandchildren, and one brother, James, in New Brunswick, Nebraska.

Burglars Busy Over Weekend

About $100 in goods and cash were reported missing today by city police following a number of weekend break-ins.

About $19 in change was stolen from Grant's Pharmacy, Cook at Pandora, on Sunday, and about $75 worth of goods from the Avenue Grocery, 2725 Rock Bay.

Entry to the latter place was made through an unlocked window. Stolen were an electric razor, a mantel radio, an alarm clock and a suitcase containing clothing.

Delay Expected In 1-Way Street Study by Council

The most controversial issue in the city's proposed traffic and parking plans—a one-way street system to counter traffic jams at Fountain Circle—was expected to be pigeon-holed again today by city council.

Council was to meet later this afternoon to study the plans proposed by Sacramento California traffic expert Jackson D. Faustman.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said this morning he would ask "that we skip consideration of one-way streets today."

He said his request is based on a report to council last week by Ald. Hugh Ramsay which said a group of merchants, who are opposed to one-way streets, plan to bring Mr. Faustman back to the city to present an alternative scheme.

"We shouldn't complete our study until that report is received," the mayor stated.

BIG ADVANTAGE IN CANADA'S PLAN

U.S. General Likes Wider Cadet Choice

The Canadian Services Colleges have one big advantage over the three United States military academies as producers of officers for the armed services.

This is the opinion of Maj.-Gen. James E. Briggs, superintendent of the fledgling U.S. Air Force Academy at Denver, Colo., who visited Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, over the weekend.

The advantage:

ON STATE BASIS

In the United States, academies are required to accept new entries on a strict basis of percentage to state population.

"This is an admitted handicap for us," General Briggs said during an informal chat Saturday in the office of Capt. John A. Charles, commandant at Royal Roads.

"We do not necessarily get the pick of the crop. It could happen that the top 17 would-be officers from one state would actually rank below, say, numbers 50 to 67 in another, larger, and more advanced state.

"But, by law, we must keep our potential officers distributed according to population."

Capt. Charles agreed the Canadian system—whereby a complete class could come from one province if their qualifications justified—was much to his liking.

"If we don't get the best, it's our fault," he commented.

SAME SCHOOLS

The major difference between Canada's officer training plans and those of the United States, both General Briggs and Capt. Charles agreed, is that in Canada officers of all three services train in the same schools; in the United States, each branch now has its own school.

"Whether this is good or bad from our viewpoint is hard to say," General Briggs suggested. "There can't be a black-and-white answer to the question.

"The Canadian system offers an advantage inasmuch as it trains officers to understand the work and the problems of their opposite numbers in the other branches.

MORE INTENSIVE

"But the U.S. system gives much more intensive instruction in the one branch, whether it be sea, land or air.

Capt. Charles suggested the difference might lie in the number of officers-to-be in training.

"In the United States, it's about 10,000; in Canada, about 1,000. With smaller numbers, perhaps we can give intensive instruction in each type of service while giving broad education in all branches."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me if there is an Antarctic ocean? I have looked up the region in an atlas and reference books and they all seem to disagree.—Miss L.M.

A.—If you consult authentic maps of the South Polar and North Polar regions, you will observe that the earth's configuration differs entirely in those two areas. Whereas in the south, a long pointed land mass, South America, reaches towards Antarctica, dividing the southern waters clearly into the South Atlantic and South Pacific, there is no similar formation north of North America where the northern sea sweeps clear across the world. When man's expanding knowledge led to an increase in his grasp of the great physical facts of this earth, it was but logical that this great continuous body of water be given one name, it being one of the earth's major surface divisions. When geographers, adventurous sea captains and others came generally to recognize the "Arctic Ocean," it could truthfully be said to be its name, although there was in that early period no international body which could claim to have named it officially. Writers frequently speak of the Antarctic seas but not the "Antarctic Ocean."

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Meat Buying and Cooking In Informative Booklet

By PENNY SAVER

After leafing through a book I received recently, I realized how little was my knowledge of meats, both the buying and cooking.

Much of the flavor and goodness of various cuts of meats is lost through incorrect cooking, and, of course, this means a strain on your food budgets. You can save some pennies, and learn much about meats by referring to this wonderfully prepared booklet called "Meat—How to Buy, How to Cook."

Included in the book are facts about meat, the inspection and grading; how much meat to buy for average servings; how long to store meat in the refrigerator; how to roast, pan-fry, broil, pot roast, braise, stew, simmer or pressure cook.

Descriptions, with pictures of various cuts, and cooking methods are a tremendous help, for many people (including me) don't know one cut from another. Did you know that there's a special way to cook sausages and sausage patties? This is just another of the bits of informative material in the book.

Seasoning tips and special recipes that are so good with particular meats are included, too. Beef, lamb, pork (cured and smoked), veal and the variety of other meats, such as liver, heart and kidney are all included in the book.

I was pleased to find, at the back of the book, a recipe index, and there I saw such things as favorite Yorkshire pudding, curried lamb, lamb kabobs, mint glaze or sauce, quick chow mien, spareribs (bakes, barbecued, sweet and sour), pork pies (called tourtieres), veal birds, veal risotto, veal scalopini, miscellaneous recipes and a whole raft of sauces and glazes completed the index.

Every housewife, who wants to get the most from her cooking should have one of these all-encompassing books on meat buying and cooking.

If you would like to know where to obtain this book, priced 50 cents, call me at 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Middle-Aged Woman Must Use Make-Up With Care

When a woman has the bonus of extreme youth she can get away with almost any kind of make-up, although certain colors, of course, are most flattering. It is regrettable when a very young person uses enough make-up to hide the natural beauty and freshness of young years.

The middle-aged woman needs make-up more than her daughter does, but she should be sure to select it with care and apply it skillfully. If she uses too much make-up or the wrong colors, it will emphasize every line and droop she may have. Any extreme has this effect.

Skin tones usually change some as one grows older. A woman may keep a lovely complexion all through her life but for the most part the colors are muted as the years accumulate and the hair greys. Therefore, care should be used in the choice of colors. As a general rule these should not be too glaring. The softer shades usually are flattering, although a clear, not too bright red, is often good. Dark lipsticks usually are aging although some striking types can use them. The lips may become less full in older age and for this reason it is a good idea for the older woman to extend the natural line a bit.

As a general rule you need a bit more pink in your powder than in younger years. This is especially true at night, since artificial lights drain out the pink. Many chic women use no rouge in the daytime but highlight their eyes and then use rouge at night. When you apply rouge do not put it too low on the face. This adds years to your appearance.

The mature woman may have more shadows and circles about her eyes than she once did. For this reason I do not think that eye shadow is flattering to most women in this age group. If they use it at all it should be in some color other than brown or black. Some blues and greens are enhancing. Mascara can add to the attractiveness of any woman at any age if it is used with subtlety and art.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Woman of Fifty," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 33 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Middle East Needs Patient Thought

Sir Robert Henry Hadow, speaker here Friday at the Women's Canadian Club, urged his audience to "be patient and exercise self-denial in voicing opinions" as to the situation in the Middle East.

"Do not try to go back behind what happened at Suez," he advised. "Draw a line across the page and look to the future. The verdict will be given in history, not in our time."

Repeating much of what he had said at a luncheon meeting of the Men's Canadian Club, Sir Robert stood firm in his belief that the English-speaking world, the United States and the British Commonwealth "must remain together and forget yesterday in the interests of tomorrow."

"You must remember that we are not fighting Arab nations," he pointed out, "nor are we fighting Nassar as head of the Egyptian government. We are fighting an insidious, long-term policy in the race for world power as evolved in Moscow."

Candlelit Service in St. Matthias' For Jacqueline Quest, John Kucey

Fair-haired Jacqueline Ann Quest entered St. Matthias' Church on the arm of her father, Saturday evening, to become the bride of John Michael Kucey.

Her wedding gown was styled on Empire lines, the bodice of silk-embroidered cotton lace trimmed with opalescent sequins dipping to a shallow V at back, from an off-shoulder neckline. The skirt of gossamer silk organza billowed from tiny gores at the waistline, to full length. A tiara of silk-embroidered cotton lace trimmed with opalescent sequins held her veil of silk illusion, which misted to chapel length, and she carried a bouquet of rapture roses, gardenias and lily of the valley. She wore pearl earrings, gift of the groom, and a single strand of pearls.

Pink and white snapdragons and blue iris in tall standard baskets framed the bridal party as the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Quest, 1633 Pinewood Avenue, and the son of Mrs. M. Kucey, 1613 Belmont Avenue, said their vows before Canon F. E. M. Tomalin. The church was candlelit for the double-ring service.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Brian Johnson wore a gown of pale pink cotton lace and taffeta. She wore a pink taffeta headdress trimmed with opalescent sequins and carried a bouquet of rapture roses and pale blue hyacinths.

Miss Judith Ann Chesterman, Vancouver, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, wearing a gown of pale pink nylon. She wore a headdress of pink and pale blue hyacinth blossoms and carried a basket of rapture roses and pale blue hyacinths.

Ronald Campion was best man and Kenneth W. Quest, Vancouver, brother of the bride, and William G. Standbrook were ushers. Arthur Unwin sang "The Lord's Prayer" during signing of the register. Organist was L. Partington.

Reception was held at 1566 Hampshire Road, where the receiving line stood before a fireplace, flanked by standard baskets of pink and white snapdragons and blue iris. Mother of the bride wore an aqua lace dress with matching hat of aqua straw and corsage was of Johanna Hill roses.

Thomas E. Ainscough proposed the toast to the bride's happiness. A three-tier wedding cake topped with sweetheart roses, was surrounded by pink tulle.

The bride chose a champagne-toned cotton lace dress with peacock blue coat and champagne accessories for travelling on honeymoon through Washington and Oregon by car. She wore a pale pink hat and corsage of sweetheart roses surrounding a gardenia.

Mr. and Mrs. Kucey will make their home at Suite 11, 630 Gorge Road West, when they return.

Wedding Vows In St. Luke's

In St. Luke's Church Saturday, Canon Frederick Pike heard the wedding vows of LaVerne Dorrell Clarke and Arthur Ralph Russell.

Daffodils, tulips and pussy willows were placed on the altar for the ceremony which united in marriage the daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Charles R. Clarke, 600 Kerr Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Russell, 3968 Cedar Hill Road. Organist E. V. Edwards played traditional wedding music, and accompanied soloist, Miss Amy Watson, who sang "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a soft grey suit complemented with navy accessories and a tiny hat of pink. She wore the groom's gift, pearl earrings, and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and freesia.

The groom had Harry Bartlett, Qualicum Beach, as best man. Ushers were Thomas McConnell and Ralph Pettie, both of Victoria.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Monterey. Mrs. Arthur Bartlett, Qualicum Beach, played the wedding march as the young couple arrived. A three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table decorated with daffodils, iris and tulips. Harry Burgoyne, friend of the bride's family, proposed the toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell will live in Victoria after a honeymoon in Seattle.

Ex-Servicewomen at First Reunion Dinner

Tunes of "Tipperary" mingled with "Lilli Marlene" as 260 former servicewomen from New Westminster, Vancouver, up-Island points and Victoria met in Britannia Legion Hall on Saturday evening for their first all-services reunion dinner.

Guest of honor was Miss G. A. Roberts, RRC, director of nursing at Veterans' Hospital. Other honor guests included Mrs. A. F. Nation, CWAC; Miss M. B. Fenwick, ATS, Parksville; Mrs. K. Davenport, N/S, RCAMC; Miss "Babs" Innes, WRCNS; Mrs. P. D. Crofton, RCAF (WD), and Mrs. Ruth Moore, Vancouver, who was president of Branch 182, chartered in 1946.

Mrs. Muriel Overton, president of Ex-Servicewomen's Branch 182, Canadian Legion, in Victoria, presided at the dinner and convener of the reunion was Miss Betty Kerr, assisted by Miss Gerry Mumford. Representatives were present from women's divisions of all the services, with serving members of the reserve services and militia; former members of many branches of the imperial services and one representative from the WAC (India).

Toasts to the Queen and to the Canadian Legion were proposed by Miss Kerr and Miss Mumford; a vote of thanks to the sponsoring group was given by Miss Innes.

After dinner, a sing-song was led by Kerry Zeal, master of ceremonies, accompanied by Mrs. "Tip" Speakman at the piano. Other entertainers were Mrs. Jessie Preston, CWAC and reserve, guitar and soloist; Reg Stofer, comedian and singer, accompanied by Mrs. Evelyn Palmer.

Members of Branch 182 assisting with arrangements were Mrs. Annie Akkerman and Mrs. Edith Chappell, caterers; Misses Gerry Mumford, Dorothy Williams and Joyce Corp, equipment messing and entertainment; Mrs. Doris Walker, Mrs. Peggy Newman and Mrs. Myra Erickson, flowers and decorations; Mrs. Agnes Reeve, name cards; Misses Eileen Chapman, Mary Lawson, Margaret Gwynn, Grace Jennings, Anna Sanders, Jennie Pike, Daphne Temple, Barbara Atkins, Winnie Plummer, Mildred Cook, Shirley Smith and Kitty Graham.

Former members of Overseas Nurses Branch, No. 6, Victoria, at the gathering included Mrs. M. A. O'Leary, first president, and Mrs. Jean Thomas, last president. Others present included Miss Helen Cowhig, president, Victoria Ex-WRCNS Association; Myra Erickson, Peggy Newman, Doris Hooper and Grace Jennings, past presidents of No. 182 Branch, also former members of the B.C. Service Corps and the Nova Scotia Service Corps.

QUALITY HEARING AIDS!
Zenith offers the World's Finest Quality Hearing Aids—tiny, light, inconspicuous—$65 to $165

If you are hard-of-hearing, you naturally want a hearing aid that is inconspicuous . . . something really new and different.

All hearing aid manufacturers and dealers know this. That's why some of them use such alluring phrases as "a miracle of concealed hearing"..."unique and revolutionary inventions"..."a sensational new discovery"... and other exaggerated claims. But actually, the only big difference in hearing aids today is the price!

How is Zenith able to offer hearing aids of such exceptional quality at such sensible prices? Zenith's outstanding quality is a direct result of over 38 years of leadership and growth in electronics exclusively. As for price: if Zenith paid commissions of $145 to $160, as some do, even our $65 model would have to sell for over $200!

You don't risk a penny! We offer you a genuine 10-Day Money-Back Guarantee of complete satisfaction! Hear better or your money is refunded in full!

Don't delay! See Zenith's superb line of 4- and 5-transistor models at your nearby Zenith Hearing Aid Dealer. He's listed in the classified telephone directory. Or mail coupon for free catalog and list of dealers.

*Lenses and professional services in connection with the eyeglass feature available only through your ophthalmologist, optometrist, or optician.

NEW WESTERN 'WELLS FARGO' STARTS ON C-4 AT 8.30

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

CHATTER—According to scuttlebut Jock Dunbar's quarter-hour Sunday musical on Channel 6 is gathering the raves, more than any other locally-manufactured program. Seems as though the Dunbar personality is just made for the small screens . . . the baritone will be absent a week Sunday when he is scheduled to appear with the Vancouver Symphony.

Balance of the Victoria-originated shows are also reported making their sponsors tolerably happy. As a case in point, Roy Parrett's TV technicians' show, TV Today, was at the end of its contract when the purse strings were loosened for another round . . .

An apology from this corner to fight fans. These days it seems impossible to name more than 50 per cent of the right fighters. It is only rarely that we get word of substitutions, because of illness or injuries, until it is too late. Nothing much we can do about it though . . .

* * *

STILL on the subject of fights: Hope they don't let ex-Edmontonian Wilf Greaves burn himself out. It didn't take a pro last Wednesday to recognize a future champion as the Canadian clashed with Spider Webb . . . a little more experience and he can possibly stand up to the best in the business . . . if they don't push him too hard now . . .

Happy to see that Jerry Lewis will emcee the Academy Awards show night of March 27. Last year he was a dilly . . . Remember the night three or four seasons ago when Donald O'Connor tried and failed? Haven't heard much of the boy since. . . . by the way, Channel 2 will be carrying the awards from 8.15 to 9.15. Channel 6 tried to get it too but was refused after host station Channel 4 became uppity. . . .

If you missed picking up the science documentary, "Hemo the Magnificent," fast Wednesday on Channels 2 and 6 don't forget it will be shown on Channels 11 and 12 Wednesday from 9 to 10 p.m. Even if our great-great-etc. grandparents were no beauts and we're nothing more than animated sacks of sea-water this human heart treatise is an engrossing show . . .

* * *

KIDS, do you know why Douglas Kennedy, TV's two-gun Steve Donovan, Western Marshal, always fires with his right hand? According to NEA's Erskine Johnson the star's trigger finger on his left hand has been as stiff as a pencil ever since an auto accident several years ago. The finger, nearly hanging by a thread, was saved in a delicate operation. And that's why he empties one six-gun then throws it into the air while switching his second gun in his left hand to his right. He picked up the trick especially for the series . . .

And, in conclusion, we wish we possessed one wee part of the self-assured wisdom owned by The Vise's Mark Saber. Compared to him old King Solomon was a stuttering schoolboy . . .

CARROLL RICHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1957

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compel! What you make of your life is largely up to you."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Look to working everyday concerns out with all others. Be sure you do stop and listen to what your intuition have to tell you. Then you can really make progress and headway toward clearing your decks for action. Be efficient.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Going off to some pleasant site to lunch, dine, or otherwise enjoy yourself with those who are your partners, or who have it in their power to further your advance quickly, brings some excellent ideas and greater co-operation. Play p.m.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—The fixity of purpose with which you stick to the job at hand will be the test whether or not you use the wonderful influence now in effect. Control yourself until your tasks are finished. This brings added devotion, respect at home, too.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—You awaken feeling brighter, more cheerful than for some time past if you are living astrologically "right." Be sure you take full advantage of this good day to forge ahead in creative avenues as well as have a good time. Be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—There are some behind-the-scenes matters which must be solved before you are able to really express yourself at home as you would like. Make sure you do relax and have smooth discussion with your own household tonight. Entertain there, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—This is your day to get into the world of outside action to confer with all others, as well as run errands, finish shopping, fixing apparel, doing office filing or correspondence tasks, etc. Then you are able to enjoy close comrades p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Money, property and possessions all are your dish of tea today, since by concentrating upon them you add to your income, revenue and material well-being. Get right budget and see that your voice, throat are in good shape.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—You are unusually talented in being able to uncover anything that is not to your best interests. This you have already done. Today finds you able to take definite action in removing whatever is unwanted. Then get together with good friends for fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—Try to find out how those in power or who can in any way influence matters in your favor can be reached by appealing to their sense of justice, fair play. Later you find you can remove all obstacles of tiresome nature. Work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You can work vigorously toward gaining the objectives and goals that will enhance your current knowledge and give you greater benefits than ere this. Be open-minded to new methods of operation and you soar swiftly upward.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 22 to Feb. 19)—Be as worldly as you like today. Think in terms of gaining greater security by securing the favor of those in powerful position who can release the backing you need to get ahead. Look for more happiness with close tie tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Getting out of any groove into which you have sunk and finding newcomers of fascinating background, reveals all kinds of data you can use in your own outlets. Streamline your activities in more lofty directions. Be ethical, honest.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TUESDAY . . .

Tuesday's child is one of those very ingenious and resourceful youngsters from whom you will be able to keep nothing hidden. Make sure you do let your offspring realize you are very frank and direct—it's the only way to be with this child. Otherwise you will not be respected and "the facts of life" will be unwisely learned by other means. By always stating truths in complete honesty, you establish yourself as the confidante of your progeny. A fine chart for work requiring a considerable amount of analysis and depth of thought, penetration.

774 Fort Street 4-7146-7

TEN MILE POINT

Is rapidly becoming one of the most sought-after areas of Victoria. If you lived there as I do, you would realize why. Ideal surroundings, good schools and the best of neighbors are only a few of the reasons. The owner of one of these lovely new three-bedroom houses is being transferred to Vancouver and wishes to effect a quick sale. There is a lovely cabinet kitchen with convenient breakfast nook. Living room with plenty of space and roomy dining room. All the doors are natural mahogany and the walls smooth stucco and tastefully decorated. There is of course a full basement, drive-in garage with counterpoise steel door, and there are brick planters in front. The price is only $15,900

There is a large N.H.A. loan at 5½% and $3,500 might swing the deal. So hurry and phone J. Mears, 7-3404.

SYMPHONY IN CEDAR LOCKEHAVEN DRIVE

A kitchen straight from WESTERN HOMES, scientifically planned, warm, in natural wood. The dining room, living room and reception hall are beautifully panelled in solid mahogany, and, with the master bedroom commanding magnificent views over the water. Two more guest or family bedrooms and two fireplaces make this a home of outstanding merit. There is a full basement and nearly an acre of parklike grounds. A large low interest loan is available and the total price is under $21,000

J. Mears, 7-3404.

'57 HOUSES LONGER WIDER ROOMIER

"Trade in your old car for a '57 model. Your present car may be your down payment. Sign on the dotted line and forget all about it. We do the financing."
Not quite, but almost as easy, you can buy a brand new '57 house that will be longer, wider, roomier than your present one.
"But how," you will ask, "can I bring my house to the trade-in lot and take out a new one?"
Well, advertising space is too expensive to tell you the whole story here. We will guarantee, however, that you will be able to move into your new home straight from your present one, without an intermediate move.

No Down Payment Is Required
Until your present house is sold. We have a wide choice of plans and locations to fit your needs and pocketbook.

'Lulu' Has No Secrets From RCN

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian navy is understood to possess full information on a new atomic submarine weapon known as the Lulu developed by the United States Navy.

However, informants said Wednesday, it is doubtful that the RCN has any prototypes of the weapon itself, mainly because of American restrictions against the U. S. supplying even its allies with atomic weapons.

All the navy itself would say was that it works in continuous and close contact with the U. S. Navy, especially in the field of anti-submarine warfare.

The Canadian navy is almost exclusively an anti-submarine fleet and its senior officers have said repeatedly in recent years that it wants to establish itself as the anti-sub expert for the North Atlantic Alliance.

It was considered likely here that in the event of war involving NATO that the U. S. would supply the RCN with Lulu, which, the U. S. Navy has said, can kill submarines within miles of the point of the explosion.

But it would be a tremendous advantage to the RCN if beforehand it had full knowledge of the weapon, in particular its effects and how to handle it. This knowledge it is understood to have.

The main anti-sub armament of the RCN's new St. Laurent class destroyers comprises two mortar mountings, each capable of firing three projectiles simultaneously and with great accuracy in any direction.

The mortar is controlled by an electronic apparatus which locates and tracks the submarine and fires the weapon at the correct moment. The new St. Laurent class destroyer is also equipped with homing torpedoes which can alter course to pursue an enemy target on or below the ocean surface.

Food Flown To B.C.'s Sekani Indians

VANCOUVER (CP) — Food and clothing were flown Saturday, to impoverished members of the Sekani Indian band, in the Rocky Mountain Trench area, 450 miles north of here.

Two trucks left Vancouver Friday with the relief goods. The supplies, donated by readers of a Vancouver newspaper which earlier this week carried stories of the near-starving condition of the tribe, were transferred to a Pacific Western Airlines plane at Prince George.

The plane, piloted by Ian Watt, flew the supplies to Fort Ware and Fort Grahame, main camps of the Sekani.

Donations from Vancouver citizens and business firms included boxes of clothing, fresh meat, canned meat and salmon, blankets, beds, mattresses, canned vegetables and sacks of potatoes and flour.

Use of the ski-equipped Beaver aircraft for the relief flights was donated by Pacific Western Airlines. A Vancouver trucking firm donated the services of two trucks for the trip from Vancouver to Prince George.

Montreal Sees Geysers as Two Water Mains Break

MONTREAL (CP)—Two water mains in east-end Montreal blew out like geysers Sunday, spilling millions of gallons of water on to the streets in what fire director Raymond Pare called Montreal's worst flood in 20 years.

Water, shallow as six inches in some places and deep as 20 inches in others, poured into thousands of basements, stores and offices.

In four to five square miles of the east end, pressure was so low residents barely got trickles from their taps. In outlying areas there was no water for up to seven hours.

SO DID SHAKESPEARE

Izaak Walton Poached For 'Compleat Angler'

LONDON (AP)—Izaak Walton, known for his book on angling, also may have been a compleat poacher, but if so, he was following the practice of his time.

This is the judgment of two London experts closely connected with current comparisons between Walton's "The Compleat Angler," published in 1653, and Henry Middleton's "The Arte of Anglin," which appeared in 1577.

One of the experts is Dr. D. E. Rhodes, assistant keeper of the British Museum's department of printed books. He reviewed the only known copy of Middleton's book two years ago, before it went off to America, where its word-for-word similarities with parts of "The Compleat Angler" attracted attention at Princeton University.

Rhodes agreed that Walton must have taken material from Middleton's book. But he quickly added:

"It seems to us unjust to accuse Izaak Walton of plagiarism, because plagiarism did not exist in the 17th century. All authors of that and earlier ages read what they liked and used of it without acknowledgment.

"If an author wanted to quote an authority to back his own statements, he did so. But otherwise he saw no need to name the source of his material."

Rhodes noted that charges of plagiarism are made against Shakespeare and Milton "from time to time."

The other comment came from W. Chalmers-Hallam, an antique book dealer who sold the copy of Middleton's book to Carl von Kienbusch of New York. Von Kienbusch gave the book to Princeton, which has brought out a new edition of the ancient treatise.

"Plagiarism is quite common in fishing books," said Chalmers-Hallam, "so Walton may have read this book beforehand. It for about £150."

Sarnia Bears Rejoin ORFU

SARNIA, Ont. (CP) — Sarnia is back in the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union, it was announced at a special press conference Friday.

The Golden Bears will be formed into a limited company and be entered in the senior ORFU league for the 1957 season Saturday by the new owners, Joseph Cohen, James Smith, Fred Williams and John McEachern.

The Bears' executive announced Tuesday that they were pulling the team out of competition because of poor fan support.

The announcement followed by 10 days a Canadian Rugby Union decision that ORFU eligibility for Grey Cup competition will be subject to annual action by the CRU executive.

The way was paved Thursday for the Bears' return when Maurice Chilton, acting president of the ORFU, and Cohen, Sarnia businessman, met with the city parks board. They reached an agreement allowing the team to use Athletic Park at a flat rental rate of $3,500 for the season.

ATHENS (Reuters) — The Duke of Kent, his sister Princess Alexandra, and brother Prince Michael of Kent attended the funeral today of their grandmother Princess Nicolas of Greece. The funeral of the princess, who died Thursday, took place in Athens cathedral.

Sea Rangers Stage Swim Meet At Crystal Garden

Sixth annual swim meet of Vancouver and Island Land and Sea Rangers was held at the Crystal Garden Saturday.

Competing were Sea Rangers from SRS Arethusa, Cayuga and Triumph, all of Vancouver; SRS Warspite; Youbou, and SRS Victory, Victoria.

In the Land Rangers group were 1st Beaufort, Alberni; 1st and 2nd Vancouver and 1st Victoria. Banquet at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall followed the swim.

On Sunday, the visiting groups took part in a church parade to Christ Church Cathedral and were served buffet luncheon at the Scout Hall.

Local association, and parents of city Girl Guides and Rangers, arranged billeting of the 130 girls, and preparations for the banquet, luncheon and church parade were made by the Victoria crew and company.

Australia City Ringed by Dozens Of Bush Fires

PERTH, Australia (Reuters) —Every available firefighter in Perth was out Sunday as bushfires ringed the city and burned in dozens of outbreaks in the southwest section of western Australia.

Hundreds of calls flooded fire brigade headquarters as fires roared through 100 acres of Royal King's park, the city's showplace. Calls went unanswered as every man in the metropolitan firefighting force was already engaged with other fires.

A heavy choking smoke pall, with no breeze to shift it, crouched over the city reducing visibility at some place to 100 yards.

First Fish Trap Nearly Ready At Beechey Head

SOOKE—First of five fish traps to be operated this year by Sooke Harbor Fishing and Packing Co. Ltd. is near completion at Beechey Head.

Others will be erected at Sooke, Otter Point, Gordon's Beach, and Coal Creek when weather conditions are more favorable.

The traps will be operated until October, and will employ about 30 men. The catch is shipped regularly to Vancouver for the fresh fish market, canning and cold storage.

CADET CORPS ACTIVITIES

City Youths Second In B.C. Rifle Shoot

Young marksmen of 4 Light Anti-Aircraft Battery Cadet Corps fired their way to within 17 points of winning the IODE Challenge Cup for B.C. Area cadet corps rifle competition.

Final results of shoots held throughout the area from about mid-January place Enderby School cadets at the top with 752 points. The Victoria team scored 735 points.

In competition with 89 Kinsmen Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets riflemen last week, 4 Battery cadets lost the meet by 10 points, shooting 553 points against 563.

Highest individual score was shot by army cadet Bdr. Ed Walker, with 97 out of 100.

Air cadets shot: Flt. Sgt. E. Roger, 93; Sgt. P. Roche, 95; Cpl. J. Durran, 93; LAC D. Thom, 94; LAC D. Henly, 96; AC2 J. Storr, 91.

Inter-divisional sports competition for volleyball and basketball titles in RCSCC Rainbow reaches the play-off level Tuesday night in HMCS Naden gymnasium.

Cup was presented by ex-PO D. M. Bendall, RCSCC, now undergoing basic training in the navy at HMCS Stadacona, Halifax.

★ ★ ★

Rainbow officers will host officers of Admiral Mainguy Sea Cadet Corps, Duncan, and executive members of Victoria branch of the Navy league of Canada next Friday.

★ ★ ★

Annual naval stores and clothing muster is in progress at Rainbow, requiring each cadet to account for complete kit including boots and slicker, for which parents are responsible.

★ ★ ★

Seamen's knives and lanyards were presented to Ordinary Seamen B. Bittner and George Dufour of the junior corps for topping their division in communications exams. Bittner rated 99 per cent, Dufour 93.

Three Missing Persons Sought by Police Here

City police detectives have been asked to provide information regarding whereabouts of three B.C. persons believed to be in this area.

Duncan Man Re-Elected By V.I. Horsemen

Mrs. H. H. Norcross, also of Duncan, was named secretary-treasurer.

Main topic of discussion was the organization of horse shows and some of the problems of exhibitors which could be relieved in future shows.

Organizations represented were Cowichan District Riding Club, Cowichan branch of the Pony Club of Canada, Malahat Trail Riders of Cobble Hill, Nanaimo Riding Club, and Colwood Trail Riders, Garden City Horsemen's Club, Victoria Riding and Gymkhana Club, and Western Horsemen's Club, all of Greater Victoria.

Reds One Win From AHL Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds won one and lost one in weekend American Hockey League action and now need only one win for their second straight league championship.

Reds downed Hershey Bears 4-3 in overtime Saturday while Springfield Indians were blanking Buffalo Bisons 7-0 and Rochester Americans were taking Cleveland Barons 5-4 in overtime.

In Sunday action, Reds dropped a 3-1 encounter to Barons, Bisons took Indians 5-3 and Bears took Rochester 4-3.

Zellio Toppazzini scored in the last 30 seconds of overtime Saturday to give Providence their win. Paul Larivee with two and Jimmy Bartlett were the other Reds marksmen. Willie Marshall, George Ranieri and Dunc Fisher scored for Bears.

They were welcomed by Mrs. Bert Byers, president of the sponsoring group, Doncaster-Cedar Hill PTA.

Master of ceremonies was John R. Mainwaring, present principal of Cedar Hill, and speakers included past principals William McMichael and Alf Cullen. A letter was read from another former principal, E. G. Woodward, now principal of Cloverdale School.

Talks also were given by Doncaster principal G. S. Taylor and former student Mrs. Laura Healy.

Ex-students Mrs. Gilbert Brown and Mrs. Ross Sturgeon sang two duets, followed by a presentation of flowers to oldest pupil Mrs. Isabel Heal, 89, by Ann Clement, and a boutonniere to Win Holmes, who attended the school in the late 1800s.

Fashion show "Through the Years" was convened by Mrs. V. Harper and Mrs. B. K. Solheim. Mrs. M. Whiley was commentator.

NO REASON FOR GROUNDING

TCA Viscounts Not Same as U.K.'s

MONTREAL (CP)—President G. R. McGregor of Trans-Canada Air Lines said Sunday night "there is no reason whatever" for TCA to consider grounding its Viscounts.

Commenting on British European Airways' withdrawal from service of Viscount 701 turboprop airliners, Mr. McGregor said:

"TCA's Viscounts are type 724 and 757 while the aircraft which has been grounded in England are type 701. There are substantial differences between the two types.

"I understand that the grounding of the type 701 aircraft in England is due to a fault connected with the flap mechanism which is thought to have been responsible for a recent accident in Manchester.

"I further understand the grounding is for the purpose of doing a precautionary check on the flap mechanism of the type 701 aircraft and I therefore expect that they will not be out of service long."

TCA has had only one serious mishap with its Viscounts, over Flat Rock, Mich., last July when one of the plane's four propeller blades broke loose and sliced through the fuselage killing a woman and injuring five persons.

TCA accepted delivery of its 24th Viscount last week. It has 14 more on order.

In Ottawa, a transport department official indicated there will be no change in plans to fly Prime Minister St. Laurent to Bermuda March 25 in the department's Viscount for his meeting with British Prime Minister Macmillan. The official said the plane, frequently used for transporting top-level government officials, is the same model as TCA's Viscounts.

Reprieve Granted Police Killers

TRAGEDY STRIKES PHILIPPINES

Plane Exploded While in Mid-Air Says Survivor

Sabotage Theory Investigated After Newsman's Account; 26 Die

MANILA (AP)—Vice-President Carlos P. Garcia took over the reins of government today as the Philippines and the Free World mourned the death of President Ramon Magsaysay with 25 others in a mountainside plane crash.

Garcia flew in from the SEATO conference in Australia several hours after Magsaysay's charred body was found in the wreckage of his plane on Cebu Island.

The 60-year-old vice-president took the oath of office as fourth president of the Philippine Republic. He will serve until after next November's presidential elections.

The new president said he plans no changes in the cabinet and will himself continue to fill the post of secretary of foreign affairs he had held under Magsaysay.

CRASHED IN JUNGLE

Only one passenger, a Philippine newspaper man, survived the crash which claimed 26 lives, including several leading government officials. The president was returning from giving two commencement speeches in Cebu.

A close guard was placed around the wreckage as officials made clear they had not ruled out the possibility of Communist sabotage.

As defence secretary, Magsaysay had wrecked the Communist Huk rebel movement in the infant island republic.

The sole survivor of the crash—Nestor Mata of the Philippine Herald—told his paper the plane had exploded before it hit the mountainside. The Herald said, however, his account contained discrepancies and judged he was suffering from shock when he dictated it. Hospital authorities said Mata was suffering from second- and third-degree burns and had a 50-50 chance for survival.

The dead in the crash included Brig.-Gen. Benito Ebuen, commanding general of the Philippine air force; Education Secretary Gregorio Hernandez Jr., Representative Pedro Lopez of Cebu and former senator Tomas Cabili.

The president's body was virtually unrecognizable. Identification was made through personal effects he carried.

The bodies of 20 of the passengers were reduced to near ashes.

ONE SURVIVES

The plane crashed in jungle so dense it took ground rescuers 18 hours to reach the scene. Both wings of the plane were sheared off and at least half the craft was a charred ruin.

The LESTER PATRICK Story

(After more than half a century connected with ice hockey, both in Canada and the U.S., Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 10-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the second installment.

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

A STAR IS BORN

Lester Patrick was born in Drummondville, Quebec, a town 65 miles from Montreal, on Dec. 31, 1883.

He was the eldest child of a family of nine, five boys and four girls. His father, Joseph Patrick, an Irishman and a stout Protestant, was later to take up residence in Victoria, become an alderman and one of the fathers of the automobile ferries which now have attained major importance. Joe Patrick, as he was affectionately called, and his wife, both passed away in Victoria but were happy in celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary surrounded by eight children.

When Lester was one year old the family moved to Carmel Hill, also in the Montreal area, where father Patrick operated a general store.

Archie Wills

Until he was eight Lester grew up with French-Canadian boys and girls and he learned to speak their langauge as fluently as English. He has always had a warm spot in his heart for the people of Quebec.

When Lester turned eight, father Patrick moved the family to South Durham, 60 miles from Montreal, and established the Drummond Lumber Co. Lester went to his first English school.

It is generally assumed when anyone attains some importance in the world that he was favored at birth. For instance, any boy born in New Westminster between 1890 and 1912, was said to have come into the world with a lacrosse stick in his hand and to be ripe material for the masterful Salmonbellies.

So it would be assumed that Lester Patrick must have been fitted with a pair of skates by the stork. However, such was not the case. Lester didn't stand on skates until he reached his 10th birthday. Then he received a pair of spring skates, the type you clipped on to your walking boots.

LESTER PATRICK
. . . as he looked in 1910.

First Hockey Stick Cost 25 Cents

On his 12th birthday, in 1895, his mother gave him his first hockey stick. It cost 25 cents. Sticks in those days were cut from solid wood and the heels were rounded, something like the stick used in grass hockey.

Still, there was no puck for hockey. The kids used tin cans. The Patrick boys were all skating by now and Father Patrick fixed up the back yard so it could be flooded. From then on the Patricks skated long hours for long months and they engaged in a lot of shinny.

It is surprising how a chance contact opens up new worlds for people and sets them on their way to outstanding careers. It was thus with Lester Patrick.

He had turned 13 and was

JOSEPH GORDON

JAMES CAREY

Ottawa to Probe Carey's Claim He Was RCMP Agent

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Garson today cleared the way for a two-week stay of execution for James Carey and Joseph Gordon of Vancouver to permit investigation of alleged new evidence.

Both were convicted of murder in the fatal shooting of Vancouver Constable Gordon Sinclair.

The two men were scheduled to be hanged after midnight tonight in the Oakalla jail, New Westminster, B.C.

Mr. Garson said counsel for Gordon on March 14 applied to the trial judge, Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the B.C. Supreme Court, for a reprieve which counsel stated was designed to enable the justice department to investigate alleged new evidence.

"Mr. Justice Manson declined to grant a stay of execution, but informed counsel that if the department of justice itself wished to have further time to consider the alleged new evidence he would grant a stay of execution immediately.

"In order that the alleged new evidence may be thoroughly investigated, I have requested the crown attorney in the case to apply to Mr. Justice Manson for a two-week stay of execution for both Gordon and Carey," Mr. Garson said.

Under Assignment From RCMP?

Mr. Garson told the Commons March 6 that Carey, 26, may have been an RCMP undercover man.

The justice minister had been asked by Harold E. Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) about Vancouver newspaper stories quoting Carey as saying he was assigned by the RCMP to stay close to Joseph Gordon.

Mr. Garson said then that Carey's file, when considered for possible commutation of sentence, will include the results of a "very thorough and complete investigation" into the undercover allegations.

The Supreme Court of Canada Feb. 15 refused a new trial for Carey and fixed March 19 as the date of execution. The hanging of Gordon had been postponed to March 19 from Feb. 12. An appeal by Gordon against the sentence also was rejected earlier.

Carey was convicted last April 27 of murder in the shooting of Constable Sinclair Dec. 7, 1955.

Trial evidence established that Gordon had fired the two shots that felled the policeman, who had been sent to Vancouver's Granville Street Bridge area to investigate reports of suspicious persons moving about.

ALBERTA DIVIDEND TAXABLE

B.C. Escapes Tax on Rebate

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann said today the federal government regards provincial dividend payments in Alberta as taxable income.

However, payments under British Columbia's proposed plan of municipal tax rebates will not be taxed.

He said in the Commons the advice of his officials is that the Alberta payments, coming out of oil and gas royalties paid to the province, are income and therefore taxable.

However, unlike dividends paid by corporations, the Alberta government dividends will not be subject to a 20 per cent tax allowance or to depletion allowances.

Alberta proposes payments totaling $11,000,000 to all its residents aged 21 or more who have lived in the province more than five years.

The B.C. plan, he said, is in the form of a municipal tax rebate and therefore not taxable by the federal government. The government will pay the municipalities $28 for tax rebates claimed by each householder. The rebate will be $28 a householder.

TEAMSTERS INDICTED

WASHINGTON (UP)—A federal grand jury today indicted four teamster union officials, including western conference teamsters' chief Frank W. Brewster, on contempt of Congress charges.

The union officials refused last Jan. 16 to answer questions before the Senate investigating subcommittee which, like the new rackets committee, is headed by Sen. John L. McLellan (D-Ark.).

Logger Held In Murder Up-Coast

CAMPBELL RIVER — Logger Vernon Breckton, 34, of nearby Quadra Island, was charged in police court here today with the stabbing murder early Sunday morning on Quadra Island of William Wallace, 21-year-old Indian fisherman.

He appeared before Magistrate Roderick Haig-Brown. No plea was taken, and Breckton was taken to Oakalla Prison immediately following reading of the formal charge.

The case was adjourned to March 27 for a preliminary hearing in police court here.

RCMP were close-mouthed regarding the incident, saying only they had been notified of a fight on Quadra Island, in which a man had been hurt. They attended, and found the body of Wallace beside the road, about one-quarter mile from Quathiaski Cove.

FIGHT AT DANCE

It was understood the fight had taken place at a St. Patrick's Day dance at Quadra Island Community Hall, some four miles from Quathiaski Cove and about midway between Quathiaski Cove and Heriot Bay.

Breckton's shack was within 300 yards of the spot where Wallace's body was found. He was arrested Sunday at 3 a.m.

Wallace had been stabbed twice in the back. He was a member of the Cape Mudge Indian band, and had returned from Vancouver Saturday. He leaves a widow and three children.

Breckton, believed of French-Canadian extraction, had only been on the island three weeks. He had bought the shack in which he was living. He lived alone, and is said to be a single man.

EASTBOURNE MURDER TRIAL OPENS

Lawyer Accuses Dr. Adams: You Killed With Such a Needle

LONDON (CP) — Holding a large, gleaming hypodermic in his hand, Attorney-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller today accused Dr. John Bodkin Adams of using such a needle to poison a wealthy widow patient.

Manningham-Buller said Adams killed Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, 81, on Nov. 13, 1950, at her mansion home in the quiet Sussex seaside resort of Eastbourne because the doctor would benefit from her will.

Only Adams knew the drug he injected into Mrs. Morrell because he did not tell Mrs. Morrell's nurses, the attorney-general said.

But in the 10½ months before her death, Adams prescribed for her 1,629½ grains of barbiturate, 1,928 grains of a sleeping drug, 64 grains of morphine and 39½ grains of heroin, Manningham-Buller told the jury.

Adams killed Mrs. Morrell because he feared she would alter her much-changed will, the attorney-general claimed.

"He decided that the time had come for Mrs. Morrell to die," he said.

Correspondents from many countries packed the courtroom.

The public lined up outside the court all through the night. There was room in the public gallery for only 29.

When called, Dr. Adams hurried up the stairs from the cells into the dock. When the charge was read he said in a clear, loud voice: "I am not guilty, my lord."

NO BODY

Three factors are regarded as assuring the trial a celebrated place in British legal history:

1. Dr. Adams was one of Eastbourne's most fashionable doctors, friend and adviser of the rich and titled.

2. There was no body. After the death of Mrs. Morrell, her ashes were scattered over the English Channel.

3. The trial is expected to last anywhere from three to six weeks.

During the Eastbourne hearings the Crown also alleged that Dr. Adams poisoned two other patients, Alfred John Hullett, 71, and his wife Gertrude, 50.

The doctor has not been formally charged in these deaths.

KNEW ABOUT WILLS

The Crown charged before the jury of 10 men and two women that the doctor gave them overdoses of drugs because he knew he would benefit from their wills.

Dr. Adams appeared calm and confident. He wore a neat blue suit typical of his attire in making his doctor's rounds at Eastbourne.

Manningham Buller said Dr. Adams had prescribed heavy doses of drugs for Mrs. Morrell although a nurse would testify the widow was in no great physical pain. He conceded she was perhaps suffering "neurotic pain."

INDUCES CRAVING

Manningham Buller, asking over and again "why this heavy administration" of drugs, told the jury:

". . . One reason being if administered over a short period it induces a craving for them . . . Dr. Adams was the source of supply."

The attorney-general said Dr. Adams had called on Mrs. Morrell's lawyer to discuss her will just before she died. Buller told the jury:

"The submission of the Crown is that Dr. Adams, by the administration of drugs to Mrs. Morrell — drugs given by him and given upon his instructions —killed her and our submisson is that those drugs were given to her with the intention of killing."

The Crown also quoted the doctor as saying he did not report a material interest in the will of Mrs. Morrell because he wanted "the cremation to go off smoothly."

PECUNIARY INTEREST?

Manningham-Buller told the jury one of the forms the doctor had to fill out for cremation of the body of Mrs. Morrell

U.S. Pledges Israel Aid

UP and CP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—The United States promised Israel today "to use its influence in seeking the objectives of peace and tranquility" in the Middle East.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir the United States "stood firmly" by the hopes and expectations it had expressed for the troubled area in connection with withdrawal of Israel troops from Egyptian territory.

B.C. TV Chain Okayed

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC board of governors today recommended establishment of a three-city television hookup in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley covering Kelowna, Penticton and Vernon.

Probe Sunday Paper

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Inspector Wilford Franks of the Ontario Provincial Police said today he has been instructed by Attorney-General Kelso Roberts to investigate Sunday operations of Toronto newspapers and radio and television stations. (See Page 3.)

Unemployment Declines

OTTAWA (CP)—The government said today total employment in Canada showed a 31,000 seasonal decline to 5,362,000 between mid-January and mid-February, but was 146,000 higher than a year ago.

'THEY WERE ALL ACTING SILLY'

Duke of Kent Denied Drinks By Barmaid in Darlington Pub

LONDON (AP)—A barmaid told today how she refused to serve the Duke of Kent and some of his army friends.

Mrs. Vera Smith, a silver-haired woman in her 40's, works in the cocktail lounge of the Imperial Hotel in Darlington, near the camp where the 21-year-old Duke is stationed.

"A few days ago," she said, "The Duke and some other army officers came into the bar.

"They were all acting very silly when they came in. One of them was trying to eat a glass. I told them they would not be served. They began throwing olives about.

"But I had to tell them all off properly when they tried to catch hold of me and get me to dance. The Duke joined in the antics but he was the quietest of the bunch.

"If it had been anyone else, I would have sent for the police.

"But they calmed down and left when a man who had been watching from outside the door spoke to them. I think he was someone to do with the Duke."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

We thank thee, O God, that in Jesus Christ we have One who is a safe leader and guide, who knows all the pitfalls of the path in which we must walk. We can depend upon Him, and we know that He will not fail us. Help us to take Him as our pattern and example, and to try to follow Him whithersoever He would lead us. Amen.

U.S. Rackets Probe Touches Industry

Unnamed Companies To Be Cited For Management Practices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said today their rackets inquiry already is reaching into certain management practices as well as labor union operations.

Robert Kennedy, chief counsel of the committee which is searching for evidence of racketeering in labor and industry, said that hearings on alleged payment of more than $20,000 in teamsters union funds to Nathan W. Shefferman, a Chicago management consultant, "will lead into certain companies." He did not name the companies.

The first three weeks of the committee's hearings have dealt with an alleged plot by teamsters officials to "muscle in" on vice profits in Portland, Ore. The hearings resume Tuesday with more testimony from Frank W. Brewster, west coast teamsters boss.

In testimony Friday, Brewster entered a general denial of charges that he was allied with underworld figures. Under questioning, he conceded that union funds were used to pay some expenses for his horse trainer and jockey.

A federal grand jury was expected to finish today its consideration of bribery charges against James R. Hoffa, said to be the real power in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America. Whatever action the grand jury decides to take may not be known for several days.

Hoffa, a teamster vice-president and head of the union's organization in the U.S. middle west, was arrested last week and charged with bribing a lawyer to join the staff of the rackets committee and feed him information. Hoffa, free on $25,000 bond, has protested his innocence.

taking quite an interest in Canadian football. One day the Ottawa team arrived in Montreal for a game. Lester was on a street corner wondering how he could see the game.

"Sure do," replied Lester.

"Come on. I'll take you in." Lester hopped aboard the street car, wondering who his benefactor could be.

"Yes," said Lester.

How would he? Lester was enraptured with the thought of hockey and being a stick boy. He told me, this week:

"That's what started it. A chance meeting with Young. I was the stick boy for Ottawa in their games in Montreal. There were seven men on their team and I lived to see the day when I was good enough to play against four of them.

"It just goes to show what a thoughtful act will do for a boy. Maybe I'd have got into hockey some other way but that gesture by Young set me on my way."

The next year Lester was playing hockey in earnest. It was the day of "Street" teams. Every street in Montreal had a team.

"It was quite something," reminisced Lester. "We got pretty good and I was picked on the Street All-Star team. There were seven men and we got wind of an open-air rink we could rent for $2 an hour. We got another team to work out with us and we split the cost at 15 cents for each man, except the goalies, who paid 10 cent each. We figured the goalies were entitled to the small end because they saw little of the puck and it's cold standing in the nets."

Lester graduated from Montreal High School at 16 and entered McGill University the next year.

He did but one year at McGill.

"What happened?" I asked him.

"I failed, that's all," laughed Lester. He did think he might have been a little young for university but it could be he had his mind on hockey more than on his studies.

Lester, however, had revealed to his father, a fondness for business and once university was behind him, the gangling youth found himself on the payroll of his father's wood and coal company with the title of office boy.

That's where we will leave him.

asked him to state if he had a pecuniary interest in the death of the deceased.

The physician had answered "not as far as I am aware."

The proper answer, Manningham-Buller said, would have been "yes, she told me she was going to leave me something." He said Adams had conferred with the old lady's lawyer about a Rolls Royce automobile promised him in her will.

Manningham-Buller said Adams, when questioned about this, replied:

"Oh, that was not done wickedly. God knows it was not. We always want cremation to go off smoothly for the dear relatives. If I had said I knew I was getting money under the will they might get suspicious and I like cremations and burials to go smoothly. There was nothing suspicious, really. I was not deceitful."

"But for this false answer there might have been no cremation," said the Crown, "and the Crown might have been in a position to tell you how much morphia and heroin there was in the body of Mrs. Morrell at the time of her death."

The doctor read a bible in his prison cell before being taken into court.

Blasts, Fire Rake Tanker, 43 Escape

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The freighter Perama was taken in tow today after two violent explosions and fire aboard caused its crew of 43 to abandon ship in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Coast Guard said the vessel had been taken in tow by the Esso Bermuda and that the Perama's crew had returned to their ship from the Clairborne, which had picked them up from two lifeboats.

The Perama was described as listing to port and "dead in the water." Five other vessels were in the area, about 180 miles west southwest of Dgmont Key, which is at the mouth of Tampa Bay.

A message said the first explosion was in the pump room and the vessel began to take in water. Then there was another explosion and the Coast Guard at St. Petersburg received word that the ship was afire and the crew was taking to lifeboats.

The Perama was described as 445 feet long, of 7,236 gross tons. It was of Liberian registry with Monrovia its home port.

Today's higher horsepowers, greater weight, higher speeds demand brakes with extra margins of safety. Here are four important ways that Studebaker-Packard gives you this additional safety:

1. Largest brake linings. 195.3 square inches of brake lining are carried by the Studebaker Golden Hawk—largest, safest brake lining area per pound of car of any automobile made today!
2. Air-cooled drums. Heat robs brakes of their effectiveness. Studebaker-Packard was first with specially "finned" air-cooled brake drums that actually double the effective cooling surface.
3. Self-Centering. The entire, oversized brake lining area is automatically brought into uniform contact with the drums. Reduces wear and assures unswerving, straight-line stops.
4. Self-Energizing. The forward motion of the car itself helps apply the brakes. You get greater safety, easier pedal action.

Better brakes, superior acceleration, surer handling add up to Command Performance. Drive the '57 Studebakers and Packards at your dealer's, today.

How much is a family man worth?

The example you set your children . . . your unexpected gift . . . a game of 'leap frog' or a 'piggy-back' . . . these are a few of the attentions you bring your family that could never be measured in dollars and cents.

Apart from these considerations, however, you are the one who brings home the pay cheque. Your contribution as a breadwinner has a definite value. Your salary clothes your family, feeds them, houses them, and educates your children. If you and your salary were to be removed from the scene, your family's way of life could still be maintained — in accustomed surroundings, in the same neighborhood, with old friends — if you take the precaution of safeguarding their future through the Sun Life of Canada, one of the world's great life insurance companies.

The Sun Life, of course, can never take your place, but it can replace your salary. To find out how easily this can be done, contact the Sun Life agent in your community. He can advise the proper insurance coverage and he will be glad to discuss your particular situation with you and your wife. You will be under no obligation.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK — By RUTH ENKE

Cross With Culture

I KNOW the world is full of dreadful problems, but my problem at the moment is how I'm going to face the month of April. Because, in April, our small stand-up calendar of famous paintings has a reproduction of an angel by Raphael.

I've taken a violent dislike to the child. (You know how one sometimes does with children!) He's about three years old, and what I would call a not-so-cherubic cherub. His hair is tousled and too long. His wings are ragged at the ends. His fat looks flabby. And, from the way he holds his fingers to his mouth, I'm sure he bites his nails. He's not my angel-child. And that's a fact.

Ruth

* * *

November will be just as bad because the calendar has gone overboard on Raphael and treated us to another of his angels.

But, instead of biting his nails, he has his arms folded on a ledge in a way that makes him look like a pre-school child sprawling on a desk. His chin is resting on his arms. His eyes are rolled to Heaven. His expression is none too sweet.

For days these angels have bothered me. I knew I knew them but I couldn't figure out where I'd met them.

But now I've tracked 'em down. They belong to the picture of the Sistine Madonna, and I know the Sistine Madonna well because she used to hang on my nursery wall when I was a child.

But the nursery reproduction only showed the Madonna with the Child. I loved her. I loved the billowing lines of her veil, the colors of the picture, and the Madonna's calm and gentle face.

She always looked so kind, though sometimes when I'd been naughty, she used to gaze at me with quiet reproach.

As an adult, I've read a bit about the beauty and serenity that seem to flow from Raphael's paintings. Without a doubt they flow from the Madonna. But, try as I may, I can find no beauty or serenity flowing from those tiresome little angels. In fact, I'm glad to think that the originals are in the gallery at Dresden. Nice and far away!

* * *

Meanwhile, I'm faced with the problem of April and November. Have I the courage to stand a solid month of having to look at one or other of those angels?

The choice is endless. But no, it would be weak. An admission of defeat. A betrayal of the stalwart souls who taught me to face the music, to keep a straight bat and a stiff upper lip, and to stand at attention while taking it on the chin.

Play up and play the game" was drilled into me when I was young and malleable.

I'll not let my preceptors down!

If the calendar decrees Raphael's angels, then Raphael's angels it shall be.

For I am a Canadian. I'll be cultured if it kills me.

I owe it to my country in this Post-Massey Period.

But think of me on April Fool's Day.

Who, I wonder, is going to be the Fool!

HOME GARDEN — By HILDA BEASTALL

Shrub Pruning Pays Dividends

March is hurrying along too quickly for us to keep pace with the many jobs to be done in the garden.

Growth of shrubs is becoming advanced enough to complete the pruning of those needing to be cut back rather drastically.

Hilda

The deservedly popular Fuchsia riccartonii which made so spectacular a display last fall after its severe treatment by previous winter weather, surely has shown us the wisdom of drastic early pruning. Cut back all growths to just about ground level, since the flowers are borne on the new wood which will grow rapidly from the base.

Shrubby hypericums, sometimes known collectively as St. John's Wort, are another late summer flowering shrub which requires to be cut down to about two inches from soil level. New growth may now be seen at the base, and these young shoots carry the attractive golden flowers with their tufts of yellow stamens.

Leycesteria formosa is an interesting plant of semi-shrubbery habit with various common names according to its location, such as Himalayan Honeysuckle, Flowering Nutmeg, Granny's Curls and Pheasant Berry, but it is better to ask the nurseryman for leycesteria.

LONG SHOOTS COME

Cut back to ground level, or, if growths are showing near the base cut back to two buds. Long shoots, six feet in length will be your reward, and the unusual purplish bracts surrounding the small white flowers create much interest in late summer. The leaves remain in good condition until severe frosts and winter winds remove them.

One more plant of semi-shrubby habit also requires pruning at this time. You may have the sticky leaved Mimulus glutinosus growing in a secluded shady corner. If this is cut back half way, there will be countless new shoots to bear the large warm orange blooms all summer.

After pruning any of these shrubs, a light dressing of bone-meal, and a top dressing of well-rotted compost will set them up for the season's work ahead of them.

LONDON LETTER — By WALLACE REYBURN

Living Here and There

LONDON—With the preamble that "the rush to emigrate has become one of the most startling features of the British scene," Tom Pocock writing in the Daily Express puts his plea for Britons to stay on in their country in the form of a here-there balance sheet.

Reyburn

Here in Britain, he says, you are at the heart of civilization. New York may be richer, Paris more cultured, but London is still, even now, the centre of the civilized world.

There, in Canada, Australia and New Zealand you are still working toward the status of a front-rank nation.

Here you can choose between dozens of theatres, concerts, art exhibitions, and every sort of education and entertainment. There you must take what you can get, which for most people is little enough.

Here there are friendships that cut across barriers of income and class. There you may owe your position in society to the state of your bank balance.

Here in Britain all the glories of Europe are within five hours' flying time.

There, in the Dominions, history is seldom more than a century old. You can travel for hours and the scenery does not change. Your food and your drink are likely to be substantial but unimaginative and dull.

* * *

EVER HEARD of "frustrated exports"? I had often seen here items in shops stamped "export reject"—below par for export, so released on the home market. But now we're getting things labeled with the quaint phrase "frustrated export" and Suez is the main cause.

Products under manufacture for countries in the Middle East now won't be going there and Britons can buy them instead. This has caused a lot of Scotch whisky to be released here and top-notch brands Britons haven't seen around for years are now available in the stores.

YOUR INCOME TAX

By W. GORDON HOLMS, CA

Children are sometimes referred to as "income tax-emptions" and this is literally true.

The deductions for dependents are divided into two main categories — children and all other dependents.

For children there are normally two classifications: one allowing a deduction of $150 and the other $400. Children eligible for the family allowances justify the deduction of $150. Children not eligible for the family allowance and under 21 entitle their parents to the $400 deduction provided the child has not earned $750 during 1956.

New Canadians who receive family allowance for only part of a year can claim $400 exemption for a child but must add to their tax the amount of family allowance received in 1956.

Ottawa bonuses education by allowing the $400, deduction for children over 21 who were in full-time attendance at a school or university during 1956.

If a taxpayer cannot claim the $2,000 basic exemption that goes with married status because of the death of a husband or wife, separation or divorce, a child can qualify the taxpayer for the additional $1,000.

However, the child must be wholly dependent upon and maintained in a self-contained domestic establishment by the taxpayer.

Working parents living together and each earning more than $1,000 in 1956, and therefore taxable as single persons, may reduce one of their incomes by the $150 or $400 (per child) children's allowance. The deduction allocation must be mutually agreed both cannot deduct for the same child.

Other dependents who can be claimed for include a parent or grandparent suffering from mental or physical infirmity; a brother or sister if under 21 years of age, or if over 21 dependent by reason of mental and physical infirmity; parents-in-law, grandparents - in - law, brothers-in-law, sisters-in-law, step-brother and sisters, step-parents dependent by reason of mental or physical infirmity.

Amounts of money spent are deductions but the ceiling for a dependent is $400. If the dependent is eligible for family allowances the deduction ceiling is $150. The dependent's total income must not exceed $750.

In 1956 Ottawa has again recognized Canadians' problems by allowing two taxpayers who mutually contribute to a common dependent to split the exemption of $150 or $400 as the case may be.

WIN THE GE APPLIANCE OF YOUR CHOICE

Hand Mixer for heavy batter or fluffy frostings. Extra long cord so you can move around easily. A wonderful time saver.

Imagine! You may win a wonderful automatic frypan you've always dreamed of having . . . or a smart labour saving steam and dry iron . . . or a portable mixer that saves hours of beating time.

In General Mills' "Better Breakfast" Contest YOU pick your prize—choose one of these three most wanted General Electric appliances and submit this choice with your entry.

The six weekly contests will run from Sunday midnight to Sunday midnight, with the first contest beginning March 18 and the last contest ending midnight April 28. The first fifty names drawn each week with the correct answers will win.

Enter now, and as often as you like in each weekly contest.

ENTER AS OFTEN AS YOU LIKE!

Listed below are five descriptions, each one numbered, which describe General Mills "Better Breakfast" cereals. Object of this contest is to match these descriptions with the correct cereal. To do this, insert the corresponding description number in the square beside each cereal name. Here's a tip—there's a clue on each package.

WHEATIES ☐ CHEERIOS ☐
KIX ☐ TRIX ☐ SUGAR JETS ☐

1. The oat cereal that needs no cooking
2. Crispy corn puffs
3. The sugar frosted oat 'n' wheat puff
4. The fruit flavoured cereal
5. Whole wheat flakes with all the bran

Send a box-top, or reasonable facsimile, from any of these General Mills cereals, together with this entry form, to General Mills Better Breakfast Contest, Box 1800, Terminal A, Toronto, Ontario AND BE SURE TO FILL IN:

PROSPECT'S FAVORITE SWAN DEAD

Lonely Mate in Mourning

And his mate, Marilyn, today is slowly circling the lake which has been their home for the past two years—crying, searching futilely.

Tommy was shot sometime Sunday.

Lakeside residents watched from the shore as Tommy—a big, white, graceful bird—slowly died at about 8 a.m.

He circled in the water and gave a death cry before he flattened out on the lake.

Tommy and Marilyn were placed in the lake by city parks administrator, W. H. Warren, two years ago. It was hoped the pair would raise a family of signets for Beacon Hill Park.

Lakeside residents are outraged over the shooting of the swan. Tommy liked his human friends, and fed out of their hands.

During the winter months when the lake was "frozen over, residents fed the birds which were trapped in a small section of open water.

Mrs. George Roberts, a resident, said no one knows who shot the swan, but it probably took place in the early hours of Sunday morning.

Mrs. Arthur S. Steward said she believed it was someone trying to shoot wild geese. "The birds made a lot of noise during the night," she said. "It was probably then the swan was shot.

Mr. Warren plans to remove Marilyn to Beacon Hill Park.

"At the moment I have no plans for replacing swans at Prospect Lake due to the loss of this bird," he said. "I was disappointed when I heard it was shot as I thought the swans would be safe there."

He said for the time being he would only use Elk Lake for raising swans for Beacon Hill Park.

Tommy, Marilyn in happier days. . . .

Forces Uniting In School Fight

Burgeoning Costs Worry Municipalities

Action to fight rising school costs will be asked of Victoria city council Wednesday by Mayor Percy Scurrah.

The mayor will urge support of a Union of B.C. Municipalities proposal for "unified action."

He will put before council a letter received today from UBCM executive director T. R. B. Adams directing all member municipalities to write to the minister of education and Premier Bennett detailing inequalities in the provincial school formula.

The UBCM executive feels more and more school costs are being loaded on the municipalities and the province is gradually accepting less responsibility.

"It has become evident, the municipal share of education costs is once again becoming increasingly unbalanced due to the inflexibility of the (distribution) formula," the letter stated.

NEW FORMULA

"This situation was foreseen by us when the new formula was implemented in 1955, but we could not at that time persuade the government of its seriousness."

The UBCM has established a special committee to work with the B.C. School Trustees' Association in compiling facts.

"Your president (J. E. Fitzwater, mayor of Kamloops), is of the opinion we shall only succeed if our submission is detailed, factual and irrefutable."

The UBCM concern is a reflection of worries felt by local municipalities last week when the $5,153,161 Greater Victoria It was increased over $500,000 school budget was presented. from last year. Almost $400,000 of the increase was due to increases in wages.

While the provincial government pays 50 per cent of approved school costs, it does not approve wage increases beyond a net scale. The scale is lower than Greater Victoria is required to pay in order to keep teachers in the district. Often the increased salaries result from decisions by government arbitration boards.

As a result, the local boards are paying more of the cost each year, and the province less.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow made much of this point recently. The new budget has been referred to a special meeting of city council Wednesday. Officials of neighboring municipalities and district 61 school trustees are also expected to attend.

Mayor Scurrah said today he supports the UBCM proposal for a concerted effort to have revisions effected in the school formula.

Immediate effect of the new budget on Victoria is to increase city expenditures by $152,562 which poses a threat of tax increases this year unless other economies can be found. As a result municipal expansion programs may suffer.

MAYOR JEAN DRAPEAU of Montreal will address a joint luncheon meeting of both men's and women's Canadian Clubs here in the Empress Hotel Wednesday, March 27. He is on a cross-country speaking tour and is speaking at eight centres under Canadian Club auspices. General theme of the talks deal with the relationship of Quebec with the other provinces.

CAR DRIVEN FROM BURNING BUILDING

Fire of undetermined origin partially destroyed a storage barn and garage at the rear of 130 Menzies Street at 12.20 p.m. today.

Occupants at the house were at lunch when they noticed a roaring noise outside. Mrs. T. de Macedo, wife of the owner, ran outside and found the two-story building in flames. Their late-model car was in the garage, but Mrs. de Macedo was able to drive it away before it was damaged.

MONTE ROBERTS

My friend Harry Watts has solved the problem of Father's Chair.

You know the problem of Father's Chair.

It is known to one and all, from mother and the youngsters to the cats and dogs, as Father's Chair.

When Father comes home after a hard day pumping up pumpernickles at the pumpernickle factory, he subsides gratefully into His Chair, secure in the knowledge that no kith or kin (or dog or cat) will have taken over occupancy.

But, when company comes—ah hah, THAT is when Father's Chair becomes a problem of such magnitude it has defeated the combined talents of Josephine Lowman, Dorothy Dix, Emily Post and Ask Andy.

So the guest lolls luxuriously in Father's Chair, while Father mutters to himself and swears never again to allow anyone into his house.

That is the problem of Father's Chair; and this is my friend Harry Watts' solution for same.

I was a guest in Harry's home Saturday evening, and I immediately spotted Father's Chair, and went through the polite ritual before sinking happily into its comfortable embrace.

I knew I had Father's Chair, and Harry knew I knew, but Harry, of course, was bound by convention to disregard the fact.

And, just as I was settled with the utmost of comfort, Harry said to his son, John: "John, do you mind getting my slippers? My feet are tired, and I think I will change into my slippers."

At which young John said: "I got them for you already, Father. They are beside YOUR chair."

And sure enough, they were.

As I could plainly see, just by looking down over the arm of Father's Chair.

Naturally, I strolled across the room to make conversation with another guest, and My Friend Harry sat in his chair to change his shoes for his slippers, and . . .

Well, you see what I mean when I say My Friend Harry Watts has solved the problem of Father's Chair.

Hold-Up Suspect Must Stand Trial

Magistrate Commits Chalmers To County Court After Hearing

Bank robber suspect Colin W. L. Chalmers, 25, no fixed address, was committed in city police court today to trial in County Court for the $3,600 armed hold-up Feb. 11 of the Canadian Bank of Commerce James Bay branch.

Preliminary hearing of evidence was completed before Magistrate H. C. Hall last Wednesday.

Chalmers was arrested, identified as the hold-up man by bank teller Peter Margetts, who was flown to Vancouver, and returned to Victoria to be formally charged.

They were acted upon by police in the arrest of Barry Irwin Keele, 26, no fixed address, who was charged with the robbery up to the time Chalmers appeared in city court. Keele was then released.

Detectives told the hearing Chalmers said he obtained the money, seized as evidence and entered as exhibits, in a floating crap game in a local hotel. Cash amounted to $620.

Man Breaks Leg In Car Mishap

An elderly Saanich resident fractured a leg while parking his car Saturday night and is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital.

Bert Menzies, 70, 3901 Stamboul, told police he caught his right leg in the car door when the vehicle rolled back after he parked it at 1598 Rockland about 9 p.m.

Cordova Due For Mothballs

HMCS Cordova will be paid-off into the reserve fleet at Esquimalt April 15 after six years operating in coastal waters as a training tender for the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve.

She is the last of three coastal escorts comprising the former second Canadian reserve training squadron.

The other two, Digby and Brockville, are already in reserve.

The Cordova was purchased in December, 1951, from the United States and was re-fitted as a training ship at HMC Dockyard. She is wooden hulled, of the former U.S. YMS type.

FOR RESERVISTS

Ships of the reserve training squadron were largely used for short-cruise sea-time for naval reservists. Official announcement has not yet been made, but it is believed training duties will be taken over by ships of the operational fleet, mainly frigates.

Also awaiting official announcement is decision to transfer the coastal minesweeper (MCB class) HMCS Comox to NATO.

Two improved types of 'sweepers, recently launched by Victoria shipyards, are now fitting out preparatory to joining the Second Canadian Minesweeping squadron.

Students to Vie For UN Visit

Grade 11 students in Greater Victoria will compete for a trip across Canada and the U.S. to the United Nations at a public speaking contest April 30.

Representatives of the five local high schools will speak in the competitions on a topic selected by the annual sponsors, the Odd Fellows Lodge, Victoria No. 1, and the Rebecca Lodges, Carne No. 45 and Colfax No. 1.

Winner of the all-expenses-paid trip, highlighted by a week in New York to see the UN General Assembly in action, will be chosen by three judges at the contest in Odd Fellows Hall.

Delay Expected In 1-Way Street Study by Council

The most controversial issue in the city's proposed traffic and parking plans—a one-way street system to counter traffic jams at Fountain Circle—was expected to be pigeon-holed again today by city council.

Council was to meet later this afternoon to study the plans proposed by Sacramento California traffic expert Jackson D. Faustman.

Mayor Percy Scurrah said this morning he would ask "that we skip consideration of one-way streets today."

He said his request is based on a report to council last week by Ald. Hugh Ramsay which said a group of merchants, who are opposed to one-way streets, plan to bring Mr. Faustman back to the city to present an alternative scheme.

"We shouldn't complete our study until that report is received," the mayor stated.

BIG ADVANTAGE IN CANADA'S PLAN

U.S. General Likes Wider Cadet Choice

The Canadian Services Colleges have one big advantage over the three United States military academies as producers of officers for the armed services.

This is the opinion of Maj.-Gen. James E. Briggs, superintendent of the fledgling U.S. Air Force Academy at Denver, Colo., who visited Canadian Services College, Royal Roads, over the weekend.

The advantage:

ON STATE BASIS

In the United States, academies are required to accept new entries on a strict basis of percentage to state population.

"This is an admitted handicap for us," General Briggs said during an informal chat Saturday in the office of Capt. John A. Charles, commandant at Royal Roads.

"We do not necessarily get the pick of the crop. It could happen that the top 17 would be officers from one state would actually rank below, say, numbers 50 to 67 in another, larger, and more advanced state.

"But, by law, we must keep our potential officers distributed according to population."

Capt. Charles agreed the Canadian system—whereby a complete class could come from one province if their qualifications justified—was much to his liking.

"If we don't get the best, it's our fault," he commented.

SAME SCHOOLS

The major difference between Canada's officer training plans and those of the United States, both General Briggs and Capt. Charles agreed, is that in Canada officers of all three services train in the same schools; in the United States, each branch now has its own school.

"Whether this is good or bad from our viewpoint is hard to say," General Briggs suggested. "There can't be a black-and-white answer to the question.

"The Canadian system offers an advantage inasmuch as it trains officers to understand the work and the problems of their opposite numbers in the other branches.

MORE INTENSIVE

"But the U.S. system gives much more intensive instruction in the one branch, whether it be sea, land or air.

Capt. Charles suggested the difference might lie in the number of officers-to-be in training.

"In the United States, it's about 10,000; in Canada, about 1,000. With smaller numbers, perhaps we can give intensive instruction in each type of service while giving broad education in all branches."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Final results for Vancouver Island bridge championships will be made known Wednesday after they are compiled in the United States, American Contract Bridge League officials said here today.

The tournament, first of its kind to be held here, was Saturday in the Empress Hotel.

Supervisor of Physical Education instructor in Greater Victoria Schools, George Grant, will report to the district 61 school board tonight on the extent of the school sports program.

Board chairman W. H. Golby recently criticized the current program saying, "Our kids can hardly lift their cornflakes." He said the present trend is to promote only a top team and only a few youngsters thus receive a prolonged course.

Included in the list of association members expected to be there is Air Marshal Sir Philip Livingston, retired director of medical services in the Royal Air Force. He lives in Duncan.

Guest will be Air Marshal C. Roy Slemon, chief of the air staff, RCAF.

Every former RCAF officer or those allied forces are invited to attend.

Local CCFer and teacher at Victoria West School, Bryan Mee, will moderate a public forum at the Douglas Street CCF hall Monday, March 25, on the question, "The Development of Natural Resources — Public or Private?" Speakers will include H. E. Botterell, Liberal; Monty Drake, Progressive Conservative, and Frank Snowsell, CCF. The meeting will open at 8 p.m

A conciliation board will consider arguments in a wage dispute between nine painting contractors represented by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange and Local 1163 of the painters union.

The union is asking a 42-cent-an-hour wage increase for painting and 52 cents for paperhanging.

Victim Fell Against Bus, Inquest Told

Coroner's jury ruled today that Nicholas Swan, 79, died an accidental death when he apparently fell between a Shoal Bay bus and the curb at Oak Bay Avenue east of Chamberlain Thursday.

Mr. Swan died at Jubilee Hospital of multiple fractures to the pelvis and an internal hemorrhage about 45 minutes after colliding with the bus, driven by Jack E. McCormick, 3969 Quadra, at midnight.

He had stepped from the rear exit and "seemed to fall sideways" against the bus as it pulled away from the curb, passenger Miss Marjorie Lloyd told the jury.

CRUSHED

Evidence indicated that he was crushed between the bus and the curb. There were no external signs that the rear wheels had passed over his body.

Funeral services were scheduled to be held at McCall's today at 1.30 p.m., Dr. W. W. McPherson officiating. Interment was to follow at Colwood Cemetery.

Mr. Swan is survived by one daughter, Mrs. R. C. McBride, at home, 1912 Oak Bay; one son, Thomas, in Edmonton; seven grandchildren, and one brother, James, in New Brunswick, Nebraska.

Burglars Busy Over Weekend

About $100 in goods and cash were reported missing today by city police following a number of weekend break-ins.

About $19 in change was stolen from Grant's Pharmacy, Cook at Pandora, on Sunday, and about $75 worth of goods from the Avenue Grocery, 2725 Rock Bay.

Entry to the latter place was made through an unlocked window. Stolen were an electric razor, a mantel radio, an alarm clock and a suitcase containing clothing.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me if there is an Antarctic ocean? I have looked up the region in an atlas and reference books and they all seem to disagree.—Miss L.M.

A.—If you consult authentic maps of the South Polar and North Polar regions, you will observe that the earth's configuration differs entirely in those two areas. Whereas in the south, a long pointed land mass, South America, reaches towards Antarctica, dividing the southern waters clearly into the South Atlantic and South Pacific, there is no similar formation north of North America where the northern sea sweeps clear across the world. When man's expanding knowledge led to an increase in his grasp of the great physical facts of this earth, it was but logical that this great continuous body of water be given one name, it being one of the earth's major surface divisions. When geographers, adventurous sea captains and others came generally to recognize the "Arctic Ocean," it could truthfully be said to be its name, although there was in that early period no international body which could claim to have named it officially. Writers frequently speak of the Antarctic seas but not the "Antarctic Ocean."

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Meat Buying and Cooking In Informative Booklet

By PENNY SAVER

After leafing through a book I received recently, I realized how little was my knowledge of meats, both the buying and cooking.

Much of the flavor and goodness of various cuts of meats is lost through incorrect cooking, and, of course, this means a strain on your food budgets. You can save some pennies, and learn much about meats by referring to this wonderfully prepared booklet called "Meat—How to Buy, How to Cook."

Included in the book are facts about meat, the inspection and grading; how much meat to buy for average servings; how long to store meat in the refrigerator; how to roast, pan-fry, broil, pot roast, braise, stew, simmer or pressure cook.

Descriptions, with pictures of various cuts, and cooking methods are a tremendous help, for many people (including me) don't know one cut from another. Did you know that there's a special way to cook sausages and sausage patties? This is just another of the bits of informative material in the book.

Seasoning tips and special recipes that are so good with particular meats are included, too. Beef, lamb, pork (cured and smoked), veal and the variety of other meats, such as liver, heart and kidney are all included in the book.

I was pleased to find, at the back of the book, a recipe index, and there I saw such things as favorite Yorkshire pudding, curried lamb, lamb kabobs, mint glaze or sauce, quick chow mien, spareribs (bakes, barbecued, sweet and sour), pork pies (called tourtieres), veal birds, veal risotto, veal scalopini, miscellaneous recipes and a whole raft of sauces and glazes completed the index.

Every housewife, who wants to get the most from her cooking should have one of these all-encompassing books on meat buying and cooking.

If you would like to know where to obtain this book, priced 50 cents, call me at 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Middle-Aged Woman Must Use Make-Up With Care

When a woman has the bonus of extreme youth she can get away with almost any kind of make-up, although certain colors, of course, are most flattering. It is regrettable when a very young person uses enough make-up to hide the natural beauty and freshness of young years.

The middle-aged woman needs make-up more than her daughter does, but she should be sure to select it with care and apply it skillfully. If she uses too much make-up or the wrong colors, it will emphasize every line and droop she may have. Any extreme has this effect.

Skin tones usually change some as one grows older. A woman may keep a lovely complexion all through her life but for the most part the colors are muted as the years accumulate and the hair greys. Therefore, care should be used in the choice of colors. As a general rule these should not be too glaring. The softer shades usually are flattering, although a clear, not too bright red, is often good. Dark lipsticks usually are aging although some striking types can use them. The lips may become less full in older age and for this reason it is a good idea for the older woman to extend the natural line a bit.

As a general rule you need a bit more pink in your powder than in younger years. This is especially true at night, since artificial lights drain out the pink. Many chic women use no rouge in the daytime but highlight their eyes and then use rouge at night. When you apply rouge do not put it too low on the face. This adds years to your appearance.

The mature woman may have more shadows and circles about her eyes than she once did. For this reason I do not think that eye shadow is flattering to most women in this age group. If they use it at all it should be in some color other than brown or black. Some blues and greens are enhancing. Mascara can add to the attractiveness of any woman at any age if it is used with subtlety and art.

Middle East Needs Patient Thought

Sir Robert Henry Hadow, speaker here Friday at the Women's Canadian Club, urged his audience to "be patient and exercise self-denial in voicing opinions" as to the situation in the Middle East.

"Do not try to go back behind what happened at Suez," he advised. "Draw a line across the page and look to the future. The verdict will be given in history, not in our time."

Repeating much of what he had said at a luncheon meeting of the Men's Canadian Club, Sir Robert stood firm in his belief that the English-speaking world, the United States and the British Commonwealth "must remain together and forget yesterday in the interests of tomorrow."

"You must remember that we are not fighting Arab nations," he pointed out, "nor are we fighting Nassar as head of the Egyptian government. We are fighting an insidious, long-term policy in the race for world power as evolved in Moscow."

Strike Settled at Nanaimo Paper

(See Earlier Story on Page 14)

NANAIMO (CP)—The Nanaimo Free Press announced this afternoon a strike of 18 members of the International Typographical Union which began this morning had been settled.

The evening paper planned to have an edition on the street later today.

The union and the management of the paper agreed on a wage increase of 25 cents an hour for a five-day, 37½-hour week. This brings the ITU scale to $2.45 an hour.

Jurisdiction over the paper's proofreader and adjustments in a teletypesetter clause of the agreement were also agreed on.

Conn Smythe Offers to Quit

NEW YORK (CP)—Conn Smythe, president and managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, today offered his resignation as chairman of the board of governors of the National Hockey League. The governors, however, took no action on Smythe's resignation and tabled it for future discussion.

Calgary Quarterback Breaks Back

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The football career of Don Klosterman, 26-year-old Calgary Stampeder quarterback from Los Angeles, may have been ended by a skiing accident on Mount Norquay's treacherous "Gully Run."

Hospital authorities said Monday the former Loyola University ace suffered a broken back when he crashed off the ski run at "Devil's Corner" on his last run of the day.

Edmonton Broker Barred From N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Louis J. Lefkowitz, New York State attorney-general, today announced a Supreme Court order has been obtained permanently barring Charles Robert Stahl, an Edmonton broker, from further dealings in securities in this state.

Israel Ship in Test Run Down Aqaba

JERUSALEM, Israel (UP)—Israel ran the freighter Queen of Sheba down the Gulf of Aqaba from the southern port of Eilat today in a test of Arab claims the waterway is closed to Israeli shipping.

Reports reaching Tel Aviv said it was believed the vessel already had passed through the Arab-claimed Strait of Tiran and to have reached the open sea safely.

Ottawa to Probe Killer's Claim Was RCMP Agent

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Garson today cleared the way for a two-week stay of execution for James Carey and Joseph Gordon of Vancouver to permit investigation of alleged new evidence.

Both were convicted of murder in the fatal shooting of Vancouver Constable Gordon Sinclair.

JAMES CAREY

JOSEPH GORDON

The two men were scheduled to be hanged after midnight tonight in the Oakalla jail, New Westminster, B.C.

Mr. Garson said counsel for Gordon on March 14 applied to the trial judge, Mr. Justice A. M. Manson of the B.C. Supreme Court, for a reprieve which counsel stated was designed to enable the justice department to investigate alleged new evidence.

"Mr. Justice Manson declined to grant a stay of execution, but informed counsel that if the department of justice itself wished to have further time to consider the alleged new evidence he would grant a stay of execution immediately.

"In order that the alleged new evidence may be thoroughly investigated, I have requested the crown attorney in the case to apply to Mr. Justice Manson for a two-week stay of execution for both Gordon and Carey," Mr. Garson said.

Mr. Garson told the Commons March 6 that Carey, 26, may have been an RCMP undercover man.

The LESTER PATRICK Story

(After more than half a century connected with ice hockey, both in Canada and the U.S., Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 10-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the second installment.

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

A STAR IS BORN

Lester Patrick was born in Drummondville, Quebec, a town 65 miles from Montreal, on Dec. 31, 1883.

He was the eldest child of a family of nine, five boys and four girls. His father, Joseph Patrick, an Irishman and a stout Protestant, was later to take up residence in Victoria, become an alderman and one of the fathers of the automobile ferries which now have attained major importance. Joe Patrick, as he was affectionately called, and his wife, both passed away in Victoria but were happy in celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary surrounded by eight children.

When Lester was one year old the family moved to Carmel Hill, also in the Montreal area, where father Patrick operated a general store.

Archie Wills

Until he was eight Lester grew up with French-Canadian boys and girls and he learned to speak their langauge as fluently as English. He has always had a warm spot in his heart for the people of Quebec.

When Lester turned eight, father Patrick moved the family to South Durham, 60 miles from Montreal, and established the Drummond Lumber Co. Lester went to his first English school.

It is generally assumed when anyone attains some importance in the world that he was favored at birth. For instance, any boy born in New Westminster between 1890 and 1912, was said to have come into the world with a lacrosse stick in his hand and to be ripe material for the masterful Salmonbellies.

So it would be assumed that Lester Patrick must have been fitted with a pair of skates by

Ottawa Clears It; But Albertans Pay

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann said today the federal government regards provincial dividend payments in Alberta as taxable income.

However, payments under British Columbia's proposed plan of municipal tax rebates will not be taxed.

He said in the Commons the advice of his officials is that the Alberta payments, coming out of oil and gas royalties paid to the province, are income and therefore taxable.

However, unlike dividends paid by corporations, the Alberta government dividends will not be subject to a 20 per cent tax allowance or to depletion allowances.

Alberta proposes payments totaling $11,000,000 to all its residents aged 21 or more who have lived in the province more than five years.

The B.C. plan, he said, is in the form of a municipal tax rebate and therefore not taxable by the federal government. The government will pay the municipalities $28 for tax rebates claimed by each householder. The rebate will be $28 a householder.

U.S. Pledges Israel Aid

UP and CP Dispatches

WASHINGTON—The United States promised Israel today "to use its influence in seeking the objectives of peace and tranquility" in the Middle East.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told Israeli Foreign Minister Golda Meir the United States "stood firmly" by the hopes and expectations it had expressed for the troubled area in connection with withdrawal of Israel troops from Egyptian territory.

Logger Held In Murder Up-Coast

CAMPBELL RIVER — Logger Vernon Breckton, 34, of nearby Quadra Island, was charged in police court here today with the stabbing murder early Sunday morning on Quadra Island of William Wallace, 21-year-old Indian fisherman.

He appeared before Magistrate Roderick Haig-Brown. No plea was taken, and Breckton was taken to Oakalla Prison immediately following reading of the formal charge.

The case was adjourned to March 27 for a preliminary hearing in police court here.

RCMP were close-mouthed regarding the incident, saying only they had been notified of a fight on Quadra Island, in which a man had been hurt. They attended, and found the body of Wallace beside the road, about one-quarter mile from Quathiaski Cove.

FIGHT AT DANCE

It was understood the fight had taken place at a St. Patrick's Day dance at Quadra Island Community Hall, some four miles from Quathiaski Cove and about midway between Quathiaski Cove and Heriot Bay.

Breckton's shack was within 300 yards of the spot where Wallace's body was found. He was arrested Sunday at 3 a.m.

Wallace had been stabbed twice in the back. He was a member of the Cape Mudge Indian band, and had returned from Vancouver Saturday. He leaves a widow and three children.

Breckton, believed of French-Canadian extraction, had only been on the island three weeks. He had bought the shack in which he was living. He lived alone, and is said to be a single man.

EASTBOURNE MURDER TRIAL OPENS

Lawyer Accuses Dr. Adams: You Killed With Such a Needle

LONDON (CP) — Holding a large, gleaming hypodermic in his hand, Attorney-General Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller today accused Dr. John Bodkin Adams of using such a needle to poison a wealthy widow patient.

Manningham-Buller said Adams killed Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, 81, on Nov. 13, 1950, at her mansion home in the quiet Sussex seaside resort of Eastbourne because the doctor would benefit from her will.

Only Adams knew the drug he injected into Mrs. Morrell because he did not tell Mrs. Morrell's nurses, the attorney-general said.

But in the 10½ months before her death, Adams prescribed for her 1,629½ grains of barbiturate, 1,928 grains of a sleeping drug, 64 grains of morphine and 39½ grains of heroin, Manningham-Buller told the jury.

Adams killed Mrs. Morrell because he feared she would alter her much-changed will, the attorney-general claimed.

"He decided that the time had come for Mrs. Morrell to die," he said.

The public lined up outside the court all through the night. There was room in the public gallery for only 29.

When called, Dr. Adams hurried up the stairs from the cells into the dock. When the charge was read he said in a clear, loud voice: "I am not guilty, my lord."

Three factors are regarded as assuring the trial a celebrated place in British legal history:

1. Dr. Adams was one of Eastbourne's most fashionable doctors, friend and adviser of the rich and titled.

2. There was no body. After the death of Mrs. Morrell, her ashes were scattered over the English Channel.

3. The trial is expected to last anywhere from three to six weeks.

During the Eastbourne hearings the Crown also alleged that Dr. Adams poisoned two other patients, Alfred John Hullett, 71, and his wife Gertrude, 50.

The doctor has not been formally charged in these deaths.

The Crown charged before the jury of 10 men and two women that the doctor gave them overdoses of drugs because he knew he would benefit from their wills.

Dr. Adams appeared calm and confident. He wore a neat blue

Sabotage Theory Investigated After Newsman's Account; 26 Die

MANILA (AP)—Vice-President Carlos P. Garcia took over the reins of government today as the Philippines and the Free World mourned the death of President Ramon Magsaysay with 25 others in a mountainside plane crash.

Garcia flew in from the SEATO conference in Australia several hours after Magsaysay's charred body was found in the wreckage of his plane on Cebu Island.

The 60-year-old vice-president took the oath of office as fourth president of the Philippine Republic. He will serve until after next November's presidential elections.

The new president said he plans no changes in the cabinet and will himself continue to fill the post of secretary of foreign affairs he had held under Magsaysay.

CRASHED IN JUNGLE

Only one passenger, a Philippine newspaper man, survived the crash which claimed 26 lives, including several leading government officials. The president was returning from giving two commencement speeches in Cebu.

A close guard was placed around the wreckage as officials made clear they had not ruled out the possibility of Communist sabotage.

As defence secretary, Magsaysay had wrecked the Communist Huk rebel movement in the infant island republic.

The sole survivor of the crash—Nestor Mata of the Philippine Herald—told his paper the plane had exploded before it hit the mountainside. The Herald said, however, his account contained discrepancies and judged he was suffering from shock when he dictated it. Hospital authorities said Mata was suffering from second- and third-degree burns and had a 50-50 chance for survival.

The dead in the crash included Brig.-Gen. Benito Ebuen, commanding general of the Philippine air force; Education Secretary Gregorio Hernandez Jr., Representative Pedro Lopez of Cebu and former senator Tomas Cabili.

The president's body was virtually unrecognizable. Identification was made through personal effects he carried.

The bodies of 20 of the passengers were reduced to near ashes.

ONE SURVIVES

The plane crashed in jungle so dense it took ground rescuers 18 hours to reach the scene. Both wings of the plane were sheared off and at least half the craft was a charred ruin.

U.S. Rackets Probe Touches Industry

Unnamed Companies To Be Cited For Management Practices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate investigators said today their rackets inquiry already is reaching into certain management practices as well as labor union operations.

Robert Kennedy, chief counsel of the committee which is searching for evidence of racketeering in labor and industry, said that hearings on alleged payment of more than $20,000 in teamsters union funds to Nathan W. Shefferman, a Chicago management consultant, "will lead into certain companies." He did not name the companies.

The first three weeks of the committee's hearings have dealt with an alleged plot by teamsters officials to "muscle in" on vice profits in Portland, Ore. The hearings resume Tuesday with more testimony from Frank W. Brewster, west coast teamsters boss.

In testimony Friday, Brewster entered a general denial of charges that he was allied with underworld figures. Under questioning, he conceded that union funds were used to pay some expenses for his horse trainer and jockey.

A federal grand jury was expected to finish today its consideration of bribery charges against James R. Hoffa, said to be the real power in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America. Whatever action the grand jury decides to take may not be known for several days.

Hoffa, a teamster vice-president and head of the union's organization in the U.S. middle west, was arrested last week and charged with bribing a lawyer to join the staff of the rackets committee and feed him information. Hoffa, free on $25,000 bond, has protested his innocence.

Arts Council Post Due For UBC Head

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Dr. Norman Mac Kenzie, president of the University of British Columbia and a member of the Massey Royal Commission on National Development of the arts, letters and sciences, will be named to the Canada Arts Council, it was learned today.

Mrs. Angus L. MacDonald, Halifax, widow of Hon. Angus L. MacDonald, former premier of Nova Scotia, and Second World War minister of national defence for naval services at Ottawa, will be named to the council, it was reported.

Dr. A. W. Trueman, chairman of the National Film Board and government film commission, formerly president of the University of New Brunswick will be the No. 1 full-time executive officer of the council with headquarters in Ottawa.

NEWS BRIEFS

An address on "A Divine Prediction and a Divine Command" will be given at a public meeting in Newstead Hall sponsored by the Victoria branch, British-Israel World Federation, tonight at 8. Speaker will be Howard MacBeth, Victoria president.

Blasts, Fire Rake Tanker, 43 Escape

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The freighter Perama was taken in tow today after two violent explosions and fire aboard caused its crew of 43 to abandon ship in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Coast Guard said the vessel had been taken in tow by the Esso Bermuda and that the Perama's crew had returned to their ship from the Clairborne, which had picked them up from two lifeboats.

The Perama was described as listing to port and "dead in the water." Five other vessels were in the area, about 180 miles west southwest of Dgmont Key, which is at the mouth of Tampa Bay.

A message said the first explosion was in the pump room and the vessel began to take in water. Then there was another explosion and the Coast Guard at St. Petersburg received word that the ship was afire and the crew was taking to lifeboats.

The Perama was described as 445 feet long, of 7,236 gross tons. It was of Liberian registry with Monrovia its home port.

RCAF Plane Blast Victims Identified

MONTREAL (CP) — The RCAF have identified two airmen killed in the explosion Friday of their CF-100 jet as Flying Officers Clarence Russell Wright and Michael Gerald Wright, no relation.

FO. C. R. Wright was originally from Riverside, Ont. FO M. G. Wright came from Glasgow, joining the RCAF in 1951.

11 Hurt as Fire Engulfs Wing Of Quebec Convent

SUTTON, Que. (CP) — Fire swept through the wing of a convent here Sunday night as 64 girl students attended evening prayer services and 11 persons were injured fleeing the fast-spreading flames.

There were no fatalities and officials at the hospital in nearby Sweetsburg, Que., said most of the injuries were minor.

House P.A. System Installed Without Calling for Tenders

Contract for installing a new public address system in the legislature was awarded by the government to a Vancouver firm without calling tenders.

Public Works Minister W. N. Chant said the $12,643 job was given to Barvic Engineering Ltd. after specifications had been drawn by his department.

The minister was answering questions placed on the House order paper by George Gregory (Lib., Victoria).

Today's higher horsepowers, greater weight, higher speeds demand brakes with extra margins of safety. Here are four important ways that Studebaker-Packard gives you this additional safety:

1. Largest brake linings. 195.3 square inches of brake lining are carried by the Studebaker Golden Hawk—largest, safest brake lining area per pound of car of any automobile made today!
2. Air-cooled drums. Heat robs brakes of their effectiveness. Studebaker-Packard was first with specially "finned" air-cooled brake drums that actually double the effective cooling surface.
3. Self-Centering. The entire, oversized brake lining area is automatically brought into uniform contact with the drums. Reduces wear and assures unswerving, straight-line stops.
4. Self-Energizing. The forward motion of the car itself helps apply the brakes. You get greater safety, easier pedal action.

Better brakes, superior acceleration, surer handling add up to Command Performance. Drive the '57 Studebakers and Packards at your dealer's, today.

How much is a family man worth?

The example you set your children . . . your unexpected gift . . . a game of 'leap frog' or a 'piggy-back' . . . these are a few of the attentions you bring your family that could never be measured in dollars and cents.

Apart from these considerations, however, you are the one who brings home the pay cheque. Your contribution as a breadwinner has a definite value. Your salary clothes your family, feeds them, houses them, and educates your children. If you and your salary were to be removed from the scene, your family's way of life could still be maintained — in accustomed surroundings, in the same neighborhood, with old friends — if you take the precaution of safeguarding their future through the Sun Life of Canada, one of the world's great life insurance companies.

The Sun Life, of course, can never take your place, but it can replace your salary. To find out how easily this can be done, contact the Sun Life agent in your community. He can advise the proper insurance coverage and he will be glad to discuss your particular situation with you and your wife. You will be under no obligation.

When someone's counting on you . . . you can count on life insurance — Sun Life

'57 HOUSES LONGER WIDER ROOMIER
"Trade in your old car for a '57 model. Your present car may be your down payment. Sign on the dotted line and forget all about it. We do the financing."
Not quite, but almost as easy, you can buy a brand new '57 house that will be longer, wider, roomier than your present one.
"But how," you will ask, "can I bring my house to the trade-in lot and take out a new one?"
Well, advertising space is too expensive to tell you the whole story here. We will guarantee, however, that you will be able to move into your new home straight from your present one, without an intermediate move.

No Down Payment Is Required
Until your present house is sold. We have a wide choice of plans and locations to fit your needs and pocketbook.

In Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Fairfield, Glanford. Prices from $8950.

DR. JOHN BODKIN ADAMS

Manningham Buller said Dr. Adams had prescribed heavy doses of drugs for Mrs. Morrell although a nurse would testify the widow was in no great physical pain. He conceded she was perhaps suffering "neurotic pain."

INDUCES CRAVING

Manningham Buller, asking over and again "why this heavy administration" of drugs, told the jury:

". . . One reason being if administered over a short period it induces a craving for them . . . Dr. Adams was the source of supply."

The attorney-general said Dr. Adams had called on Mrs. Morrell's lawyer to discuss her will just before she died. Buller told the jury:

"The submission of the Crown is that Dr. Adams by the administration of drugs to Mrs. Morrell — drugs given by him and given upon his instructions — killed her and our submission is that those drugs were given to her with the intention of killing."

The Crown also quoted the doctor as saying he did not report a material interest in the will of Mrs. Morrell because he wanted "the cremation to go off smoothly."

PECUNIARY INTEREST?

Manningham Buller told the jury one of the forms the doctor had to fill out for cremation of the body of Mrs. Morrell asked him to state if he had a pecuniary interest in the death of the deceased.

The physician had answered "not as far as I am aware."

The proper answer, Manningham Buller said, would have been "yes, she told me she was going to leave me something." He said Adams had conferred with the old lady's lawyer about a Rolls Royce automobile promised him in her will.

Manningham Buller said Adams, when questioned about this, replied:

"Oh, that was not done wickedly. God knows it was not. We always want cremation to go off smoothly for the dear relatives. If I had said I knew I was getting money under the will they might get suspicious and I like cremations and burials to go smoothly. There was nothing suspicious, really. I was not deceitful."

"But for this false answer there might have been no cremation," said the Crown, "and the Crown might have been in a position to tell you how much morphia and heroin there was in the body of Mrs. Morrell at the time of her death."

The doctor read a bible in his prison cell before being taken into court.

Three Missing Persons Sought by Police Here
City police detectives have been asked to provide information regarding whereabouts of three B.C. persons believed to be in this area.

Seeking his sons Jerry and Bob Croot is J. P. Croot, Fort St. John.

Persons having any information may contact detectives at 2-2100.

The justice minister had been asked by Harold E. Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) about Vancouver newspaper stories quoting Carey as saying he was assigned by the RCMP to stay close to Joseph Gordon.

Mr. Garson said then that Carey's file, when considered for possible commutation of sentence, will include the results of a "very thorough and complete investigation" into the undercover allegations.

The Supreme Court of Canada Feb. 15 refused a new trial for Carey and fixed March 19 as the date of execution. The hanging of Gordon had been postponed to March 19 from Feb. 12. An appeal by Gordon against the sentence also was rejected earlier.

Carey was convicted last April 27 of murder in the shooting of Constable Sinclair Dec. 7, 1955.

Trial evidence established that Gordon had fired the two shots that felled the policeman, who had been sent to Vancouver's Granville Street Bridge area to investigate reports of suspicious persons moving about.

Sea Rangers Stage Swim Meet

Competing were Sea Rangers from SRS Arethusa, Cayuga and Triumph, all of Vancouver; SRS Warspite, Youbou, and SRS Victory, Victoria.

In the Land Rangers group were 1st Beaufort, Alberni; 1st and 2nd Vancouver and 1st Victoria. Banquet at Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall followed the swim.

On Sunday, the visiting groups took part in a church parade to Christ Church Cathedral and were served buffet luncheon at the Scout Hall.

Local association, and parents of city Girl Guides and Rangers, arranged billeting of the 130 girls, and preparations for the banquet, luncheon and church parade were made by the Victoria crew and company.

Duncan Man Re-Elected By V.I. Horsemen

Mrs. H. H. Norcross, also of Duncan, was named secretary-treasurer.

Main topic of discussion was the organization of horse shows and some of the problems of exhibitors which could be relieved in future shows.

Organizations represented were Cowichan District Riding Club, Cowichan branch of the Pony Club of Canada, Melahat Trail Riders of Cobble Hill, Nanaimo Riding Club, and Colwood Trail Riders, Garden City Horsemen's Club, Victoria Riding and Gymkhana Club, and Western Horsemen's Club, all of Greater Victoria.

CADET CORPS ACTIVITIES

City Youths Second In B.C. Rifle Shoot

Young marksmen of 4 Light Anti-Aircraft Battery Cadet Corps fired their way to within 17 points of winning the IODE Challenge Cup for B.C. Area cadet corps rifle competition.

Final results of shoots held throughout the area from about mid-January place Enderby School cadets at the top with 752 points. The Victoria team scored 735 points.

In competition with 89 Kinsmen Squadron Royal Canadian Air Cadets riflemen last week, 4 Battery cadets lost the meet by 10 points, shooting 553 points against 563.

Highest individual score was shot by army cadet Bdr. Ed Walker, with 97 out of 100.

His teammates came out: Bdr. Silva White, 90; Sgt. H. Lumm, 94; Cadet William Barnes, 93; Cadet Daniel Barnes, 94; Cadet P. Barclay, 85.

Vacancies are open in 4 Battery cadets for the rifle team and signals. Information may be obtained from Capt. F. N. Fotheringham, 2-5219, or Lt. R. G. Bosence, 2-7008.

★ ★ ★

The corps soon will start outdoor schemes in field work, map reading and compass reading, slated for early April. Vehicle maintenance and repair and driver instruction will start soon.

★ ★ ★

Inter-divisional sports competition for volleyball and basketball titles in RCSCC Rainbow reaches the play-off level Tuesday night in HMCS Naden gymnasium.

Cup was presented by ex-PO D. M. Bendall, RCSCC, now undergoing basic training in the navy at HMCS Stadacona, Halifax.

★ ★ ★

Rainbow officers will host officers of Admiral Mainguy Sea Cadet Corps, Duncan, and executive members of Victoria branch of the Navy league of Canada next Friday.

★ ★ ★

Annual naval stores and clothing muster is in progress at Rainbow, requiring each cadet to account for complete kit including boots and slicker, for which parents are responsible.

★ ★ ★

Seamen's knives and lanyards were presented to Ordinary Seamen B. Bittner and George Dufour of the junior corps for topping their division in communications exams. Bittner rated 99 per cent, Dufour 93.

Three-Way Tie For Chess Lead
A three-way tie for first place in the Swiss Chess tournament at the Victoria and District Chess Club resulted when T. Antikainen, B. Creed and E. Knapp all posted their second straight wins last week.

No "A" division matches were held last week but there are six going this week.

Reds One Win From AHL Title
By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds won one and lost one in weekend American Hockey League action and now need only one win for their second straight league championship.

Reds downed Hershey Bears 4-3 in overtime Saturday while Springfield Indians were blanking Buffalo Bisons 7-0 and Rochester Americans were taking Cleveland Barons 5-4 in overtime.

In Sunday action, Reds dropped a 3-1 encounter to Barons, Bisons took Indians 5-3 and Bears took Rochester 4-3.

Zellio Toppazzini scored in the last 30 seconds of overtime Saturday to give Providence their win. Paul Larivee with two and Jimmy Bartlett were the other Reds marksmen. Willie Marshall, George Ranieri and Dunc Fisher scored for Bears.

Israel Plans to Drop English Language
JERUSALEM (AP)—Premier David Ben-Gurion and his cabinet decided Sunday to ask parliament (Knesset) to abolish English as one of the three official languages of Israel. If approved, it would leave Hebrew and Arabic as the remaining official languages.

the stork. However, such was not the case. Lester didn't stand on skates until he reached his 10th birthday. Then he received a pair of spring skates, the type you clipped on to your walking boots.

On his 12th birthday, in 1895, his mother gave him his first hockey stick. It cost 25 cents. Sticks in those days were cut from solid wood and the heels were rounded, something like the stick used in grass hockey.

Still, there was no puck for hockey. The kids used tin cans. The Patrick boys were all skating by now and Father Patrick fixed up the back yard so it could be flooded. From then on the Patricks skated long hours for long months and they engaged in a lot of shinny.

It is surprising how a chance contact opens up new worlds for people and sets them on their way to outstanding careers. It was thus with Lester Patrick.

He had turned 13 and was taking quite an interest in Canadian football. One day the Ottawa team arrived in Montreal for a game. Lester was on a street corner wondering how he could see the game.

"Sure do," replied Lester.

"Come on, I'll take you in." Lester hopped aboard the street car, wondering who his benefactor could be.

"Yes," said Lester.

How would he? Lester was enraptured with the thought of hockey and being a stick boy. He told me, this week:

"That's what started it. A chance meeting with Young. I was the stick boy for Ottawa in their games in Montreal. There were seven men on their team and I lived to see the day when I was good enough to play against four of them.

"It just goes to show what a thoughtful act will do for a boy. Maybe I'd have got into hockey some other way but that gesture by Young set me on my way."

The next year Lester was playing hockey in earnest. It was the day of "Street" teams. Every street in Montreal had a team.

"It was quite something," reminisced Lester. "We got pretty good and I was picked on the Street All-Star team. There were seven men and we got wind of an open-air rink we could rent for $2 an hour. We got another team to work out with us and we split the cost at 15 cents for each man, except the goalies, who paid 10 cent each. We figured the goalies were entitled to the small end because they saw little of the puck and it's cold standing in the nets."

Lester graduated from Montreal High School at 16 and entered McGill University the next year.

He did but one year at McGill.

"What happened?" I asked him.

"I failed, that's all," laughed Lester. He did think he might have been a little young for university but it could be he had his mind on hockey more than on his studies.

Lester, however, had revealed to his father, a fondness for business and once university was behind him, the gangling youth found himself on the payroll of his father's wood and coal company with the title of office boy.

That's where we will leave him.

'THEY WERE ALL ACTING SILLY'

Duke of Kent Denied Drinks By Barmaid in Darlington Pub

LONDON (AP)—A barmaid told today how she refused to serve the Duke of Kent and some of his army friends.

Mrs. Vera Smith, a silver-haired woman in her 40's, works in the cocktail lounge of the Imperial Hotel in Darlington, near the camp where the 21-year-old Duke is stationed.

"A few days ago," she said, "The Duke and some other army officers came into the bar.

"They were all acting very silly when they came in. One of them was trying to eat a glass. I told them they would not be served. They began throwing olives about.

"But I had to tell them all off properly when they tried to catch hold of me and get me to dance. The Duke joined in the antics but he was the quietest of the bunch.

"If it had been anyone else, I would have sent for the police.

"But they calmed down and left when a man who had been watching from outside the door spoke to them. I think he was someone to do with the Duke."
